PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Reports upon this market indicate that for certain lines of stock used by paper and glass makers there was a pretty good trade last month, but aside from that affairs were dull, and especially so in way of house painters' supplies, both for exterior and interior work. Nor is the latter line of inquiry likely to expand much as the season is practically over, and buyers will feel no inclination to handle supplies until they commence to prepare for spring trade. There is no apparent scarcity of any kind of stock, and in some instances manufacturers evidently experience difficulty in preventing a surplus production. Prices show the usual irregularity with some cutting on zincs and leads, but no change in official figures. Corroders' rates stand as follows: Lead in oil in kegs and dry lead in kegs in lots of less than 500 lbs., 7¼c. net; in lots of 500 lbs. to 5 tons at one purchase, 6¾c.; 5 tons to 12 tons, one purchase, 6½c.; 12 tons and over, one purchase, 6¼c. Lead in oil in 12½ lb. tin pails add 1c.; in 25 and 50 lb. tin pails, add ½c.; and in 1 to 5 lb. tin cans, assorted (100 lbs. in case) add 2½c. per lb. to keg price. Terms on lots of 500 lbs. and over, note or acceptance at sixty days, or 2½ per cent discount will be allowed for cash paid within fifteen days of invoice date. To make either of the above required quantities any assortment of packages of white lead, red lead and litharge may be counted. The above quotations are free on board cars or boat at corroding point. Linseed Oil meets with no great attention beyond natural channels of trade, and has some irregularities in matter of value, but the general range of figures continues about as before. We quote at 10@12c. for Western, 43@45c. for City from domestic seed, and 61@62c. for do. from Calcutta seed. Spirits Turpentine during the week sold with rather greater freedom, but at irregular rates, although no important advantages accrued to buyers. At the close the offering is careful, and holders exhibit a pretty steady tone. We quote at 29½@30½c. per gallon, according to quality, quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—A movement about as full as could be expected for the season has been reported from day to day, with no new feature of importance developed. Supplies seem to be about as plentiful as the conditions of trade require, and when owners obtain former rates for them they go. We quote Tar at $1.70@1.75 in pine or Wilmington bbls., $2.10@2.15 in pork bbls., and $3.00@3.25 in oil bbls.; Pitch $1.50@1.70.

VOL. LII. NOVEMBER 11, 1893. No. 1,339

THE movements of the stock market are almost wholly professional; they are not entirely so, because there is a demand for first-class investment bonds, which cannot be met, and some signs that this demand will in the near future run over into the other classes. This is seen in the strength displayed by such issues as the Oregon Improvements, Denvers, Laclede Gas, even when the active list is going down. Weakness in the general list only effects bonds to the extent of checking business at intervals, any concessions in prices obtained thereby being only fractional. This is undoubtedly a good sign. With money as cheap and as plentiful as it is, and so little demand for it as now in trade, there are many issues that can be purchased for interest with advantage, although the cream of such buying is gone. Regarding the stocks which participate most in speculative movements, professional as their fluctuations have been in the past few days, they have not been without another and more important character. The advance of Wednesday was certainly an evidence that a class of men noted for shrewdness interpreted the election returns to mean that the public want no interference with the tariff, at any rate just now. The whole business community cries out for a rest, the Democratic as well as the Republican business man joining in the cry. In fact, commerce is very much like an over-doctored sick man who only needs rest in order to recover. The last six months have been especially trying to the business of the country and have left it in a very prostrate condition, so that it is unable to bear any further experiments. An intimation that there would not be for some time to come any legislative interference with either finance or trade would very much assist its recovery. Without any such intimation the reassembling of Congress next month will be looked forward to with more than the anxiety with which the business world ordinarily faces the meetings of our law makers. The vulgar saying: "Give us a rest," comes with particular pertinence and pathos from the trading community just now, and the legislative doctors at Washington cannot do better than grant the request. This is particularly the case now, because, slow although the process is, business is improving; even the fight that seems to be begun among the steel rail makers is a sign of that, because it means simply a contest for rearrangement of the percentage of the increased output that is expected to be necessary in the coming year. In the meantime lower prices may stimulate building. The setbacks and relapses that must come before complete recovery is assured may be many and severe, but adverse legislation aside, there are more reasons for being hopeful than for being gloomy of the future in general trade and in the stock market.

THERE is a certain phase of the economic mind which is very exasperating. We refer to that particular order of intelligence that delights to busy itself with what may be called "long distance" speculations. "What shall we do when the supply of coal is exhausted?" "What will become of mankind when population overruns the means of subsistence?" These and similar mental vagaries, questions which may perhaps reasonably be formulated, but may not wisely be answered, as they extend far beyond the limits of safe inference, are what we refer to. It is, of course, quite possible to gather together a very impressive array of "facts" apparently bearing on such problems, but reason can make no rigorous use of them. Speculation based upon them is merely going to work in a serious way to make a fool of one's self. The trouble is that "facts," even the most stable of those most uncertain articles, have only a very limited range and should never be used by the judicious to cover long distances. For, Time is ever busy metamorphosing "facts," changing their significance, modifying their relationships. It is this trickery of Time, this protean nature of what seems to each generation to be the hard, indubitable world of "fact" that confounds the prophets and disintegrates the very substance of human prognostications. Speculation about the distant future is in most cases merely a more or less crude projection of the present into the temporal void that lies before us. As with a magic lantern, the actual picture is in the instrument in the rear of the spectator. These considerations, however, and the undoubted fact that no generation has ever yet succeeded in making for itself even a tolerably correct image in outline of the age immediately following it do not restrain men from mapping out for us large areas of the future in an easy freehand style, and, as is invariably the case with such cartography, filling it with spectres and chimeras dire.

THE economic mind is particularly given to this pastime, and the pictures produced are generally so lugubrious that the living may well thank Heaven that seven score and ten is approximately the limit of human existence. Economically considered, every future generation is Hell. The last of the prophets made his appearance this week in the Sun. He tells us that the most potent factor in producing the exceptional prosperity so long enjoyed by the people of the United States, viz., the existence of an immense area of unoccupied land of great fertility, will soon no longer be to assist us in our difficult career. With this element of prosperity eliminated, radical changes in the economic, political and social relations of our people will result. The remnant of arable area yet to be occupied is, we are assured, sufficient to meet the requirements of our growing population (according to the present standard of living) for only about eight years to come. What is in store for us it is easy to see. Then will begin the era of economic restriction. The welfare of the industrial masses will begin to lessen. Capital will have to be content with diminishing returns, the manufacturer with smaller profits, the wage-earner with lower wages. The price of agricultural produce will advance, and, apparently, of all classes only the farmer will find his condition improved. On this point our prophet vaticinates thus: "It is held to be an economic heresy to believe that a purely agricultural community can become prosperous; but there is ample reason to believe that the world is about to enter upon a new phase of development that will reverse this idea." Again he says: "For the artisan and laborer, coming changes promise to narrow the horizon socially as well as in other ways by offering fewer opportunities for material advancement—after a somewhat brief period of prosperity, due to the increasing purchasing power of the farmer—and less chance of securing a foothold on the land, if but a modest suburban home, as lands will advance while swarms of competitors, flocking to our shores so long as the door is ajar, will narrow the opening for employment." In short it is a good thing for us that we are not our descendants. We are not told how long it will be before these hard economic conditions settle down in full force upon mankind in the United States, but reading between the lines of the prophesy it will not be within the lifetime of those now living.

WHY is it that economics have always been so hard on the human race—like the raven—a bird of evil omen on the pallid bust of Pallas just above our chamber door? The "dismal science" has long stood threateningly before the Future to daunt him who approaches. Though things not dreamed of in its philosophy have arisen from year to year in human affairs to confound its dark forebodings and testify to the validity of hope in all forecasts of Man's destiny, when discredited it merely removes its gloomy outposts further towards a horizon which widens and brightens as the "uneconomic" being approaches it. It is absurd to found the "economic, social and political condition" of this country upon the area of unoccupied arable land, or to conclude that the welfare of the masses must necessarily be curtailed when the last acre is taken up. The settlement of all public land will no doubt not be without effects "economic, political and social," but we hold that no man is wise enough to foretell the nature of those effects, or

"To sound the bottom of the after-times."

There are no necessary results to be foreseen from the passing of all land into private ownership. Farm land in England has been declining in value for years past while population has increased rapidly and the welfare of the masses improved. Why may not what has happened there happen here? A single invention might change the entire complexion of our affairs. The value of even our most obvious anticipations regarding the future may be appraised by, for example, the truth of the expectations current at the time when the success of illumination by gas and locomotion by steam was assured. How apparent it was to everybody that within a few years the candle would be snuffed out for ever and the horse become an extinct species! The fact is that never were there so many candles in use as there are to-day and the horse has multiplied his kind immensely. The settlement of the last acre of public land may indeed enhance the value of very many of our farms, but there need not be, probably there will not be, as the writer of the Sun supposes, an universal increase of values. The price of land in certain sections and localities may advance, accompanied by stationary or even falling prices elsewhere. It is in cities and in the vicinity of cities that the greatest increase in values will probably take place. There is no reason for believing that the present centralization of population will not continue, and that must mean higher prices for urban and suburban real estate, particularly when the thousands that now seek the western farm lands annually have to turn elsewhere for a livelihood.

The Elections.

THE political revolution of Tuesday last was one of those occasional but always unexpected demonstrations of the soundness, when brought to the ultimate test, of popular morality and popular wisdom which confound the pessimist at the very moment when his judgments seem surest and startle even the profoundest student of contemporary politics. Quite naturally people will be prone to estimate the value of this week's elections by direct effects, by changes brought about in the personnel of government here and there; but the real importance of what has happened lies less in the rebuke administered to the "scurvy politician" than in what may be termed the rehabilitation of the public conscience. Decency and respectability have, as it were, been re-established as factors of prime importance in "politics," and this, too, at a time when they seemed to be of least account. This week's victories are as a trumpet call for the moral forces of the nation to assert themselves again and take the part in political affairs which, in despondency, they had well-nigh abandoned.

It would be very difficult to exaggerate the evil condition of our politics. Rascality never seemed more firmly established in high places, and political shamelessness was never more dominant. It is scarcely an exaggeration to say that nowhere is government in the hands of the "fit." Prevalent misrule is not a matter of Republicanism or of Democracy, as nine out of ten make it, but of men. It is as real under one party's domination as under the other's; as apparent West as East, as rampant in one department of government as in another—in the administration of national affairs, State affairs, municipal affairs and township affairs. Everywhere there is the same taint of malversation, the same strife for personal gain, the same prevalence of low standards of conduct. No great nation was ever so afflicted by "peanut politics," roguery, charlatanry and demagogy. Was the estate of government ever in a lower condition? And if by curious searching in the dirty periods of human affairs a parallel may be found, the discovery would scarcely be of the sort to comfort decent people and assure them of the social welfare.

Of course, it is not to be supposed that we have changed all this in a day by a mere election. Tuesday's events are only of the nature of an encouragement. They will serve as a stimulus to the moral languor of the community which had almost forgotton its own inherent strength. The victory gained was at all points the people's victory. What happened was quite outside the politicians' calculation. It proved, indeed, how full of assumption these latter gentry are. We hear so much of what the "organization counts for," how the Boss has fixed this, how the district leaders have settled that, so that one might be led to imagine that electioneering has been reduced to something like an exact science. A gigantic surprise like that given to the Ringsters on Tuesday has the effect of making these assumptions somewhat ridiculous. There was probably not a politician on either side who had not very clearly figured out a result the exact opposite of what happened. Like the Crimean War, the victory was entirely the "common soldiers'" affair. There was no generalship. If the Republicans had been under able leadership, they would have stamped upon what was a popular uprising, the character of a great party triumph. The commonest thing in the world is hind-sight, still it is apparent that it would have required very little prescience before the election to have foreseen what happened. National opinion moves pendulum-like, and a reaction of some sort from the election of a year ago was inevitable. Besides, the Democratic party and the Democratic press misinterpreted by exaggeration the import of their victory last November. They regarded it as an explicit warrant from the people to lay the axe at the very root of the protective system. Political leaders frequently fail to recognize that popular judgments are almost invariably expressed in exaggerated tones. A year ago the majority of voters were undoubtedly disgusted with that form of protection-run-riot known as McKinleyism. They were sick of legislation in favor of special interests, of a pension system which was but a thin disguise for a wholesale purchase of votes. But, to interpret the election as an unqualified indorsement of Democratic policy in its extreme form was, to say the least, poor political sagacity. The party has paid for its mistake.

It is extremely probable that the Republicans will fall into the same error in their interpretation of Tuesday's election. They show a tendency already to undervalue the moral and the reactionary elements in the Democratic defeat and are trumpeting forth their victory as a partisan one based upon the tariff. The result will be: McKinleyism will be rehabilitated and all the war cries and war flags of the rout of 1892 will be put into service again. One may easily predict defeat for them on those lines.

IT is not to be expected that the members and supporters of the ancient Democratic regime should be contented with the result of the elections in Brooklyn, but we judge that decent people of all political persuasions hardly regard the defeat of the ring with any very deep feelings of regret. Machine politics and irresponsible boss rule had reached a stage of development which reduced popular government to a state of farce or extravaganza. The issue at polls was not between Republicanism and Democracy, but between popular government and the government of a vulgar autocracy. The defeat of the vicious element which for so long held supremacy in municipal affairs means we cannot but believe, a new era of better administration. It will not do, however, for people to be too hopeful. This is not the first time the "ring" has been defeated only to succeed in re-establishing itself after a short interregnum of decent government. In both parties the vicious element is very strong. Its activity is ceaseless and it can be maintained in subjection only by the constant watchfulness of the decent element of the community. What is needed in Brooklyn to perpetuate the victory of Tuesday is the suppression of party spirit in municipal affairs. As Bismarck asked when discussing the government of American cities: "Pray what has politics to do with such plain business as this?" Economy, efficiency and honesty are really not matters with which "politics," as that word is ordinarily understood, has anything to do, and clearly in the administration of a city's affairs the cardinal matters are just these—economy, efficiency and honesty. It seems to us that in the future real estate men should play a far more important part collectively in Brooklyn's affairs than they have hitherto. The interest which real estate has in good government was brought prominently to the front in the last election. As a matter of fact, we do not believe that the value of Brooklyn real estate was seriously impaired by Democratic maladministration. A great deal was made of the fact that taxes are higher in Brooklyn than in New York, which no doubt is true. The best of governments, however, will not alter that, for it is founded on local conditions, on the fact that the city has so great an area and is adjacent to the metropolis. The real evil is not that taxes are as high as they are but that so little is obtained for them. Real estate is never likely to suffer because of any reasonable taxes for the maintenance of good and clean streets, efficient fire and police departments, and so forth. The cost of these services must be proportionately heavy in Brooklyn but owners and lessees of real estate will always be ready to pay for them. Moreover, it must not be overlooked that though in a sense real estate bears the immediate burden of these charges, they do not rest upon real estate, which serves only as the point at which these taxes are collected from the entire community.

REPORTS of the traffic of the elevated railroads of this city, for the year ended September 30, show that the number of passengers carried by the entire system was 214,459,217, said to be an increase of 6,188,536 over the traffiic for the previous year. But there must be some mistake about this, because the official report of the company to the Railroad Commissioners shows that for the year ended June 30, 1892, the combined roads carried 213,692,745 passengers, or within less than 800,000 of the number now reported for the year ended September 30, 1893. The actual increase, if any, is apparently less than 1,000,000. But, conceding the company's figures, the point to be made is, that the system has reached the maximum of its efficiency with the existing structure. The number of passengers carried in 1885 was 103,354,729, and in 1892, 213,692,745—showing an increase in seven years of 110,338,016, or an average of 15,762,574 per annum. But the company's report also says that of the number of passengers carried in 1893, 5,161,800 were carried on the Suburban road, and that this was a decrease of 1,690,094 from the figures for the previous year. The traffic on the Suburban road for the last three years would, therefore, be: 1891, 4,448,319; 1892, 6,851,894; 1893, 5,161,800. This shows a falling off of about 25 per cent in the traffic on this branch of the Manhattan system.

THIS change in the business achievements of the elevated railroad system has manifestly been brought about by two events in the history of passenger transportation in this city. The first of these was the transformation of the old "Huckleberry" horse car system in the 23d and 24th Wards into the Union Railway electric trolley system. The other was the conversion of the Broadway horse car line into a cable line. Neither of these lines has been in operation a full year, and details of the traffic upon them are not now available, but it is apparent to everybody who uses them that they have at least doubled in traffic under their new forms. This is the estimate of their officers. If this is so, it will about account for the normal annual increase in travel in the city. In 1881 the travel on all the street railroad lines, elevated roads included, was 229,215,745, and in 1890 it was 404,398,522, showing an average annual increase of 17,500,000 in street car travel. Of course this has been a progressive increase, the figures showing that it was about 12,000,000 from 1884 to 1885, and about 20,000,000 from 1889 to 1890. The deduction to be drawn from these facts is that the improvements effected by the Broadway cable and Union trolley systems, have met the popular approval and support, and that the conversion of all the horse car roads in the city into electric or cable roads can not be too quickly done. The trolley has its objections, when intended for use in open thoroughfares, but where there is an elevated railroad already in existence, to the structure of which its wires can be fastened, there can be no reasonable objection to its use. The gain would be everybody's gain, but chiefly that of the real estate owner along the line. On other thoroughfares, the underground trolley —if practicable—or the storage battery or cable system, are available for this improvement. Every effort should be made to hasten these improvements. They will go far towards meeting the increasing demand for transit facilities until the consummation of that larger scheme of "real rapid transit," which is in everybody's mind.

BLOCKING THE ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-FIFTH STREET STATION PROJECT.

Harlem property owners are more or less incensed over what they consider the phenomenally selfish attitude of certain owners in the vicinity of 125th street and Park avenue, whereby the progress of a great improvement is arrested. The improvement in question is the construction of an auxiliary passenger station by the New York Central Railroad Company at 126th street and Park avenue, and the bridging of the railroad viaduct at 124th, 125th and 126th streets.

The company own the southeast corner of 126th street and Park avenue, and it is here, on a plot 100 feet front on the avenue by 75 feet on the street, that they propose to erect a station. Engineer Walter Katté has prepared tentative plans, which are in the hands of President Chauncey M. Depew for his approval, but which have been set aside pending the removal of the obstacles which have been placed in the way of the work. The first of these is a question upon the constitutionality of the act which apportions the cost of the work half upon the city and half upon the company; the second is a threatened suit against the company for damages to the property adjoining the projected improvements.

It is the almost universal opinion of Harlem property-owners that the improvements intended by the New York Central Railroad Company would be of great value to the entire northern end of the island. They would produce at once a condition of business activity fully equal to that about the Grand Central Station, and would give to Harlem an individuality and importance of really metropolitan character. It is not doubted that the improvements contemplated would vastly increase the productive values of all the corners on Park avenue, at 124th, 125th and 126th streets. And yet, it is the declared intention of some of these owners to proceed against the company for damages to the "easements" of their properties, if these improvements are made. Except that 125th street is the natural converging point for travel and transportation in Harlem, it would be deemed a proper punishment of the cupidity of the obstructionists if the railroad company would remove its contemplated station to some other locality.

William M. Rossiter advertises for sale or to lease for a term of years, with improvements to suit tenants, an entire block of land in New York City. It is the block between 28th and 29th streets and 11th and 13th avenues and embraces thirty-one full-sized city lots. Here is an opportunity of an unusual character. It is not often that such a compact tract, suitable for such a variety of uses, comes into the market. It can be advantageously used for factory, warehouse or tenement house construction, or for a great produce market, or for a variety of purposes, any one of which would bring a good income. Mr. Rossiter's address is No. 107 Produce Exchange, or 11th avenue and 27th street.

Obituary.

Archibald Wiseman, the assistant steward of the Building Trades' Club, died on the 3d inst., at Newburgh, N. Y.

Upon the opening of the present Club house by the Building Trades' Club, Mr. Wiseman came into its employ as assistant steward, and by his capability, faithfulness, and gentle disposition so won the esteem of the members as to make his loss keenly felt by all connected with the club.

In the early spring his failing health became apparent, but he uncomplainingly continued to perform his duties. Some of the members, however, sent him to the Adirondacks in the hope that he might there recover his health, but subsequently finding no improvement he returned to the home of his sister-in-law, where he was lovingly cared for until the end. The Club members were assiduous in friendly attentions to him during his long illness.

J. Jay Smith, formerly connected with the firm of V. K. Stevenson & Co. and long and popularly known in real estate circles, died on Thursday after a long illness. His funeral will be held to-day from his father's house in East 134th street.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

The lien filed by me against E. J. Nellis on the 3d inst. was not for the purpose of collecting any amount due but in consequence of his failure to execute a contract which I claimed to be in accordance with our agreement and which was in dispute. The matter has been satisfactorily settled and the lien discharged. GEORGE SPAETH.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

Referring to a mechanic's lien filed by this company, on November 8th, against M. Jacobson, as contractor, and Zodikow & Lowinthan, owners, covering premises Nos. 334 and 336 Stanton street, for $624, we wish to state that the same was filed through a misunderstanding, and has been satisfied this day.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The figures dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for further particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

NEW YORK.

BRICKS.—It is a disagreeable duty to be compelled to repeat the unpleasant story of the past two or three weeks. Trade continues slow with a large surplus of stock over the outlet and the value line settling under the adverse influences. Some operators calculate that current arrivals have not greatly exceeded the actual sales, but the trouble was the full accumulation already on hand, which under the circumstances permitted no diminution of the quantity seeking a market and kept sellers at a disadvantage. Quality was good, unusually so it is claimed, and no one could reasonably find fault with the cost, but it was a case of having no use for stock at any price that held buyers in check. Some of the takings this week have been for the purpose of piling out but understood to be by dealers who in midwinter cannot well reach docks if they want stocks, but the majority are still willing to allow the carrying to be done at first hands and accept all the chances of getting a supply from parcels afloat. At points of manufacture moulding has ceased for the season, but during the early portion of this week there were some green brick still on the yards, because it had been impossible to make shipments and clear the way for completion of the work. Pale brick have been neglected, and to sell $1.50 was about all that could be depended upon, although a trifle more is claimed for fine lots of stock.

LATH.—The market has been rather in buyers' favor all the week, but exactly how much it is difficult to say, because details of the deals could not be obtained. At the latest opportunity for information, $2 was given as a quotation, but it was admitted to be top and a further tacit admission made that under any effort to realize a still lower figure would have to be taken. Arrivals were larger and of course "unexpected" with no actual natural outlet awaiting, and while about all the cargoes are now sold it was necessary to go outside the city to find custom.

LIME.—So far as supply may be concerned, it is entirely dependent on the producers who are banded together to keep production and shipments within such limits as they may think the market can get along with, and of late they have made the quantity quite small. They also naturally set the price at which the goods are to be sold, and, of course, receivers have nothing to do but follow instructions or give up the business. Dealers are not making anything like their ordinary fall demand for supplies, and the market is dull, especially for common, as possibly a little more finishing could be placed. A small lot arrived from St. Johns, N. B.

LUMBER.—Our market remains within very small compass and has no really new features of an instructive or interesting character. Even the most sanguine operators, who have been clinging to the hope of better fall trade, now come to the conclusion that it is about as well to abandon calculations upon the revival of demand during balance of the calendar year and pretty much any wholesale business reached will in all probability come as a result of general and hard pounding from the selling side. There are a great many manufacturers and large dealers in bulk lots of stock at interior points, who unquestionably feel quite determined to stop all further proceedings looking to a disposal of their goods at the prices they would now be compelled to accept; but others, either lacking faith in the early future or compelled to realize, are furnishing quite as much of a supply as the market can take care of and possibly a little more. Indeed, reports of agents urging business are of common character, and there is in connection therewith an impression that some pretty easy terms are offered, although both buyers and sellers agree to maintain secrecy where any unusual cut on cost has taken place. Receipts on contract have continued and more reported as coming, but putting together everything here or expected it seems very certain that previous indications of a small winter accumulation will be fully verified. Some fine day there is sure to be a change in the attitude of buyers and the foundation is laid for a revival of trade in liberal form when it does come. From most primal points comes information to indicate a determined effort to make work in the woods very small this winter.

Details of the market are almost useless, as about all grades of lumber are influenced alike, and when an attempt at quotation is made it is generally found best to consider figures as nominal. Every deal of any importance has a special rate unto itself. Receivers of spruce say that shipments from Maine ports have about ceased, and will in future run small from the Provinces, the anxious sellers having forwarded about all the surplus upon which they are likely to force realizing, and it is just as well it should be so, as very low rates must be accepted. Northern stock is coming along on orders, but neither it or State hemlock finds any important new demand. Pennsylvania hemlock has some attention, but the demand by comparison with former seasons is insignificant, and rates must be kept low because of competing grades. Carolina pine has a regular sort of demand at the local mills where the small lots served about suit the present form of trade, but no large parcels are worked through without close and careful negotiation. Yellow pine moves slowly and in an unsatisfactory manner with no certainty about rates except that they must be kept low to secure custom. White pine is unsettled, but favors buyers on all grades and the offerings are fair. Hardwoods generally have simply an ordinary car lot trade, but even that small limit is not sufficient to give sellers any special advantage, and competition leads to frequent modification of the value line when there is desire to catch some particular custom or order.

The Custom House authorities are investigating the handling of lumber for export at this port. The basis for the movement is said to be a complaint received against the methods of the Export Lumber Company by the Customs authorities, stating that "the business and the handling of imported lumber at these yards was being conducted in a very loose and negligent manner." The communication then went on to say that the Export Lumber Company (Limited), was not warehousing or putting into the bonded yards all the lumber it imported, and that every opportunity existed to evade the payment of duty. Its yards at Greenpoint are so extensive that without careful supervision thousands of feet of lumber could be stolen without the theft being discovered. It is said that the company has lost considerable lumber of late.

A dispatch dated Toronto, Can., Nov. 9th, says:

An important meeting of the American lumbermen, who operate largely in Canadian lumber, is being held here. The business is being transacted behind closed doors. It was learned to-night that the most important matter under discussion is the proposed revision of the United States tariff, which now stands at $1 per thousand on pine lumber and $2 per thousand on spruce lumber. All present expressed the opinion that if concerted action was not taken immediately Congress would insist upon the admission of lumber free of any duty and carry the measure through both Houses. The effect of such legislation would force them to confine their interests wholly in Canada. It was also decided to restrict the output for the coming season.

Among the most prominent lumber companies represented are: Shepard & Morse, of New York and Burlington, Vt.; E. T. Cannington, Thomas Grange, C. M. Gates, of Bay City, Mich.; H. A. Batchelor, Saginaw, Mich.; G. B. Peck, Cleveland, O., and T. A. Bliss, of Detroit.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

STATE.

The Albany Argus says:

Business has improved with pine dealers, more lumber having been sold the past week than in any preceding two weeks this fall. One of the largest New York City dealers and two from Brooklyn, after a trip to Buffalo and Tonawanda, returned to buy their lumber here, finding the stock of the better grades much superior here. Box and clear inch are getting a little scarce. Shipments from Tonawanda practically end this week. Spruce is unchanged. Canal freights unchanged.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

An average of reports reaching this office during the week indicates that there has been no recent gain in the distribution of lumber from wholesale points. In several instances it appears that there has been a slight subsidence of demand and movement. The impression seems to prevail that the fall trade is to narrow down early to a winter basis. There is a tendency to mostly cease putting in stocks in anticipation of future demand, though in the majority of instances it is admitted that supplies in retail yards are unusually low. Dealers are buying altogether to meet the current demand for consumption. While this results in restricting trade at wholesale points, it insures the continuance of a steady requirement throughout the winter, for certainly there will be some consumptive demand, and it will have to depend on shipments from wholesale points and from the mills.

At Chicago the market is quiet. Lumber is arriving moderately, and sales of cargoes are made without much delay at quoted prices. Short piece stuff is still changing hands at $10. There is less call for long stuff than usual, and it is now harder work to get extra money for the long lengths than a while ago when the commission men were able to realize 25 to 50 cents a thousand on liberal percentages of such stuff that was sprinkled in a cargo. As a matter of fact the dealers are manifesting no eagerness to buy lumber, but will take now and then a load if they are allowed something to say about prices. Not enough is arriving to make any stir in the market one way or the other, nor is there likely to be before navigation shall close. The amount to come from Lake Superior will hereafter be comparatively small, and cargoes from parts on this lake will drop in only when prospects of sale are good. Within about three weeks the bobbin will be about wound up.

Boards and strips are selling occasionally at about unchanged prices.

Opinions differ as to the actual condition of the poplar market, depending upon the point of view from which observations are taken. On the whole, however, it appears that during the past week there has been an increase in inquiries and more orders are being placed. It is in no sense a stocking up trade, and so far this season no contracts to speak of have been made. When a man places an order now, it is for lumber he wants at once, and wants bad; for that reason it must be dry enough for immediate use. The only reason why a slightly increased activity is noticeable is because retail and factory stocks have been practically used up, and for any work done the manufacturer must go directly to the millman for his lumber.

Prices are weaker than they were three months ago, although many association members still claim to be getting the list. As a matter of fact the price does not cut any great figure with what trade there is going.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman as follows:

Besides wages that are to be paid the men in the woods this winter being considerably lower than in the past, many logging concerns are hiring men on the understanding that part of their pay shall be held back each month, and if they remain until the end of the season they will receive their pay in full. Contractors have been more or less bothered heretofore by men quitting before the season was over, and the new arrangement will probably obviate this evil.

The month of October has been a fair one in the white pine lumber trade, and it is not probable that November will be as good a month, because orders that have been received during the past month have been quickly filled, owing to a sufficiency of cars, and as soon as the orders begin to fall off trade will decline. This is different from the conditions prevalent last year, when orders accumulated in large numbers and some were even cancelled because of the light stock and the inability to ship on account of the car famine. Missouri points are now taking considerable lumber which keeps the trade of the upper Mississippi river men in good condition, and the total output of the Minneapolis manufacturers, for instance, during October this year was a little in excess of the shipments of last year. As far as the volume is concerned this is a good showing, the trouble being that prices are much lower than they should be.

METALS. COPPER Ingot has found a more or less unsettled market, the variations being shown both in quantity of stock moving and the cost, but on the whole the inclination was toward a greater measure of firmness. It is thought that between the amounts wanted on regular home consumption and to fill export orders, and the care that has been taken to adjust production, supply and demand are likely to keep something like a fair balance. On the average range of valuation we quote at 9¾@9⅞c. for Lake and 9⅜@9⅝c. for casting brands. Manufactured copper has developed no new features of special interest. Demand lacks regularity beyond the one point that buyers do not come upon the market until forced to by actual necessity, and that is a form of regularity sellers consider unsatisfactory. The previous line of valuation is preserved and supplies are found available quite equal to the outlet offered. We quote as follows: Sheet, not above 30x72 in., 16 oz. and over, 22c.; do. 14 to 16 oz., 23c.; do. 12 to 14 oz., 24c.; do. 10 to 12 oz., 25c.; do. 8 to 10 oz., 28c.; do. under 8 oz., 30c. Sheets longer than 72 inches add 1c. for 12@14 oz., 2c. for 10@12 oz. and 3c. for 8@10 oz. Sheets not above 36x96 in., 16 oz. and over 22c.; do. 14 to 16 oz., 24c.; do. 12 to 14 oz., 26c.; do. 10 to 12 oz., 30c.; do. 8 to 10 oz., 33c. Sheets longer than 96 inches 22c. for over 32 oz. and add 1c. for 16 to 32 oz.; 1c. 14 to 16 oz.; 1c. 12 to 14 oz.; 1c. for 10 to 12 oz., and 2c. for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets, not above 18x96, 32 to 64 oz., 22c.; do. 16 to 32 oz., 24c.; do. 14 to 16 oz., 26c.; do. 12 to 14 oz., 28c.; do. 10 to 12 oz., 32c. Sheets wider than 18x96 and longer, 22@27c. for 32 to 64 oz.; 25@28c. for 16 to 32 oz.; 27@29c. for 14 to 16 oz. and 29@34c. for 12 to 14 oz. All bath tub sheets, per lb., 16 oz., 26c.; 14 oz., 26c.; 12 oz., 27c., and 10 oz. and lighter, 29@32c. Bolt copper, 3/8 inch diameter and over, 22c. Circles, segments and pattern sheets, 60 diameter and less, 3c. above price of sheets of same thickness; circles, 60 to 96 do do, 4c. do; circles, 96 do and over, 5c. do. Cold or hard rolled copper, 1@2c. per lb. above the foregoing prices. Copper bottoms, 26@32c. per lb. IRON—American pig has reached no features of encouragement so far as can be discovered down to the present writing. Buyers move with continued caution and indifference, the volume of trade making a very poor comparison with what is ordinarily expected at this season of the year and former low prices remain current, with sellers in nearly all cases willing to negotiate with new custom of a desirable character, without an intimation of strengthening valuation. Supplies and assortments are ample for all outlets now open. We quote at $14.00@14.50 per ton for No. 1 X foundry; $13.00@13.50 for No. 2 X do., and $11.50@12.50 for Gray Forge. Old material is almost entirely neglected at times and rarely reaches a point of sale beyond an odd parcel picked up for some special purpose. There is no special effort made to sell stock, but plenty of it found available whenever a call is made. We quote at $14.50@15.00 for old iron rails; $11.50@13.00 for No. 1 wrought scrap; $10.00@11.50 for cast scrap; $12.50@13.00 for old car wheels, and $7.00@10.50 for borings, stove plate, etc. Manufactured iron has only an uncertain demand, and retains a position that seems to lack promise of much, if any, gain during balance of calendar year. Supplies of all kinds are equal to the outlet offered, and the general range of valuations much the same as for some time past. We quote Beams up to 15-inch, 1.75@2c.; 20-inch, 2,10@2.25c. for round lots; Angles, 1.75@1.90c.; Universal Mill Plates, 1.70@1.90c.; Tees, 2@2.15c.; Channels, 1.80@2c. on dock. Steel plates are 1.65@1.90c. for Tank; 1.90@2.10c. for Shell; 2@2.15c. for Flange, and 2.50@2.80c. for Fire Box, on dock; Refined Bars are 1.60@1.90c. on dock, and Common, 1.45@1.60c. Steel Rails have been dull, and none of the transportation companies as yet show an inclination to enter upon contracts for the coming season. The agreement rate remains as before, although conditions are for the time being nominal in a large degree. We quote standard sections $29 per ton at mill, with usual advances for delivery at tide water. Pig lead meets with some demand from regular consumers as urgent wants may arise, but the market depends mainly upon speculative attention, without which affairs would be pretty dull and slack. The offerings are fair, although kept under very good control, and seldom urged to sale. We quote at 3.35@3 1/2c. per lb. The manufactures of lead are quoted at 6 1/4c. for Pipe, 7c. for Sheet, 15c. for Tin-lined Pipe, and 37 1/2c. for Block Tin Pipe. Pig Tin is considered to be in a statistically strong position, with importers' stocks gradually growing smaller. Consumers, however, do not find much to induce investments, and even the speculative deal lacks the force that might have been expected. Tariff legislation is likely to have an important influence upon tin. We quote at about 20.70@20 3/4c. for round lots, and 20 7/8@21 1/4c. for jobbing parcels. Tin plate has been selling in small lots only from day to day, but the aggregate during any reasonable given period foots up very well, and standard goods command former rates quite readily. There is some little negotiation for parcels to arrive. We quote as follows: I. C. Charcoal, Melyn grade, $6.37 1/2@6.50; Charcoal, Melyn grade crosses, $8.00; I. C. Charcoal, Allaway grade, $5.60@5.65; Allaway grade crosses, $6.75; Charcoal terne, M. F. grade, 14x20, $7.75@7.80; M. F. grade, 20x28, $15@15.05; Worcester, 14x20, $5.70@5.75; Worcester, 20x28, $11.35@11.40; Dean grade, 14x20, $5.30@5.37 1/2; Dean grade, 20x28, $10.50@10.60; D. R. D. grade, 14x20, $5.15@5.20; D. R. D. grade, 20x28, $10.10@10.15; I. C. Coke, Penlan grade, $5.30@5.35; J. B. grade, 14x20, $5.40@5.45; I. C. Bessemer steel, squares, $5.60@—— basis; I. C. Siemens steel, squares, $5.65@—— basis. Spelter meets with somewhat indifferent attention from speculators, and consumers' wants appear confined to a few odd parcels. Offerings fair, but kept under sufficient control to insure the support of about former values. We quote $3.60@3 3/4c. for Common Western, according to brand.

As we close information is received that the steel rail combination, which has held the price of steel rails nominally at $29 for months, has finally given way, and a cut of $5 per ton is reported. It is stated that a Pittsburg concern is quoting steel rails at $24@25 per ton at tidewater. At this decline it is hoped that considerable increase of business will be attracted.

NAILS.—Business develops in much the old form. At times quite a little animation seems to be shown among home buyers, with a number of export orders coming in to help the movement, and then demand from all quarters will suddenly die out and leave affairs almost at a standstill. On the whole the conditions have been disappointing of late, and values eased off somewhat, especially for large parcels of stock. Production is being reduced. We quote Cut at $1.00@1.05 per keg for car lots and $1.20@1.25 per keg for parcels from store for iron, and add 3c. per keg for steel; Wire, $1.20@1.30 for car lots, and $1.60@1.65 from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Hopes of an improvement with the turn of the month have not been realized, buyers very generally adhering to the old cautious policy and refusing to negotiate until compelled to do so by stress of necessity. As before noted the line of stock adapted to house painters' work has in particular been slow and it is considered singular and discouraging that such thoroughly staple goods should meet with neglect at a period when, if jobbers see any hope at all, they would be stocking up. Caution, however, is exercised to an extensive degree and a great many operators feel that business will remain narrow and unsatisfactory under fear of tariff legislation. In matter of valuations most of the old rates are named, but constant cutting of a more or less open character takes place, and on white lead it is now in some instances 1/8@1/4c. per lb. Corroders' rates stand as follows: Lead in oil in kegs and dry lead in kegs in lots of less than 500 lbs., 7 1/4c. net; in lots of 500 lbs. to 5 tons at one purchase, 6 3/4c.; 5 tons to 12 tons, one purchase, 6 5/8c.; 12 tons and over, one purchase, 6 1/2c. Lead in oil in 12 1/2 lb. tin pails add 1c.; in 25 and 50 lb. tin pails, add 1/2c.; and in 1 to 5 lb. tin cans, assorted (100 lbs. in case) add 2 1/2c. per lb. to keg price. Terms on lots of 500 lbs. and over, note or acceptance at sixty days, or 2 1/2 per cent discount will be allowed for cash paid within fifteen days of invoice date. To make either of the above required quantities any assortment of packages of white lead, red lead and litharge may be counted. The above quotations are free on board cars or boat at corroding point. Linseed Oil has fair trade demand from ordinary sources, but no special animation, and there is continued irregularity on value of the lower grades of stock. Supplies generally continue ample. We quote at 40@42c. for Western, 43@45c. for City from domestic seed, and 61@62c. for do. from Calcutta seed. Spirits Turpentine has found fair average trade sale, but no great animation. Supplies, however, were well controlled and values held a trifle firmer if anything. We quote at 30@31c. per gallon, according to quality, quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—Demand has been irregular, but failed to reach any great force or volume and the movement of nearly all buyers was stimulated solely by immediate and natural trade wants. Offerings were equal to the call and available at former cost in most instances. We quote Tar at $1.70@1.75 in pine or Wilmington bbls., $2.10@2.15 in pork bbls., and $3.00@3.25 in oil bbls.; Pitch $1.50@1.70.

VOL. LII. NOVEMBER 18, 1893. No. 1,340

THE best conditions of the commercial situation are found outside of the market for securities, of which for the most part of the past week a good description is found in a conversation had in a broker's office, in which one man remarked that there seemed to be nothing but bears in the Exchange, and another replied: "Yes, and they seem to be hibernating." In the speculative issues what activity was seen was on the side of lower prices, simply because the trading element choose to interpret everything that appeared as having a bearing against the values of the few things to which they direct their attention. Their success has not been very great considering the stories they have had to work with. If the public was not apathetic, so far as the Stock Exchange is concerned, the reports relating to the industrials and the Bank of England scandal might have been used much more effectively, but while outsiders have not been buyers, they refuse to be scared out of their holdings. The long stock that comes on the market is no more than is to be expected from the enforced liquidation that always follows a time of recovery from extreme disturbance. The Burlington directors have not improved the situation by maintaining the dividend on the stock of their company at the rate of 5 per cent per annum, but if a smaller dividend would have been wiser as more conservative at the same time it looks rather a dangerous game to sell the stock short when it is selling only about nine points above the panic price of last July and at about the same as in the Baring panic. The supply of investment bonds does not meet the demand, and the poorer issues continue to benefit from that fact and from the immense amounts of idle money in the banks. Regarding general business the balance of news is on the favorable side, if not in large proportions. Returns of the coal output show no falling off compared with this time last year when the business of consumers was good, the movement of freight on the railroads is enlarging, the rise in exchange indicates that importers are commencing to stock up, and if that checks a movement of gold to this side it at the same time indicates that the import trade takes a favorable view of the situation. Most hesitation is naturally seen in the lines that are liable to be affected by changes in the tariff, and they cannot expect to do more than keep alive until they know with certainty on what they may base their calculations. One of the good signs of the times is the readiness that labor shows in the large manufacturing districts to admit the necessity for reduction of wages. The announcement of the sale at auction of 16,000 packages of goods by Messrs. Bliss, Fabyan & Co., for Wednesday next, shows plainly that but little improvement has yet taken place in the dry-goods district. As the yearly sales of this firm amount to over $30,000,000 it will be seen that 16,000 packages, the value of which would be less than $1,500,000, represents only an average three weeks' business, which is not a serious matter.

REAL estate agents and others interested in realty have been grumbling vociferously of late about the dullness of business and, certainly, the weekly filings show that at the present moment there is no particular occasion for lightness of heart or commercial jubilation of any sort. The problem confronting a majority of the trade is: How to make ends meet; though a broker, usually one of the busiest of the fraternity, frankly admitted that the difficulty really was the more remote one of getting hold of the "ends." The condition of the real estate world, however, is not exceptional; indeed, so far as New York realty is concerned, it has passed through the crisis of the past few months with remarkably little derangement or impairment of value. Probably it has suffered less loss than any other of the "big" commodities. The trial of the last six months has demonstrated even to the satisfaction of the suspicious and the incredulous—and there were many such—that much as prices have advanced in recent years there is very little that is truely fictitious and unstable in the values of New York realty. The point upon which hard times have borne heaviest in real estate is building. Activity in that important department has been enormously curtailed. In all our large cities the amount of new operations undertaken since July is of the smallest proportions. In Chicago, the leading architects, even those who rarely are without some work in hand, report for the first time in years "clear boards." In Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Buffalo, the same condition prevails, and in New York and Brooklyn the depression is scarcely less severe. We give below the weekly figures since October 1st for the two cities. The Fall season, of course, is over now, but of encouraging promise for the Spring there is as yet practically none.

IF the information recently made public be true, the silver producers' position has been most unexpectedly improved. Russia's currency is, as is well known, very largely a paper-currency, of which perhaps as much as $500,000,000 is "uncovered." It is now proposed to replace this amount with silver, a very large part of which, naturally, must be drawn from this country, as Russia's present stock of the white metal is estimated not to exceed $60,000,000, supplemented by an annual production equal to perhaps $500,000. This means that for many years to come there will be a market for all the surplus silver the United States can produce. It is impossible at the present moment to verify the story; but at least it is plausible. Russia is much more an Asiatic power than a European. Hard as she has pressed Westward since the days of Peter the Great, and enormous as her territorial growth in that direction has been, it is very clear that the political obstacles now in the way of further progress are practically insurmountable. Expansion Eastward has always been easier for her than expansion Westward. Indeed, politically the road toward the Orient has been more or less an open one, obstructed only by natural difficulties, and by the weak opposition of petty nations and the distant and ineffectual hostility of England. Even in Asia, however, Russia now holds very nearly everything that she can obtain under existing conditions either by force or by strategy, and it is said to be her present policy to endeavor to unite to herself by the ties of commerce those countries contiguous to but still politically independent of her. One of the necessities of a policy of this kind is plenty of current money, and as silver is the favorite currency of Oriental nations, Russia, it is said, has decided to proceed at once to replace her "uncovered paper" with silver.

BEYOND question, the Democratic party has fallen somewhat from public favor since its great triumph at the polls at the last Presidential election. Should there be a national contest to-day, the probabilities are that it would be driven from power. This loss of popular good-will is, in some degree, well merited. Certain decidedly objectionable elements of the party and certain very noxious individualities have come prominently to the fore in the past twelve months, and while it cannot be said that they have dominated party action, they have imparted to party principle the shifty, vulgar air of ward politics. In addition, the party has exhibited lack of unison on party questions, and the effect of dissension within the "lines" is invariably to unsettle the public mind and to throw public judgment to the support of opponents who have ready a "cock-sure" programme. The President, it is true, has lost little, if any prestige, by the events of the last few months, nevertheless relentless criticism, not always just to be sure, has revealed some discrepancies between his pre-election promises and his post-election practises. Besides, the public will not estimate the character of a party by the actions or principles of one man or of a small group of men, but by a rough average of the deeds and character of all its members. Apart, however, from causes for dissatisfaction of the kind we have instanced the Democratic party undoubtedly has been placed at some disadvantage by being successors to, and, as it were, the heirs of evils produced by Republican misrule. The Silver difficulty was a legacy of trouble obtained from previous Republican administrations; the present straitened condition of national finances is also an inheritance from the same source, and the really colossal task of harmonizing a multitude of conflicting interests in even amending to a moderate degree the excesses of the McKinley tariff is dangerous work, for which the Democratic party is not in the first instance responsible. It is not an easy matter to correct great mistakes in national polity or to remove with a stroke adverse conditions deeply rooted. The wisest and best intentioned of administrations might fail in accomplishing the reforms which the Democratic administration party has undertaken to bring about. The public, will, however, after the manner of the public, surely be impatient of delay and intolerant of mistakes, and will, of course, record its disapproval or disapprobation of anything done or left undone by returning to power, whom?—queer paradox!—the party originally responsible for the evils. The Democrats, certainly, have a difficult road before them, and political success, so far at least as the next Presidential election is concerned, will in our judgment largely depend upon the condition of the business affairs of the country in 1896. If trade then be good, it will be very hard to convince the people that Democratic policy has been bad, whereas, if trade be dull, the Archangel Michael himself would not be able to justify Cleveland and his party to the American public.

Our Federal Buildings.

AGITATION concerning the condition and sufficiency of the Federal buildings in this city has been in progress for at least as far back as the advent of the present generation. In the words of the old phrase, "The mind of man runneth not to the contrary." At no time during the last half century have the government buildings in what is really the capital of the Western World been either worthy of the dignity of the Government itself or adequate to the needs of the City. The policy which the Federal authorities have apparently followed through all administrations has been to meet requirements when they attained to the urgent stage by makeshift expedients or by a species of "action through procrastination" which has always produced inadequate and unsatisfactory results. As examples of what this kind of management produces there is the Custom House, located, as everybody knows, in an old hotel of the last generation, on land valuable enough if sold to erect a commodious and even handsome building on less costly ground elsewhere. There is also the Assay Office, a small three-story structure, occupying land of value out of all correspondence either to the building itself or the purposes to which it is put. Then there is the Post-office, a monument of official incompetency in art matters, built after a long agitation, ten years later than it should have been, and with so little foresight regarding provision for the future, that now it is quite ten years behind the requirements of the public. We may also add that were this structure not a Federal building it would probably be condemned by the Board of Health.

No one, therefore, will deny that there is reason for the movement on foot in Washington to inquire into the condition of the Federal buildings in this city and to determine with some degree of positiveness what the real requirements of the metropolis are. Everybody will admit the need that exists for action upon some definite plan. Two years ago we enjoyed an acuter phase than ordinary of the agitation about the Custom House and the Appraisers' Stores, and the matter was successfully brought to a stage of action. Sites were determined upon both for the Custom House and for the Appraisers' Stores. Only the latter, however, was actually secured, and now, after many months more than would be sufficient for private enterprise to erect and complete a modern office building of the largest class, the public may perceive at the corner of Christopher street and Greenwich street a few vertical iron posts in position and some of the girders that carry the first floor. So there is something of a chance that the Stores will be ready for use by the time the commerce of the port has outgrown the accommodation the building will afford.

But the larger project, that for the Custom House, still remains, so far as work done is concerned, as much a project as ever. In July, 1892, the report of the appraisers concerning the new Custom House site on Bowling Green was filed in the office of the Clerk of the United States Court and there apparently the matter rests. The probability of action is at present very slight. The authorities in Washington are inclined to act with promptness suitable to the time of Noah, when the life of man was half a millennium and society was in the patriarchal stage.

The easiest thing, of course, is to lay the blame for the condition we are in on the Government authorities, and then proceed about our business with that splendid indifference to public matters which characterizes the average New Yorker. This policy, no doubt, will save a great deal of bother, but it is not without its disadvantages, one of which is that it does not procure for us the improvements we need. Other cities, where public spirit is more active than with us, are stepping in with their claims upon the Government and get served while New York lumbers along in the old way. It is time that our people bestirred themselves in behalf of their own interests. The political situation in Washington—and that has to be counted upon—is now particularly favorable for New York. Any positive request from the metropolis will undoubtedly receive careful consideration. The movement for the bringing of the Committee we have spoken of to New York should be publicly supported. If it is not, an opportunity which has been slowly arriving and may not speedily come again will slip away from us.

IT is the duty of everybody interested in the welfare of Brooklyn real estate to attach his name to the petition which is now being circulated, for the purpose of having the Real Estate Exchange, on Montague street, appointed as the place where all Kings County judicial sales shall be held. Business common sense suggests the project. It should have been carried out as soon as Brooklyn was supplied with a central Auction Room. At present, judicial sales (of which there are a large number every week, involving important interests of many people), are held in scattered places, and under conditions very unfavorable to the best interests of all concerned. We have known days when there have been sales, at the same time, in the Eastern District, in Willoughby street, in Boerum place and in the dim rotunda of the County Court House. Clearly this is not the way to give each piece of property the benefit of the whole market. The Exchange is obviously the proper place for such transactions.

A WIDESPREAD disappointment pervades the real estate market over the failure of a more marked recovery from the depression of panic times. Some improvement there has been, and a firmer feeling characterizes all business circles, but the buoyant promises of speedy recovery and sharp advances, after the passage of the Wilson-Voorhees Repeal Bill, that were so freely made while that measure hung in the balance, have not been realized. Undoubtedly the prophecy business was overdone, but there are good and substantial reasons why the recovery should be as it has been, a process of slow growth rather than of booming. In the first place, real estate did not suffer any such serious decline in prices as did other forms of investment and there was consequently less to recover. Then, too, it is as true to-day of real estate as it ever was that it is a subject of active trading only when other lines of business are prosperous. An illustration of this fact was given this week. An operator had about concluded a sale of dry-goods district property to an Eastern investor who is already the possessor of several such properties. The intending purchaser came on to close the transaction, when, immediately upon his presence being known, he was beset by agents and tenants demanding reductions of rentals for next year. He was so impressed by what he heard that he abandoned the purchase, for the present at least, and returned home. It is said, however, that he succeeded in renewing about $100,000 in leases at the old rates while he was in the city. Inquiry throughout the dry-goods district elicits the information that in some cases renewals of leases are being made at slightly lower rents—5 to 10 per cent—but for not to exceed one year. The general market conditions at the moment are best reflected by the fact that outside buyers are making their appearance in the auction market, and that not all the property being sold under foreclosure is falling into the hands of the plaintiffs. Some new houses in West 70th street, sold under foreclosure on Wednesday, brought from $1,200 to $3,000 over the encumbrances, and within $5,000 or $6,000 of their fair market valuation. That is about the way prices run in these days, even at private sale, except in the case of down-town and 5th avenue business property. Property of the latter description is held firmly and parties who have been willing to buy at bargain prices have failed to get what they want. The loan market continues to improve and money can now be had in any quantity at 5 per cent up to 60 or 65 per cent of the appraised value. But it will have to be still easier before it will be any material aid to active trading or to active building. Some apprehensions are expressed of slight disturbances in commercial business after New Year's, when accounts of stock are taken and trial balances struck that will show weak spots in the financial situation, and will tend to check the advance now in progress; but notwithstanding all apprehensions, the feeling is universal that New York City real estate is on the upward tendency, and that the early spring will show substantial gains and a market that has recovered its normal activity. Taking one thing with another, prices are not likely to go any lower, and the investor who acts now upon the advice of a responsible broker can make investments upon which he is likely to be able to realize fair profits.

A Correction.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

In your issue of November 11, 1893, you stated that the old St. Nicholas Hotel, on the southeast corner of Washington place and Mercer street, will shortly be demolished and a new business structure erected on the site. Of course this could scarcely be done on my property without my knowledge, and at present I have no intention of making any change in my hotel that already contains every appointment and convenience of a first-class apartment hotel. I have leased the hotel for a term of ten years to a co-operative company who will manage the same in the future. Hoping you will give this the same prominence in your paper that you gave the injurious report.

JULIUS A. ROBINSON.

Brokers and Brokerage.

SOME REFORMS IN THE SYSTEM AND IN THE ORGANIZATION SUGGESTED.

On his regular rounds among the real estate brokers THE RECORD AND GUIDE reporter has lately asked the question of many of them: "Whom do you represent in a real estate transaction, the buyer or the seller?"

In merchandise, or bill, or ship, or insurance, or exchange brokerage this question would meet with a ready and unequivocal answer. In all these branches of business the conditions are so rigid, the things to be bought or sold so staple, that little is required of the broker beyond introducing the principals to each other and making known the terms and transmitting the order which, so far as he is concerned, completes the transaction.

In real estate brokerage the conditions are so different that there is little wonder that many of the brokers hesitated and "talked around" the question before they were able or willing to express a definite answer to it. Often the question disclosed a spot in the business education of the broker that was lamentably weak. Evidences were not few that many had never given a thought to the meaning or legal relation of real estate brokerage, the profession in which they were trying to gain prominence and profit. The answers were contradictory. A few said, "I represent the seller." These were found on the upper West Side of the city, where the speculative builder is the customer for whose favors there is always a hot competition among the brokers.

Others again answered, some with hesitation, as if they still doubted the correctness of the answer, but did not wish to confess an unprofessional weakness of decision, that they represented the buyer. "If a stranger was to come to me to-day," said one, "and ask me to buy a house for him, I should consider that he was my client and I would try to make the best bargain for him that I could. Why shouldn't I? Why should the owner—the seller—claim any consideration from me? Although he may have left descriptions of his houses with me for sale, and have given me his terms, even his 'bed-rock' prices, hasn't he done the same thing with every other broker on the avenue? He has given me no exclusive agency in the sale of his houses and if I were to try to get a good price for the owner, the chances are that I would lose my customer and my commission to boot. The very next broker would tell him he could buy the house for one or two thousands less than I had offered him and, having once gotten that notion into his head, there would be no chance of selling the house to him at any less figure. No sir" (having now apparently built a substantial foundation for his belief), "I am the agent of the buyer, every time."

"Who pays your commission?"

"W-h-y" (with apparent confusion), "the seller pays the commission, of course—it is the custom of the business," was the answer, and then, argumentatively: "Why should that make any difference?"

"Does it make no difference?"

"Not that I can see."

This was also an up-town West Side broker. People in the real estate brokerage business are manifestly influenced more by the prevailing local conditions than they are by any broad, general, prevalent principles governing their relations to their clients. The views above set forth seemed to have been forced upon the brokers by the conditions existing in their particular field of operations. The building of houses and flats for the market has been carried to such an extent on the West Side that there is nearly always a supply of such properties somewhat in excess of the demand. If the prices of such properties were always ascertainable by reference to the published quotations of the market, the ministrations of the broker would be simple and always within the limits of legitimate brokerage. But the broker who in this district should endeavor to preserve the even middle course would soon be without clients. He is required by his surroundings and by the intense competition in his profession to become a partisan, and as the safer course lies in becoming the agent of the home buyer or flat investor, he takes that course—and prospers. But then he ceases to be a broker and becomes an agent—an agent whose commission is paid by the opposite principal.

This anomalous condition sometimes prevails in the lower and settled portion of the city as well, but not nearly so often. Here it is at least tacitly assumed that the buyer and seller are respectively looking out for themselves, and the work of the broker is more nearly representative of both parties. Here, too, it most frequently occurs that the broker receives his pay in equal parts from both principals. The values of property in the business sections of the city are by no means staple, bat they are more easily ascertained because they are based upon a more general and accepted system of rules. Wherever the character of the neighborhood is settled and the experience of years and the course of events have determined the uses to which property is likely to be put for some years to come the value of a piece of property is almost as easy a computation as the present value of a six months' note. It is determined by the income-producing capacity of the property, and as this is a matter of comparatively easy demonstration it remains only for the principals to agree upon the price, and that is a matter of negotiation in which the broker plays as simple a part as if he were negotiating the sale of United States Government bonds. Cases have occurred in which a consummation was reached only when it was agreed to "split" the broker's commission, each principal paying half.

But there are brokers to whom the question is not new, and who have given it serious consideration. And it is to their credit that they have declared themselves not at all satisfied with the present condition of things. The whole body of real estate brokers in New York City compares favorably with any other body of professional men. True it is, that upon the surface it seems an easy thing for a man of average smartness to gain a foothold in the business; but the tide of men who are constantly flowing and ebbing into and out of the profession, testifies to the mere superficiality and falsity of this view. No one knows better than he who has failed in real estate brokerage, that as clear, definite and peculiar attributes of heart and mind are necessary to make a successful real estate broker, as are necessary to success in any other profession. So that while there are many wrecks of other professions and callings constantly striving for position in the real estate brokerage profession, and while the profession includes its full quota of objectionable members, the average of character, intelligence and respectability is quite as high as it is in any other profession.

It is not surprising, therefore, that some of its leading representatives should be dissatisfied with the present status of the profession. One of these, a man of long experience in his business, an owner of and trader in property himself and an old member of the Real Estate Exchange, squared himself for a long talk when the reporter put the question to him: "Whom do you represent in a real estate transaction, the buyer or the seller?"

"There, by that question," he said, "you have opened up a matter that is ripe for consideration. The relation of the real estate broker to the buyer and seller of real estate and to his professional brethren is a question which has never had scientific consideration or treatment. You are likely to receive a different answer to that question almost everywhere you ask it, but there ought to be one definite, decisive answer to it. A broker ought to feel just as certain of his relationship to his client as a lawyer does to his, and the fact that there is doubt about the question and that the broker's commissions are often the difference over which a 'deal' splits and fails to go through shows that it is high time the matter was taken up by a competent, organized body and settled by positive declarations that would be supported by the law.

"As it is in this neighborhood (the district west of Central Park) there is hardly any protection for the broker who tries to deal fairly by both parties. This is the district, as THE RECORD AND GUIDE well knows, of the speculative or merchant builder. He is in the business of building houses and flats and stores and stables for profit, of course. Well, when one of these builders begins a row of houses or flats, or whatever they may be, we know that they are not for his own use, but are intended to be put upon the market at once. Well, every broker on the West Side immediately enters them in his books—some without any warrant whatever from the owner, but in most cases with his consent; and it rarely happens that any broker is given exclusive sale of them. The builder gives his asking price to every broker who inquires for it, and to some, a half dozen or so, he will give the minimum figure at which he is disposed to sell. Now, the active and energetic broker will at once try to find buyers for these houses. Suppose he succeeds in getting a party interested in them; he takes him around and shows him the property, talks them up, trying to deal fairly with both the builder and the buyer, and flatters himself that he is about to close the transaction at a figure which will insure the builder a moderate profit. Suppose now, as is generally the case, the intending buyer takes a little time for consideration; he wants to consult his wife or his partner, or he wants to look into the financial question a day or two: the chances are that some other broker has been having his eye upon you all the time, and has set some one or two of his satellites to shadow the buyer to his place of business or his home. When they get him located they will not hesitate to intrude upon him with offers of similar property, and I have known of instances where they have wormed out of the buyer the price at which he was about to buy and have then told him that he has been asked too much—that I am representing the builder too faithfully, and that he can secure the property for him at a lower figure. Now if I have already introduced this buyer to the owner, this intrusive broker cannot sell the house and thus beat me wholly out of my commissions, but he can spoil the trade, defeat my intentions and switch the man off to other property.

"In cases of that kind I am not the only sufferer, for the builder, by having his property in everybody's hands, don't you see, has laid himself open to just such meddlesome and destructive interferences. Now, if instead of trying to do fairly by both parties, I had taken the buyer alone as my client, I would have given him the benefit of my whole knowledge of the builder's conditions, and would have sold him the house at the lowest price at which I had reason to believe it could be obtained; and you know how it is with these builders—sometimes they are cramped for ready money and are willing to take a profit of only a few hundred dollars on a house where they ought to have a couple of thousands, just to ease the burden of interest and taxes, and expecting to make up the average legitimate profit on the rest of them. Now that's a fair statement of the condition of things on the West Side to-day. It reduces the brokerage business to an undignified scramble and fixes a very low standard of professional feeling and conduct.

"What I would like to see would be an organized effort to put the profession on a better footing. The Real Estate Exchange would be the proper body to take the matter in hand, if it were organized on a broader basis and if it had not succeeded in getting the auctioneers by the head. I am much afraid that it will not do anything for us and that a new organization will be necessary to do what is needed for the profession. As it is now conducted it is not likely to branch out anew. A body that would be effective, to my way of thinking, would be an organization composed entirely of brokers and auctioneers and operators who are directly connected with real estate transactions. It should not endeavor to be a dividend-paying corporation, but should afford its members all the facilities offered by the present Exchange and the Broadway Salesroom and some others besides. It should require a stricter scrutiny of applications for membership and should establish and maintain a high order of professional conduct.

"Once organized I would like to see such a body provide in its organic laws that transactions in real estate should always be conducted by a broker representing each party and that each broker should be paid by his own client—that is, that the buyer and the seller should each pay half of the present commission to their own brokers respectively. There would never then be any doubt as to whom the broker represented, and the arrangement would be mutually beneficial to the seller, the buyer and the brokers. Dishonest and irresponsible persons could be weeded out of the profession by the action of such an organization, and a higher professional standing would be established.

"Under that order of things a builder would give his property into the hands of one broker exclusively. If any other broker applied to him he would refer him for all transactions to his broker. If a buyer should apply directly to him he would be referred to the broker. Then, if a stranger should apply to me to buy a house, I would show him what I had on my own books for sale and if I did not have anything to suit him I would have no hesitation in showing him the lists of my brother brokers. If I did chance to suit him with some property of which I had the exclusive sale I would be entitled to the full commission, but in that event the buyer would, if he were wise, consult some other broker and conduct the remaining negotiations through him. Thus the buyer and the seller would both have the benefit of expert advice without any increase over the present cost to both of them; the seller would be more fairly represented and the buyer could never be imposed upon. There would be no loss to the members of the profession, for what they would lose by dividing the commission they would gain by increase of business.

"But the chief benefit would accrue from the improved professional tone that would be imparted by such an organization and such a system of rules. Instead of finding it necessary to defend yourself against your professional brethren, you could meet them in perfect confidence, giving and taking information, knowing that in helping them you would be helping yourself also. Competition between brokers would disappear in co-operation, and a fraternal feeling—an esprit de corps—would be established that real estate brokerage has never yet tasted the benefits of. Such an organization could maintain a strict discipline upon its members, visiting penalties upon the fractious and underhanded which would make it difficult for them to do business thereafter, and could materially aid in building up the character of the profession. I cannot but believe that such an organization would at once have the confidence of the real estate public as no existing organization has it, and would ultimately exclude from the brokerage profession all dishonest and irresponsible persons. The result would be well also for real estate as a property, for it would make it more marketable."

The reporter suggested that in his outline of a new organization of real estate men, the broker must have taken the Stock Exchange as a model. To this the broker replied: "I had no such idea in mind, but now that you have mentioned it there does seem to be a similarity. But, should that not be a point in favor of my suggestion?"

AS BAD AS POCKET-PICKING.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you kindly publish your opinion on the following: A man who is married is passing title on property and makes an affidavit that he is unmarried. Purchaser takes title, seller dies in a year, and widow, who knows nothing of transfer, looks for her dower right in property. How would the purchaser, or one to whom he would sell, stand in the case? This question has been submitted to two real estate lawyers who cannot answer. By publishing same you will oblige

A SUBSCRIBER.

Answer.—The purchaser, or one whom he would sell to, would be obliged to pay the widow's dower. There is no more protection against such a transaction than there is against having your pocket picked, except by getting your title examined by one of the Title Guarantee and Trust Co.'s, which would then lose the money.—LAW EDITOR.

"Inquirer"—There is no rule of the profession governing such cases. It is usually a matter of agreement preceding the work done. We think a commission—of say 20 or 25 per cent—upon the net earnings of your joint endeavor would be about the fair thing.—EDITOR.

AS TO "LIMITED" JOINT-STOCK COMPANIES.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

A, B and C form an unlimited stock company, A and B each holding four shares. C holds the rest. Is each stockholder liable for the full amount of the company's indebtedness should it fail? Could an agreement be made, and the company be still unlimited, by which A and B would be liable for only the amount of stock they hold, while C is liable for the full amount? What does the word "limited" after a company's name signify? CLERKS.

Answer.—"Limited" means that the liability of a stockholder is limited by the original articles of incorporation to the money he paid in, that is the full par value of his stock; but the New York statute for such limited companies seems to have been repealed. [The corporation law of this State is in a terrible jumble at the moment, being in a sort of transition state; very few lawyers would undertake to say what were the effects of the law on the subject passed by the Legislature in 1892.] But our correspondent can rely on this, viz.: that all that A and B ever could have been, or now could be, liable on their stock in an unlimited company is $400 each, over and above the $400 each paid in (that is, the par value of the stock, assuming the latter to be $100 per share). No such agreement as suggested could very well be made, and none would be needed, for that is the law now. Note—An exception exists in favor of employes' wages in certain cases.—LAW EDITOR.

Obituary.

JOHN CURRAN.

John Curran, a well-known contractor of Brooklyn, died at his residence, No. 1177 3d avenue, in that city, late last night. He had a stroke of paralysis on Tuesday, and this was the cause of his death. Mr. Curran was fifty-eight years of age and has been a contractor for the last twenty-eight years and had charge of many public and private works, many of which, in the 8th Ward, are left unfinished. He leaves a widow and four children.

November Meeting of the Sketch Club.

The regular November dinner and meeting of the club were held in the new rooms, No. 1473 Broadway, on the evening of Saturday, the 4th inst. In spite of the very disagreeable weather there was a large attendance and the meeting was of unusual interest. The guest of the evening was Mr. Hughson Hawley, who after the dinner addressed the club on the subject of rendering architectural perspective in water colors, illustrating his remarks by making a sketch. After putting on the general first wash and a few shadows to explain the principles he advocated, he cut from the stretcher the sketch he had been making and showed beneath a finished water color of the same subject, which he presented to the club. Mr. Hawley commanded the close attention of the members and at the conclusion of his address was enthusiastically elected an honorary member of the club.

Seven drawings were handed in for the competition on artistic rendering from a poetical quotation. A criticism by Mr. James Renwick was read on the design for a Gothic rose window and the last month's competition. Second mention was awarded N. Hauseman and third to H. H. Braus. The author of the design placed first was not known at this meeting.

Classes in water color and pen and ink drawing will commence this month, the first class night to be the 10th inst.

An Important Firm Change.

The real estate fraternity will be interested to know that Mr. George S. Lespinasse, who occupied for so many years a prominent position in the profession, has, since his return from Europe, after an absence of a couple of years, allied himself as special partner with the firm of Brooke & Georger, of No. 54 West 34th street, which will be known henceforth as Lespinasse, Brooke & Georger. There are few men in the city better acquainted with the history, condition and possibilities of New York City realty than Mr. Lespinasse, and the new alliance cannot fail to be of importance not only to the parties directly concerned, but to real estate owners, investors and others. The firm, which does a general brokerage business, makes a specialty of the management of estates, and the placing of investments.

Grammar School, No. 9, northeast corner of West End Avenue and Eighty-second Street. C. B. J. SNYDER, Architect.

A New West End Public School.

Architect C. B. J. Snyder, Superintendent of School Buildings, is the designer of the public school building, an illustration of which is published herewith. It will be known in the records of the schools as Grammar School No. 9, and is designed to replace the antiquated, primitive structure on the northeast corner of West End avenue and 82d street. The site measures 100 feet front on the avenue by 150 on the street and the building will nearly cover it, being 96.6x145 in superficial dimensions.

It is to be of fire-proof construction throughout, with steel beams, fire-proof floors and partitions and staircases, red tile roof, with copper gutters. The front will be of yellow brick, Roman shape, with limestone basement and coign trim—limestone sills and lintels. There are to be two kindergarten rooms on the first floor and the balance of the floor will be given up to play room. REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE MATTERS.

At recent meetings of the Board of Directors of the Real Estate Exchange a sentiment strongly in favor of concentrating the management of the Exchange in the hands of active real estate men was manifested, and principally among those who were not directly engaged in real estate trading. As a result the ticket nominated by the committee appointed for that purpose includes four agents, four auctioneers and five brokers, all in active business. They are as follows:

Horace S. Ely,	Richard V. Harnett,
George R. Read,	George De Forest Barton,
Edwin A. Cruikshank,	J. Romaine Brown,
Samuel F. Jayne,	Douglas Robinson, Jr.,
Hermann H. Cammann,	Alfred E. Marling,
William Cruikshank,	Frank Yoran,

Clermont L. Clarkson.

With reference to the proposed changes in the Board, President Geo. R. Read, of the Exchange, said, while approving the principle which prompted it

"I am sorry to say that we shall lose the services of Edward Oppenheimer, Charles S. Brown, James E. Levinesss, Cornelius W. Luyster, Ira D. Warren and Isaac Fromme, all of whom have refused nomination on the new ticket. Messrs. Luyster and Fromme were offered renominations to the Board, but they declined and were earnest in advocating the concentration of the management in a Board made up of active real estate men entirely. I cannot speak too highly of the services they have rendered in the various offices they have filled. Neither they nor their friends derive benefit from the privileges of the Exchange, but they have been our stanchest friends during the period of difficulty through which the Exchange has passed."

RIVERSIDE PARK WATER FRONT.

The future of the Riverside Park water front, from 72d to 125th street, was substantially settled by the action taken by the Board of Street Opening and Improvement yesterday. The West End Association had been active in the circulation of petitions and in otherwise stirring up the sentiment of West Side owners on the subject, and yesterday appeared before the Board in a large delegation of representative citizens to present their petitions. Among them were Cyrus Clark, Frank R. Houghton, J. Edgar Leaycraft, Col. J. Hamilton Hunt, Assemblyman Judson Lawson, James Culgin, F. M. Jencks, W. W. Brower, Jno. S. Sutphen, Theo. F. Wentz, S. G. Bayne, Alex. Walker, Emerson Coleman, J. V. D. Card, Scott Foster, T. I. Ormiston, F. G. Bourne, Alf. Corning Clark, and their counsel, James A. Deering.

President Cyrus Clark, of the West End Association, presented the petitions, which numbered nearly two thousand, and urged the Board in a short and spirited address to take action to prevent the use of the water front, except at 79th and 96th streets, for other than park uses. Mayor Gilroy raised a question of jurisdiction which Mr. Deering explained away to his apparent satisfaction, and then, on Mr. Deering's suggestion the Board adopted a resolution declaring in favor of the extension of the westerly boundary of Riverside Park to the bulkhead line of the Hudson River, making provision for the Hudson River Railroad tracks and for piers and bulkheads at 79th and 96th streets—and referring the matter to the Park Board to determine the exact lands to be included in the park, after consultation with the Dock Board and a committee of the property-owners.

A DENIAL FOR THE MT. MORRIS BANK.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Your strictures in to-day's RECORD upon the opposition of property owners adjoining the proposed new station of the N. Y. C. R. R. in 125th street are scarcely justified by facts. It is true that some ill-natured persons circulated the rumor that the officers of the Mt. Morris Bank in 125th street claimed that such a station would injure their property, but I believe these gentlemen are too public spirited to seriously contemplate any obstruction to the erection of the station in 125th street.

The Mt. Morris Bank does almost exclusively its business with residents and property owners, who would greatly benefit by a station that would make 125th street the natural depot for up-town traffic and consequently the shopping centre of the surrounding suburban population.

Any serious obstruction by the Mt. Morris Bank officers would call forth a decided protest from its depositors.

Yours respectfully,

NEW YORK, Nov. 11, 1893. H. C. F. KOCH.

THE HOTEL MARIE ANTOINETTE.

The eight-story fire-proof hotel, erected by W. L. Flanagan on the northwest corner of the Boulevard and 66th street, has been christened the Hotel Marie Antoinette. A. E. Kirby, formerly steward of the Hotel Savoy, will be its manager, and it is intended to have it ready for business about February 1st next.

BROOKLYN'S TAX RATE FOR 1893.

The Board of Supervisors met on Monday and confirmed the Brooklyn tax rate for 1893. The rate is $28.473 on $1,000 valuation, an advance of 74.4 cents over last year's tax rate, the figures then being $27.729. The increase is said to be due almost wholly to the increase in the State tax, which this year is $1,253,258.29, as against $927,496.98 for last year, an advance of $325,761.31. The increase in the State tax raises the city tax about 60 cents on $1,000.

GLASS BENDING.

B. & W. B. Smith, of No. 220 West 29th street, who have fitted up many of the largest and handsomest stores in New York City and throughout the country, found it necessary to bend glass for their own work, being unable to get it done well enough in this country, and it requiring too long a time to get it from Europe. They built buildings and kilns at Flushing, L. I., to do the bending satisfactorily. Not having sufficient work of their own to keep the works busy they are ready to take work for other parties. They only want to do work for those who will appreciate good work and pay a reasonable price therefor. Glass will be delivered when promised. Messrs. Smith will answer all letters of inquiry or will be glad to have interested parties call at their office, No. 220 West 29th street, New York City.

A QUESTION OF AWARDS.

The Babcock & Wilcox Co., of No. 30 Cortlandt street, this city, were exhibitors of steam boilers at the World's Fair. During the last few weeks of the fair they kept a significant notice posted on the front of their exhibit. The notice, which explains itself, was as follows:

THESE BOILERS HAVE RECEIVED NO AWARD.

WHY? READ! LEARN!

"We were informed that it was the purpose of the jury to make awards on boilers based entirely upon the written statements of the exhibitors of boilers, without tests or any personal knowledge in the possession of said jury concerning the comparative construction, operation, economy, or durability of said boilers.

"We were asked to make such a statement, and were informed that all other exhibitors of boilers had been requested to make a like statement of their claims for the consideration of the Jury of Awards.

"Believing that an award, based on such insufficient knowledge on the part of said jury, could be of no practical value, and notwithstanding the expense incurred by this Company in making an exhibit, we respectfully declined to make any such written statement for the purpose of receiving an award upon our boilers.

"While we do not in the least envy those who have, upon such knowledge by the jury, been awarded premiums, we are equally content to stand upon the record without an award based on such a knowledge of our goods."

LEASE FROM LIFE TENANT.

To the Editor of The Record and Guide.—If I lease a piece of property for ten years from a party to whom the property is left by her father by will, the income to go to her as long as she lives; after her death the property to go to her children. If the party should die at any time before the expiration of said lease, is the lease good for full length of term?

Answer.—No. The life tenant may only execute a lease valid until the termination of the life.—LAW EDITOR

CONTRACT.

To the Editor of The Record and Guide.—Please give me advice on the following questions of law: A sold lot to B for $250 on agreement to pay $60 on delivery of agreement and the balance of $190 in five years at 5 per cent per annum. A pays all taxes until B pays the $250, then A agrees to give B a warrantee deed. Now B puts a shanty on the lot without the consent of A, which is a detriment to the other property adjoining. A has notified B to take the shanty off, but B goes right ahead with the work. What can A do to make him take it off, or has B a right to build on the lot before he has a deed?

Answer.—If under the agreement B has the right of possession of the premises before he has a deed he has a right to put up his shanty, unless there is in the agreement something to forbid it. If B has not the right of possession A may remove the shanty.—LAW EDITOR,

MORTGAGE—EXTENSION.

To the Editor of The Record and Guide.—Please answer in your RECORD: Suppose a mortgage is made out having somany years to run, with the privilege of renewal, would a new mortgage have to be made out in case party should desire an extension, or would a written agreement from holder be sufficient; and would said agreement have to be recorded; and (2) would this be binding even with heirs in case of either's death?

Answer.—It would be well to have an extension of the mortgage executed and recorded. It is not necessary to have a new mortgage. (2) Yes.—LAW EDITOR.

REQUIREMENTS OF HEALTH DEPARTMENT.

To the Editor of The Record and Guide.—In August last a notice was sent by the New York City Health Department notifying me to do certain work in a dwelling house. Part of requirements of this notice were complied with and one was left undone because it was not necessary. The next thing was a summons on November 2d to appear in court to answer an action for $200 fine for not complying with all the requirements contained in the notice. Because it was shown that this one requirement had not been complied with judgment was given for the Health Board. What redress have I?

Answer.—If there was a hearing your only remedy is to appeal. If judgment went against you by default you may apply to have the default opened.—LAW EDITOR.

Poor's Railroad Directory.

Poor's railroad directory and railroad manual is an indispensable requisite to every well-furnished office where railways are dealt with. Long continued publication has resulted in the improvement of every succeeding issue, so that the last is always the best. The "Directory of Railway Officials and Manual of Street Railways," revised to October, 1893, has just come from the press and is full of new features, chief among which is a "Buyers' Guide," which will be found valuable by all in want of railway and structural supplies.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

NEW YORK.

BRICKS.—For Common Hards the market remains under the influence of almost prostrate consumption, and an entire absence of anything to encourage dealers to pile away stock. It would be fortunate if manufacturers could universally become discouraged and entirely cease shipments, but the steady leaking out of a few cargoes at various points along the river keeps an accumulation here that is far in excess of the demand and quite annoying to receivers who endeavor to find an outlet. The most trying feature of the situation is that buyers have not a word to say against the cost, many even commenting upon the remarkable cheapness of stock, but showing conclusively that they have no use for it at any price. What is to be done with the brick here is something of a problem. Manufacturers evidently want them sold, and have no present intention so far as can be learned of putting the barges in berth and covering, because there is so little promise for winter trade. A stoppage of further shipments might help work off such accumulations as are now here even if it did not result in raising the price. The end of the producing season has of course been reached and there is a hope that may prove an instrumental factor in reducing shipments, because there will be no further necessity for making storage-room at the yards.

CEMENT.—Like every thing else in the line of structural material cements of all kinds are slow. Domestic grades on calls from the interior and to furnish local dealers with such stocks as they propose accumulating sell fairly, and the same general features apply on foreign, but the call is far below the average for the season, and unlikely to expand. Prices are quoted as before, although on foreign grades there is uncertainty with general inclination in buyers' favor.

GLASS.—A certain amount of business is doing with dealers, and the larger consumers, who are compelled to replace assortments run down during the summer and fall, and to get a working stock for winter trade. The movement, however, is neither as large as usual, not even equal to expectations of those who were willing to allow for some falling away as a natural result of general business conditions. New fires are being started and production gradually increasing, but since the disintegration of the combine prices have been quite unsettled and are likely to remain so until the conditions of business suggest a renewal of uniform action among manufacturers.

LATH.—General conditions have not greatly changed during the week, but at the close the position seems to be a trifle firmer. Arrivals were lighter, have been pretty closely sold up, and claims of moderate amounts on the way and a cessation of shipments comes from operators who are least likely to be in error in making such assertions. Nothing above $2 appears to have actually been reached, but receivers tell about asking more money for parcels to arrive. Dealers claim to be sufficiently stocked for probable winter wants.

LIME.—It may possibly be well to record that the market is nominally unchanged, but that is about all that can be said of the position. Old rates are asked and, with only an odd cargo coming along now and then, there is little pressure to realize, but, of course, manufacturers would be better pleased to find a broader and fuller demand, and possibly were such assured, rates would not remain quite so high.

LUMBER.—With practically no improvement in the demand, reports continue of the old dull and unsatisfactory form. A little more stock has gone out of yard, but only to meet the requirements of contracts previously booked, or in response to some ordinary trade order from regular local custom. Dealers have also given greater attention to first-hand offerings, and thought it worth while to close some very good-sized contracts for thoroughly staple goods, but all of that was simply in accord with previous calculation as to coming movement, and has not really reached the magnitude expected. In fact, no really new custom is represented, all orders are far below the average for the season, and there seems to be no probability of an increase until next spring at least. The manufacturing interests drawing upon this market for supplies is more likely to retrench than expand investments during balance of the year, and wherever there is a suggestion of gain in building operations, it is of structures contributing very little to the consumption of lumber. Agents, both local and traveling, have been canvassing the market with much freedom again, and naturally coming in constant competition, which has of course worked to the benefit of buyers and kept values low and unsettled, with quotations retaining many of the old nominal characteristics. Latest advices from primal points indicate considerable inclination to go right along selling lumber wherever custom can be found, and it is said that the little additional movement natural before the close of navigation has led to fuller preparation for work in the woods than was originally intended.

Spruce has continued to find a more or less uncertain market, but with no apparent tendency to gain of strength. Offerings were not quite so plentiful as during the period immediately preceding our last report, and we have learned of one or two receivers successful in getting pretty good rates, but the average run of bids was low and indifferent, and when it became necessary to hunt up custom buyers generally named their own figures. State Spruce has arrived to some extent in execution of orders. Piling remains under neglect, and there seems little chance for improvement in trade before spring.

Hemlock is not doing particularly well. Now and then it may be possible to place a little stock, but demand is not naturally full or continuous from any quarter and rates still have to be kept low in order to secure the few floating orders. Offerings are ample and can be increased if needed. Carolina Pine shows no change of an important nature. There are claims from buyers of considerable better terms of late allowed, but most sellers insist that they are doing quite as well as at the commencement of the month, and indeed for that matter a trifle better, though of course the comparison with last year would not show up in quite so favorable a light. Reports from the mills are somewhat firmer because they are getting the touch of a little increase of fall trade.

Yellow pine has undergone little or no change, and the position of the market is largely nominal at the moment. There is said to be some increase in the number of specials tendered for bids, but always with a caution that figures must range very low, and the selling side seems to appreciate fully the propriety and necessity for meeting the views of custom. White pine does not meet with much additional demand from any class of custom that will reduce the stock, but dealers have been buying a greater amount in the way of shippers and box and will have it come forward. They have mostly tried to calculate probable wants but feel that if they have anything over it will be all right at the cost.

Hardwoods meet with nothing in the way of demand calculated to help the market, and business moves along in very much the same general form for such a great while prevailing. When an agent has anything for sale and desires to secure custom he must hunt for it, as it is a decided rarity to have buyers take the initiative in opening up negotiations. It is common to quote prices "about as before," but quite as common to discover every evidence that there is a cut for all kinds of stock and now and then a deep one. For instance, poplar is looked upon as valued at about $31.50@32 at least for inch, but quite a line of stuff recently sold inside of $30. Similar results develop on other kinds of stock. The fresh call on export account is only fair, but stuff is going forward under old engagement.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

STATE.

The Argus reports on Albany market as follows:

Only about three weeks of the active season in the district remain, and there is very little of the usual snap about fall trade. Pine houses, with one or two exceptions, report dull times. Spruce is in fair demand and supply, and prices as revised have apparently reached rock bottom. Hemlock is scarce. Tonawanda canal freights have advanced to $2.25 per M, with boats reported scarce. Half a dozen or more firms are still bringing lumber from Tonawanda.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman remarks as follows on the Chicago market:

The market is described by the commission men as neither lively nor very dull. The yard men are not going after lumber eagerly, but when they are called up and informed that certain cargoes are to arrive, they are willing to go down to the market and look over the tallies and the loads when they are tied up at the market. Generally there is no difficulty in working off cargoes under such a procedure. Shipments from the mills are moderate, and are graduated to what the trade will take without the necessity of concession of prices. Some lumber will continue to arrive while the waters of Green Bay and Lake Michigan are open, but there will be no heavy receipts this season. Little will hereafter come from Lake Superior. The last tows are on the way to this port.

Piece stuff is still selling at $10 for strictly short, $10.50 for mixed short and long, and $11 to $11.50 for long. That will be about the closing figure for the season.

Boards and strips are selling at the figures previously quoted. The demand is not very active. A cargo of good lumber from Frankfort was sold this week at about $17 a thousand.

The market for shingles shows no improvement. Such lath as arrives are disposed of without delay.

Little hemlock has recently arrived. One cargo of piece stuff was lately sold at $7 a thousand.

The freight rate from Menominee and Marinette has advanced a shilling a thousand on green lumber, and rates from other Lake Michigan ports are likely to soon advance in equal ratio.

Much has been said of the comparative falling off in the movement of lumber in this market during the present season. The following table of figures will shed light on the relative outward movement from the yards in 1892 and 1893. The record includes the nine months of the years named, ending with September:

	1893.	1892.
January	109,111,285	93,834,088
February	100,320,620	147,391,765
March	162,004,446	165,662,150
April	144,680,759	188,801,805
May	194,294,126	197,778,061
June	177,174,162	213,474,838
July	138,166,413	182,244,240
August	130,111,273	232,641,168
September	107,358,708	258,477,066
Total	1,263,521,992	1,680,305,181

It will be seen that the trade of this year started out in larger volume than that of 1892, but fell off somewhat in February, doubtless on account of the severity of winter weather, which hindered local consumption as well as shipment. From February onward through the spring and early summer months, though trade was fairly good, this year it was not as large in volume as in a corresponding portion of 1892, though numerous buildings were being erected on account of the World's Fair. In June the decline of movement as compared to that of June, 1892, was especially marked, because the panic was beginning to have a paralyzing effect on credit and the consuming industries. Still, distribution was remarkably well maintained in June, of this year, considering the circumstances, there having been sales and shipments of 177,174,162 feet as against 213,474,838 feet in June, 1892. Less lumber was disposed of in July than in June, and less in August than in July. The falling off in comparison with like months of last year should be particularly observed. In September there was a large gain over August, yet the amount disposed of was about 150,000,000 feet less than in September, 1892. The results of October will probably show as well as those of September, and probably slightly better; but trade in October was disappointing at best. It can be plainly seen by the figures how the panic and resulting stringency curtailed the lumber trade of this city.

Reports from the mills are to the effect that there is a slight increased inquiry for poplar, but the low priced concerns are still doing the bulk of the business. On rush orders, and there are a number of these, there is little difficulty in getting association prices, but buyers who can wait a reasonable time for their lumber and do not require it too dry are able to get concessions of from $1 to $2 a thousand. The indications are, however, that this condition will only last until manufacturing establishments get to going full blast, when the market will again be restored to a firm basis.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman as follows:

The talk a few weeks ago of lumbermen of the Northwest was decidedly along the line of an extensive curtailment in the log cut of the coming winter. It was the general belief that if such a course was carried out by the Wisconsin and Minnesota lumbermen next summer would find them in a far better position in the white pine market than they would be should they go ahead and slaughter the standing timber regardless of circumstances. Now, however, the casual observer coming in contact with the lumbermen and loggers of the leading lumber districts, finds that the situation is being viewed from a somewhat different standpoint. While six weeks ago every man who owned standing timber positively declared that he would cut no more than from 10 to 30 per cent of the usual amount this winter, now it is the rule, rather than the exception to find these same men asserting that they will probably curtail their winter's log crop from 25 to 30 per cent. Why this sudden change in heart? The Lumberman has all along advocated the policy of curtailment in the log cut and believes that it is just as necessary for the best interest of the trade of 1894 as was the curtailment in the season's sawing. It is hard to find a lumberman, too, who will not admit that this position is well founded. The reports received at this office from logging centres of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan all indicate to a more or less extent that the curtailment expected a month or six weeks ago will not be carried out. It is believed that the Minneapolis lumbermen will not cut, or contract to have cut, anywhere near the amount of logs they banked last year. The Minneapolis lumbermen now have in the river left over for next year at least 350,000,000 feet of logs, which, if sawing is not rushing next year will almost suffice for the season's sawing and the coming winter they need only to bank a stock of logs sufficient to begin the sawing season of 1895 with. Outside of the upper Mississippi river region, however, the indications are that the curtailment in the cut will not be so very large. What the outcome will be remains to be seen. It is a hard matter to make any prediction at this early stage in regard to the winter's logging.

ENGLAND.

The London Timber Trades' Journal as follows on Hardwoods:

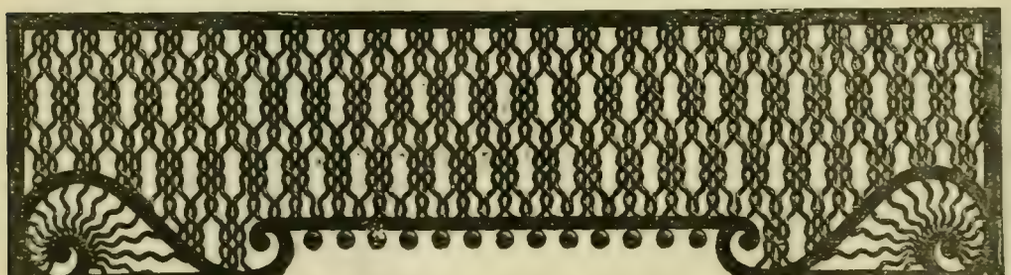
Stocks of elm, ash and oak are plentiful, but this class of wood is generally in strong hands, and auction sales are less frequent than in other kinds—birch, perhaps, excepted; though oak now and again comes under the hammer, the public sales form no index to the market prices. Elm is abundant in this country, and of fine growth, too; yet somehow the foreign article makes headway in our markets and, for certain purposes, gets the preference. In large parks, where the home-grown timber flourishes, the owners are averse to cutting it down, and it only comes on the market when thinning-out takes place, and the same with oak, beech, ash, &c. From abroad a regular supply can always be depended upon. The best seems to come from the Dominion, and we noticed in Lavender Pond, Surrey Commercial Docks, a splendid sample of rock elm from Quebec, out of the Netherholme, some of the pieces being over 50 feet long and of large size.

Birch squares, which only a few years since used to be a big item in the trade has lately fallen off, and the present time, which in corresponding past years had seen contracts closed for the following spring, is conspicuously barren of fresh business, or even inclination to business. It is expected that next season will see very much the same prices as this year, viz., £5 5s. to £5 15s.

Cuba mahogany continues to flow into the London market; such a plethora of this wood has scarcely ever been known, but still it comes, directly by cargoes, and also indirectly in large parcels by steamers, via Hamburg. The effect of over-supply must be palpable to all, added to which some of it is being held at unsalable rates, we suppose awaiting a turn in the market; but this policy is not likely to produce the desired effect. Until the glut is cleared, or partially so, there will probably be no advance in price; while concession in this respect might quicken the demand. There is one thing certain, while there is such an abundance of small wood in the market, the price for it cannot increase. We know not why such a large quantity is sent here; perhaps money is wanted on the other side—they have the material, and know where to send it to be converted into hard cash at any rate.

Figury wood seems to be at a discount, and does not seem to go off as formerly. We notice several logs of fine Spanish mahogany which were offered at a recent sale are still on hand. We did not think the price at which they were bought in was immoderate, and are surprised that they have not gone off since. We fear in the furniture trade elegance of material gives place to utility, and both to cheapness in these hard times; but still should have thought choice Spanish figured wood for veneers would always be in request.



NAILS.—The demand fluctuates somewhat, but only in natural course, and with few evidences of an inclination toward higher level. Indeed, the full supply and irregular manner of its offering keeps the market in an uncertain condition, and there is a great deal of grumbling among both manufacturers and dealers, especially as there seems to be really very little hope for improvement until after the turn of the year at least. There is a present effort to keep down the production. We quote Cut at $1.00@1.05 per keg for car lots and $1.20@1.25 per keg for parcels from store for iron, and add 3c. per keg for steel; Wire, $1.20@1.30 for car lots, and $1.60@1.65 from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Consumption is not up to the average at this season of the year and all intermediate classes of operators, down to the manufacturer and importer, are moving with caution and an effort not to handle a greater amount of stock than may be necessary to carry them over the turn of the year at least. Sellers in some cases act a trifle anxious and that leads to irregularity on price, with big odds in favor of customers who can give prompt cash settlements. The general line of colors, dry and in oil, sell principally in small lots. Of Litharge the large consumers have not been buying as freely as a month ago, probably owing to supplies already engaged and in large part delivered. Zincs have sold very well at about steady rates. Red lead rather dull. White lead selling in natural proportion, but at quite irregular rates. The combine asks former figures and probably cuts secretly, while the outsider slashes in openly and makes the best terms possible. Corroders' rates stand as follows: Lead in oil in kegs and dry lead in kegs in lots of less than 500 lbs., 7¼c. net; in lots of 500 lbs. to 5 tons at one purchase, 6¾c.; 5 tons to 12 tons, one purchase, 6½c.; 12 tons and over, one purchase, 6¼c. Lead in oil in 12½ lb. tin pails, add 1c.; in 25 and 50 lb. tin pails, add ½c.; and in 1 to 5 lb. tin cans, assorted (100 lbs. in case) add 2½c. per lb. to keg price. Terms on lots of 500 lbs. and over, note or acceptance at sixty days, or 2½ per cent discount will be allowed for cash paid within fifteen days of invoice date. To make either of the above required quantities any assortment of packages of white lead, red lead and litharge may be counted. The above quotations are free on board cars or boat at corroding point. Linseed Oil meets with a fair average trade demand, for which the supply is ample and at about former cost, crushers apparently having suspended hostilities for the present at least. We quote at 40@42c. for Western, 43@45c. for City from domestic seed, and 61@62c. for do. from Calcutta seed. Spirits Turpentine is without animation and the business confined almost wholly to the usual small lots wanted by regular trade for current requirements. Offerings appear ample, but not excessive and owners' ideas firm at former rates. We quote at 30@31c. per gallon, according to quality, quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—There appears to be no class of custom likely to infuse any real animation into the market at the moment. Demand has been only from regular trade sources, and of a character and volume readily met, while sellers have appeared reasonably well satisfied when they could obtain former rates. At primal markets conditions are about steady. We quote Tar at $1.70@1.75 in pine or Wilmington bbls., $2.10@2.15 in pork bbls., and $3.00@3.25 in oil bbls., Pitch $1.50@1.70.

VOL. LII. NOVEMBER 25, 1893. No. 1,341

THE demand this week for investment securities of every class, the growth of which has been noticed for two weeks past, has assumed much prominence and large proportions. This was to be expected from the large amount of money that has been accumulating in the banks and which the coming statement will show to be still greater. London has been induced to buy by the declaration of the regular dividends on Northwest stocks, having taken this as an assurance from a conservative management that the outlook for business on the great railroads is better than present returns would indicate or at any rate that the losses that have been sustained already, and may be expected in the near future, will be offset by the results of the long run. Properties that are even more distinctly Vanderbilt than the Northwest are receiving a good deal of attention in the belief that the dividends that will be declared in the near future will be equally satisfactory to stockholders, and it is well to bear in mind that at this time of the year New York Central, Lake Shore, Michigan Central and Canada Southern usually rise in price in advance of the declaration of the annual extra dividends which are usually declared in December. The securities of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas road are all favorably spoken of, notwithstanding the advances they have already made on the approaching completion of the system as a carrier between the Gulf and the Mississippi and Missouri rivers, which will certainly give it much greater ability to command business than when it had to rely on Missouri Pacific connections for its outlet. Generally there is in the stock market a prospect of higher prices for any securities that carry with them fair assurance of reasonable return. Others will of course sympathize to a more or less extent in any advance that is made. Something of a setback has been given to industrials by the circulars of the Cordage Reorganization Committee, which shows the usual disinclination of the managers of this and similar industries to take their stockholders into their full confidence. The development in other insolvent institutions have had a favorable influence on the minds of the public and on the securities affected. The preparations for getting to work on the reorganization of the Union Pacific may be instanced in this connection. Another good feature was the result of Fabyan, Bliss & Co.'s sale, at which some of the goods obtained better prices than they had actually been offered by the large jobbers of the country. A Wall street house has just arranged to raise $3,000,000 for the development of an enterprise, half of which will be expended on work in this city in the next eight months, and represents not only the giving of employment to a large force of workmen, but also a readiness of capitalists who have been holding back for months to venture their money in new deals. There are no doubt other and larger ones than this already made, or for which the preparations are being made, which, while they make no noise now, will be heard of with great effect some months to come. From all this it will be seen that there has been a great gain in the sentiment of the business world; people are looking at the situation more hopefully and thinking improvement is possible, which is only a step from making it.

THE transactions of the Rapid Transit Commission are verging on opera-bouffe. Their proceedings, so far as anyone can see, are farce, not business. Having exhausted all the cranks with rapid transit schemes the Commissioners, apparently, have sat down to exhaust themselves and pass out of existence in vacuity. We hold that the Commission is exceeding its functions by making a joke of the rapid transit problem or by reducing to an absurdity the present situation of this unfortunate city. True, it is bringing to its logical conclusion our illogical methods of dealing with a practical problem. In demonstrating to us that a system of transit cannot be devised by popular clamor, newspaper chatter and the imaginings of a parcel of cranks the Commission has no doubt performed a service of no mean importance for New York, but that work has now been amply accomplished, and having discredited everything the Commission should be sagacious enough to refrain from discrediting itself. It is now perfectly plain to everybody with eyes that there has been nothing real in all the agitation of the past eighteen months. From the very first nothing could be—and still nothing can be—done toward providing New York City with better transit facilities save through the Manhattan Co. and the municipal authorities. Neither of these has chosen to move, and so all the palaver and expectancy that has attended the movements of the Commission have ended in barrenness. The city has been waiting for an impossible offspring. The old woman should be packed about her business. Is not the position of THE RECORD AND GUIDE clearer than ever? From the Manhattan Co., and from the Manhattan Co. only, can New York obtain any immediate measure of relief. That company consequently should be permitted or compelled to construct additional tracks on its present structures and operate its system to its fullest capacity. The complete rapid transit system, however, meeting all the needs of the city—tracks from the Battery to the Yonkers line, express trains making forty miles an hour, local trains where every traveler may find a seat for a five-cent fare—cannot be provided by private capital. It wouldn't pay immediately, might not pay for years, might never pay directly. Such a system would, however, pay the City were the City itself to undertake the enterprise. The municipality can borrow money at low rates, lower rates than a private corporation can, and it will not water its stock, and as in the case of the Manhattan Co. have to earn interest for fictitious capital. Moreover, the City would derive indirectly from the construction of an adequate system of transit revenues which can never fall to private enterprise. We refer to the larger returns yielded by taxation due to the retention of people within the city limits, the expansion of population within those limits, and the improvement of much real estate which is now practically out of the market, being so difficult of access. But to return to the Commission. Pray let it refrain from its sittings if they must be of the character of the last ones, or if it be going through a perfunctory exercise of its duties awaiting the developments of any plan of which it is informed, let it say so. There was a story on foot before election that certain City officials were interested in a company which would apply to the Commission for the franchise early next year. The election, however, knocked over so many political and quasi-political plans that it may be this rapid transit scheme, if it really existed, fell with some others.

THE proposal to establish an income tax in order to provide sufficient federal revenue indicates very poor judgment as to public opinion and very limited resources as to taxation. It is very safe to say that the plan will surely meet with defeat. If it is not killed in Congress or condemned at the polls, it will certainly be brought to naught in the process of enforcement. As with the existing tax upon personal property, it will be rendered nugatory by perjury. People will "swear off" to the uttermost penny possible, and even enjoy conscientious satisfaction in doing so. It is argued by the advocates of the plan that an income tax is a just tax, and that any tax that is just and necessary, as the proposed one is said to be, is a good one. It is certainly debatable whether any tax that is utterly repugnant to the sentiments of a people can be a good tax—for them. In the present case, however, there are so many other ways of getting at the same result without running against popular antipathies, that there can be no question at all about the unwisdom of the scheme which, it is said, the present administration is decidedly favorable to. The people of this country object to the inquisitorial nature of an income tax. It isn't the tax upon income that is distasteful so much as the methods and disclosures which that tax necessitates. There is, however, a method of reaching a man's income by indirect ways, and the surprising fact is that this method has not received at least some attention in Washington. We refer to the French Income Tax. In France the Government taxes incomes, but it does so through rents. It is well known that statistics have demonstrated very clearly that rent bears a tolerable fixed proportion to a man's whole income. In France it is something like one-tenth. In this country it is about one-fifth. The French plan makes rent the basis of what is really an income tax. All people whose rents are under 500 francs ($100 a year) are exempt, or more correctly speaking, their part is paid by the local authorities from funds obtained by whatever is the ordinary method of raising revenue. As to rents above 500 francs, they are taxed in an ascending scale, so that man whose rent is only 1,000 francs a year has top ay proportionally less than a man whose rent is say 15,000 francs a year. This system works excellently in France, and it is well to remark that any method of taxation that works well in that country is presumptively a good one, because, although the French people are to-day the most heavily taxed in Europe, they bear their taxation, heavy as it is, more easily and with less grumbling than any other nation in the world. We see no reason why the French system would not work well in the United States. It would be a tax upon incomes, and it would be scarcely more inquisitorial than the present tax upon real estate; indeed, it would be very similar to the latter. It could be almost as easily levied, and would be almost as difficult to evade. Finally, the present machinery of taxation could be used. The present real estate assessors would be competent to assess for the new tax.

"Labor" and "Socialism."

SO much is said in this country, chiefly for political purposes, about the "pauper labor of Europe" that there has been fixed in the minds of a very large number of our people the notion that the "workingman" abroad is a dull, underfed human beast whose only excursions into the larger life of his times are made as a rioter in conflict with the police or as an anarchist loaded with dynamite. We scarcely ever think of him as a thinker as, viewed collectively, perhaps the most virile and progressive force in Europe. Certainly he is the most aggressive force. It is he that supplies by far the larger part of what ferment there is to-day in European political and social life. He is apparently the effective element of the time, the power that is disintegrating the present order of things and will be the chief factor in the new.

"Labor" in this country has nothing like the innovating force that "Labor" in Europe has. Our "working people" in thought and organization and programme are at least ten years behind the "paupers" of Europe. The latter are the leaders in a movement which is destined to be, as Democracy was, a universal movement, in which all peoples will take a part, and it is the certainty that by and by "Labor" in this country will be following more or less closely in the footsteps of its transatlantic brethren that imparts so much interest for us to certain events which occur from time to time abroad, but of which our people know little or nothing.

The cause for this ignorance lies with our newspapers. They have such restricted ideas of what is news. They will cause to be cabled over to them a long account of the escapade of some actress, or some political gossip that is almost light enough to be blown across the Atlantic, but scarcely a word will they say about even so important an event as the meeting of the Trades' Congress, which was held some time ago in Belfast. This Congress was composed entirely of labor representatives—a body of delegates who stood and spoke for nine millions of workers. The proceedings were significant. They demonstrated very clearly that the laboring classes of Great Britain have formulated for themselves an orderly programme, which, notwithstanding whatever label the world may put upon it, is not so much the result of vague theorizing as the product of hard experience, which has been shaped by friction with antagonistic conditions. However deceived the delegates may be in their plan for ameliorating the status and condition of those they represent, it is plain that they are endeavoring to solve the problem to which they have addressed themselves, upon practical common sense principles. They do not intend to be visionaries if they can help it. They intend to keep their feet on the ground. Though they have set before themselves a goal which may prove to be a Utopian and inaccessible one, the conveyance they have adopted to reach it is the same that carries most people from the place they are in to the place they wish to get to.

It has been said that the amendment carried at the Belfast Congress puts a new complexion on British Trade Unionism. That is the fact. The labor programme is henceforth to be a political programme. "Labor" has decided to make of itself a party. The workman is to use the franchise for his own ends. Other party interests are in a large measure no longer to be served by the labor vote. As to the Labor programme, the platform upon which the labor representatives are to stand is frank Socialism. Candidates must pledge themselves to support the principle of the collective ownership and control of all the means of production and distribution. The State is to be paramount in Society. The capitalist and middleman are to go. To many people this is rank insanity, but everybody must admit that with nine million of workers behind a proposition it is very likely to acquire something more than the force of an academic discussion. It assures the advance of socialism at once to a position among the practical questions of the day in Great Britain.

NUISANCES creep into a big city like New York almost as quietly and as easily as an undesirable individual. Once admitted, they spread as by contagion and ere the Public is fairly aroused to the presence of the new danger or discomfit it has firmly lodged itself and acquired as it were vested rights which it is difficult and tedious to dispute. One of New York's greatest blessings has hitherto been the purity of its natural atmosphere. Few cities in the world enjoy so clear an air as the metropolis. We are free from the sulphurous fogs which settle down on London and from the soot and grime which make the atmosphere of of Chicago at all times as unpleasant as a factory yard. The immunity of New York from this common nuisance of all towns where much manufacturing is carried on is due to the general use of hard coal. And clearly, if at any time the thousands of factories, to say nothing of the greater number of private dwellings in the city, should begin the combustion of soft bituminous we should be in as evil a plight as Pittsburgh and those western manufacturing cities where the populace turn out on Sundays to catch a glimpse of the sky. That the metropolis is in danger of loosing what is really one of its greatest aesthetic charms may be seen at any time of the day now by those who frequent the lower business section of the island. Every westerly wind clouds that district with dense black smoke from the tall chimneys of the New York Steam Co.'s boiler house on Greenwich street near Cortlandt street. Of late that concern has been burning a particularly pitchy fuel and the "black flag" of its piracy upon the comfort and appearance of the metropolis is the most conspicuous sight which the picturesque sky-line of the lower part of the city presents to the spectator. Not only should this bad example for others be suppressed, but the authorities should take steps to prohibit any extension of the nuisance. Heaven knows there are enough of them to curse existence without the addition of another.

COMMON sense, and the interests and the convenience of the Public did not prevail. It was politics that counted. The application recently made to the Sheriff by the leading members of the Brooklyn Exchange and by the officials of Banks and Trust and Title Companies to order all legal sales to be held at the Auction Room on Montague street was contemptuously ignored. The Sheriff apparently is in favor of the present chaotic system which results in farcical attempts to sell property under judicial decrees in a number of private auction rooms scattered throughout the city. The absurd methods which have been in vogue for years might justly be entitled, "a system for holding legal sales with the least possible publicity." There never was a time when this system was not a bad one; but prior to the opening of the Brooklyn Exchange it was excusable, being perhaps the best possible. Now that we have an Auction Room, however, which is the centre of the attention of the real estate men of this city, the old method is not only bad, but willfully bad. There are no reasons for perpetuating it, save personal ones. Legal sales in New York are all held at one place. The same practice should prevail in this city. What is the argument against it? Will the Sheriff please tell us. The Exchange we understand does not intend to regard his decision as final. Certainly they will be very remiss in advancing the interests of the public and protecting their own if they do not fight this question to a finish.

PROBABLY one of the most dangerous spots in the entire City of Brooklyn, in case of fire gaining headway, is that nest of frame flats in the 27th and 28th Wards, or, more definitely speaking, all that section between Flushing avenue and Evergreens Cemetery, north of Broadway. During the past five years, there has been more building in that part of the city than in any other, but of a class that, in a large and growing city like Brooklyn, should for many reasons be condemned. Here are erected block after block of solid, two, three and four-story, double and single buildings of the flimsiest frame order, called flats, some of the larger of these containing eight or more families each. In the event of fire breaking out in the centre of one of these large blocks, with a strong wind blowing, how great is the chance of a disastrous conflagration. The recent fire at Ryan's furniture store, on Broadway, which many of our Brooklyn readers will remember, can well serve as an example of the dangers that threaten. Fire was discovered in the building aforesaid by an employe just before closing and an alarm sent out, but with the dry wood of the building to help, it was plain to be seen, even before the fire department arrived, that not only the building where the fire originated was doomed but the entire Broadway front as well. The firemen did not succeed in confining the fire even to that limit. It rapidly gained on the side streets, and it may be said that good luck more than good management saved the remainder of the square and other blocks as well, for, in the opinion of the chiefs in charge, the block was doomed many times. Let fire gain headway in the centre of one of these desirable (?) blocks of flats in the night, where it would hardly be discovered until too late to prevent spreading, the result can only be thought of with horror. The fire hydrants are placed further apart here, the fire department—engine and truck companies—more scattered, and in the winter, owing no doubt to carelessness, many of the hydrants have been found to be frozen—useless of course.

TRUE it is folly at the present time to think of saving this immediate vicinity from this class of buildings. It is nearly all built up with them. But for the sake of other new neighborhoods, the 26th Ward, which is now being developed with much the same description of buildings, let the city put a stop to the erection of these "death-trap" houses byextending the fire limits to cover the entire new territory embraced in the ward. Indeed other new wards should be included. The fire restrictions would surely be a benefit, as the class of improvements would be such as would increase values rather than lower them as the cheap frame buildings do. Another drawback, and a most serious one to both owner and tenant, resulting in these frame districts, are the high rates of insurance; on an average almost double; in many cases, as in the 27th and 28th Wards, companies have absolutely refused to take a risk at any price. Nevertheless building has gone on, gaining year after year, till last year out of a total of 156 new buildings in the 27th Ward, 149 were frame. In the 28th Ward, out of 658 permits, 632 were for structures of the same material, averaging $4,000 each. This year, notwithstanding financial troubles which have affected building all over the city, the figures will be much higher.

The Facts About Panics.

FROM time immemorial the world has been plagued by a succession of what have been known as financial panics. It should be observed that they come at something approximating regular intervals, a period at the most of twenty years intervening between the more pronounced and destructive visitations.

Evidently there is some force at work which takes a certain period of time to bring about results, and if we can find this force the discovery should at least relieve us from the injurious effects of false philosophy.

Let us conceive ourselves in the midst of a panic, or rather of the industrial conditions that immediately follow a panic, and observe the manifestations. On every hand we find stagnation and idleness. The great mills have either shut down or are working on half time, and the prices of commodities have fallen so low that no man can look to get rid of the merchandise in his possession except at a sacrifice. But a few men, many men, indeed, among the total of operators, men of large capital or exceptional credit, have survived the shock; and these men are now the representatives of all that remains of past activity. The sound of their grinding, however, is so exceedingly low that one can almost fancy that the world has reached the period foreseen by the prophet of the Apocalypse, and that the impending resurrection is not to be the resurrection of finance.

But this is a situation that cannot last forever. Men must have bread, and meat, and clothing, and shelter, and they cannot come into possession of these necessaries of existence without soon setting in motion again all the agencies of production and exchange. The mill wheel must continue to revolve, the vehicles of transportation must move on, and the coal miner must be kept at work. Another law, too, is at work preparing the conditions for a revival. It is the law made operative by the destructibility of material. Most of the products of human industry are known to be exceedingly perishable, and in the course of a year or two the supplies on hand will have so visibly diminished that even poverty will begin to cry aloud for more comforts, and an enlargement of the agencies of production.

Here, then, comes the opportunity of the industrial survivors. The number of producers has been greatly curtailed, and, as already seen, even among those who have survived, the mill wheel has been driven so exceedingly slow that production has been restricted. There begins, therefore, to be even a pressure on the forces in operation, and, quick to take advantage of their opportunities, the operators stand ready to advance their prices. Slowly at first, no doubt, is the advantage gained, for the general ability to purchase remains limited: but there is a gain, and, as the employment of each new workman enlarges the market to the extent of his wages, the improvement continues until at last the captains of industry find themselves again earning a profit.

Finally, at the end of three or four years, the time depending somewhat on the depth of the preceding fall, prices have pretty well recovered, and the men who escaped in the general overthrow find themselves earning large profits. But other forces have been also at work. One by one the men who were down have been regaining their feet and after a period of time, which may be approximately estimated in advance, the market has so fully recovered that all men who operate with judgment and prudence find themselves either upon the road to new fortunes or an increase in the fortunes already gained. Everything is booming, to use the slang of the market.

Here is where the philosopher who holds to the damaging possibilities of over-production will lift his head. He will assert that men are fully supplying the demand, and, that either new operators are constantly entering the field to the detriment of the old operators, or that the old operators will push their ventures too far and fill their warerooms with unmarketable merchandise. But his reasoning will be unsound because he fails in comprehending the true impulse of trade. The number of men who overproduce will never be great enough to produce panic. We must look to something deeper than an excess of production if we wish to find the cause which, in a few years more, will have prepared the conditions for new disaster.

We shall find it, alas! in the cupidity of human nature. Scarcely has the market reached a thoroughly healthy and well-balanced condition before some man begins to think that he can earn more money by reducing his prices to an extent that will enlarge his operations at the expense of his competitors. But the inevitable follows. His competitors accept his challenge, and sometimes they will make an undercut which should be sufficient to quite demoralize the original offender. And so cut follows cut with the most startling frequency until men begin to wonder at the low cost of merchandise, and to felicitate themselves on the cheapness of living.

But, in the meantime, the workmen who produce the merchandise have not reduced their charges. True, in a few instances, they have been forced to accept a reduction in wages because some of the employers, unable to produce as cheaply as their stronger competitors, have found the cost of their own products outrunning the price of commodities. But in such cases the reduction has generally been accepted only after a prolonged and determined strike. Generally speaking, the cost of production, though it may fall a little owing to the fall in the cost of some manufactured raw material and the invention of new labor-saving machinery, remains comparatively stationary.

Now, it should be seen that there can be but one end to all these complications. The day must come when the prices of commodities will not equal the cost of production to every man whose situation is not exceptionally favorable. As a matter of fact the day does come for the majority of operators, and one of the earlier signs of its coming may be noted in a general attempt at the reduction of wages, and a phenomenal increase in the number of strikes, always a premonitory symptom of approaching disorders in finance or of panic.

The final blow, however, may not yet have been delivered. Panic conditions have been prepared; but the panic has not yet come because credit has not received a complete overthrow, and many men are sustaining themselves by their debts. But it will come soon enough. The weaker men are beginning to fail upon every hand, and these failures finally come with such startling frequency that they attract general attention. Evidently, there is something wrong; and the banks, with their larger opportunities for observation, are not the last to make the discovery. They at length think it necessary to announce a curtailment of loans. This is the last feather that will break the camel's back. Down to date it was only the very weak who were endangered; but now even the men with large but not easily convertible assets feel that they, too, may be forced to the wall.

A long period of depression or panic invariably follows such a situation. The panic of 1857, it is said, was primarily a bank panic. But this is unjustly said; for it was primarily, like all other panics, a price cutter's panic. You cannot have a panic when the markets are generally profitable, and it may be said, also, that we can have nothing but panic conditions when prices have fallen so low, through price cutting, that no man who is forced to pay rent or interest and meet the rivalry of more independent competitors, in the purchase of his material, can earn any money. True, a few operators will fail under any conditions. The great body of operators will succeed sufficiently well, however, when their operations have not been made inevitably unprofitable.

But if this be sound reasoning, is it not, also, useless reasoning? This question may be asked; and it must be admitted that, considering the perverse judgment of men, there is good reason for the inquiry.

But there will be reason, also, for a little optimism in the answer. It may be said that there are signs that even in their selfishness men can find a motive for operating on more sensible lines. The tendency to form trusts to regulate prices has been observed, and it is to be presumed that they will survive. All forms of economic association, in common with trusts, have, in their turn, met with opposition; and it is to be presumed that the trust, when it has had time to disseminate among its opponents something of the intelligence with which it was conceived will rise superior to their attacks. We have seen, too, in the growth and expansion of the practice of issuing Clearing House certificates, that the banks are beginning to see the necessity for subduing the wild-cat which for a very long period has made the director's room of all banking houses an uncomfortable place for both customers and stockholders.

True, these manifestations are thus far only symptomatic. The organization of trusts, never attempted in more than a few industries, has been checked or driven to the ground occupied by centralized incorporation. This is somewhat objectionable ground for such large combinations; and the spasmodic issue of Clearing House certificates, in the manner of their issue, is an act too suggestive of danger to be productive of the best possible effects. But both devices will be developed and perfected. As to the trusts, the opposition will eventually cease. It takes time; but you can get light even into the cranium of a blockhead; and as to Clearing House certificates, they will eventually come to signify a more highly perfected banking system, resting on a general reserve available at all times and for any exigency that threatens to precipitate a bank failure.

IT is not improbable that the strike on the Lehigh Valley Railroad may spread to other lines along that dry, combustible underbrush of the "Labor" field—sympathy. There are indications that this danger is not remote, particularly if the Lehigh officials succeed in raising the present blockade sufficiently to operate their road with some measure of efficiency. A railroad nowadays has such close inter-relations with other companies that it cannot properly conduct its affairs independent of them. The more completely the Lehigh people extricate themselves from the existing "tie-up" the more insistent and imperative will be their demands upon other companies for the usual co-operation in handling traffic. If this be given, will the defeated Labor organizations permit the overthrow of one detachment of their army without calling out reinforcements and enlarging the field of hostilities? It is not our intention to endeavor to answer this question. We refer to the existing troubles to point out how, as the railroad companies come yearly into closer relations and dependence upon one another and their employes consolidate either through affiliation by "sympathy" or by actual enrollment into a more united organization, one of the most important if not the most important public service of the country is dividing into two great camps, which every dispute that arises is more and more likely to throw into a state of general hostility, to the detriment and injury of society. The development of the inter-dependence of railroads on the one hand, and the affiliation of labor organizations on the other, has steadily tended to bring about this condition of affairs, which is slowly approximating to the stage when every controversy between railroad companies and their employes will involve a much larger part of the transportation service of the country than has hitherto been affected, even by the most widespread of strikes. Every dispute between companies and operatives will threaten a general paralysis of business upon the community, and whether a "tie-up" upon many roads result or not the unavoidable uncertainty as to the outcome will be scarcely less of a disturbance to commerce than the actual suspension of traffic. Such a condition of affairs arriving every time some Walking Delegate becomes irate or some few firemen lose their mental equilibrium over some grievance, real or imaginary, would be intolerable. Yet the development of present conditions along the lines followed in the past few few years must result somewhat as we have indicated. The intervention of the State is apparently inevitable, for clearly the public interests which hitherto have always been ignored by both sides in their disagreements must be protected. It seems to us that the plan frequently advocated in these columns is the best that can be adopted. The railroad service should pass under governmental regulation, the men being enlisted as men are in the army and navy for a stated time upon clearly defined terms. Questions of dispute would be submitted to the government. Arbitration would be obligatory. The employes would be certain of impartial consideration for their claims and a strike would be mutiny, to be treated as such.

Honors to its Fraternal Dead.

THE GENERAL SOCIETY OF MECHANICS AND TRADESMEN DEDICATES A NEW MONUMENT WITH IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES.

On Tuesday last the handsome granite monument, erected by the General Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen in its burial plot in Cypress Hills Cemetery, was formally dedicated with simple but impressive ceremonies in the presence of a large number of members of the Society.

Mr. William Stoneback, the Chairman of the Pension Committee of the Society, under whose supervision the monument had been erected, presided. After prayer, offered by the Rev. Henry T. McEwen, of the Fourteenth Street Presbyterian Church, Mr. Guy Culgin, the President of the Society, in a neat speech, dedicated the monument to perpetuate the memory of those of the members of the Society, or their widows, whose indigent circumstances required that they should be interred in the plot. After which, Mr. Stephen M. Wright, the Secretary of the Society, delivered the address, from which we quote:

"It is eminently fit and appropriate that the Society of whose record and history we are so justly proud should assemble at this particular season of the year, for this is the month and almost the very day, 108 years ago, when those sturdy patriots whose names we cherish, and whose memory we love to revere, met to form what is now the General Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen of the City of New York.

"These anniversary gatherings have heretofore been of a social character, but to-day it partakes of an entirely different nature, for here we gather in this vast silent city of the dead to participate in the services of consecrating this sacred spot as the final resting place for the remains of our unfortunate ones, and to dedicate this beautiful monument to perpetuate their memory. While these surroundings remind us of the gloom of death, they suggest also some of its alleviations, for had it not been for this spot of ground possessed by our Society, yonder grave of our worthy ex-President Demilt would have been undoubtedly in some unknown location, and who can tell where the remains of our respected brother James Wolley might have rested but for this place; and so with the others whose graves surround us; their remains, no doubt, would have been deposited in that "Field" whose name is associated with those despicable thirty pieces of Roman silver, but for the thoughtfulness of our Society.

"The first years of the society's existence were mainly devoted to the creation of a fund for 'loaning purposes' among those of its members requiring assistance in the prosecution of their business enterprises; but four years after it turned its attention to those of its members less fortunate, for at a meeting held November 5th, 1789, it was resolved: 'To raise a fund by subscription within themselves for the relief of such as may through the vicissitudes of fortune claim a share of their munificence;' and on April 4th, 1798, the duties of the overseer were extended to include the widows or orphans of deceased members. The overseers becoming almoners in 1828, and they in turn, in 1856, became the present Pension Committee.

"Thus it will be seen that the function of this committee is almost co-existent with the society itself, and is to-day as much a fundamental object of the society as when established more than a century ago; and to its credit may it be said, that throughout this entire period, while dispensing many thousands of dollars—from 1843 to 1893, $260,000—not one breath of suspicion has rested upon the act of a single member. Having so far only cared for the living, in July, 1872, through a special committee of which Brother Waydel was chairman, the society purchased twelve lots on this site; six more lots were added by purchase in January, 1874, and with the additional purchase in February last the society now owns nearly 9,000 superficial feet, costing $1,682.40.

The care and custody of this plot was immediately intrusted to the Pension Committee, they establishing such rules as to provide that it shall be the resting-place for the mortal remains of any brother of the Society or the widow of such.

"It remained for the present efficient Pension Committee to finish up this noble work. With usual thoughtfulness it deemed it proper that some suitable mark should be erected upon this plot, to better indicate its owner, and with commendable zeal an application was made by them to the Society and readily granted for an appropriation, with which they have caused this handsome monument to be raised and the surrounding grounds beautified.

"Its symmetrical proportions and its solidity, so typical of the grand old Society, with its emblem and motto emblazoned in bronze on its sides, proclaim its adherence to the principle that Art owes its existence to the Hammer.

"Let me, in conclusion, admonish you of the need of guarding inviolate the sacred trust imposed upon us all by our noble predecessors, who transmitted to our care an organization rich with patriotic ardor and distinctly American in every fibre; an institution that has demonstrated the possibility that carefully protected resources can be made to yield an abundance by which the youth of our city may be benefited, while our indigent are lovingly cared for in their declining years; and throughout all coming time it will remain, that one of the noblest deeds of our Society was the purchasing of this resting place for our dead and the erection upon it of this monument."

At the close of Mr. Wright's address the benediction was pronounced.

Personal.

Raquar Ostberg, an architect, from Stockholm, Sweden, was among the callers during the week at the Building Material Exhibit, conducted by THE RECORD AND GUIDE, at Nos. 276 to 282 Washington street, Brooklyn. Mr. Ostberg is an architect of repute in Sweden. He was lately awarded the Royal medal for drawings exhibited at the Academy of Fine Arts, Stockholm. He came to this country at the instance of his Government to visit the World's Fair, and to study the methods of the treatment of stone used in building construction. He spent an hour or more at the Exhibit in company with several local architects, and expressed himself as being much pleased with the extensive collection of material there displayed. Particularly was he impressed with the splendid exhibits of brick, many of the numerous shapes, styles and colors there shown being unknown in his native land. He secured a number of samples to take back with him.

President Geo. R. Read, of the Real Estate Exchange, is out of the city on a fortnight's vacation. Mr. Read was one of the judges at last week's horse show.

Mr. I. B. Hill has succeeded to the office of manager of the New York office of the Boston Terra Cotta Co., formerly filled by the late John B. Evatt.

The Real Estate Brokers' and Owners' Association.

ITS OBJECTS EXPLAINED BY ONE OF ITS OFFICERS—IT ALREADY HAS OVER A HUNDRED MEMBERS.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

DEAR SIR—I have received numerous communications from real estate brokers and owners inquiring what the objects of The Real Estate Brokers' and Owners' Association are. As the association is new and is of great importance to all who are interested in matters of real estate I venture to hope that you will give it the benefit of your widely-circulated paper by inserting this statement of its purpose.

The Constitution provides as follows:

I. To establish friendly relations between real estate brokers and owners.

II. To furnish its members with information as to the character and responsibility of persons desiring to rent premises belonging to or in charge of members of this association.

III. To secure the protection of members of this association against false representations of brokers and owners.

IV. To provide for the settling by arbitration of disputes between members of this association, or between members and other persons.

V. To promote and encourage honest dealings in real estate matters.

VI. To regulate commissions for services of brokers and agents.

VII. To guard, protect and promote the general interests of real estate.

It is a well-known fact that many abuses have crept into the real estate business by reason of the renting of houses and apartments free of rent for long periods on the part of brokers, owners and builders; the hiring of premises by irresponsible parties who find it cheaper to move than to pay rent, and therefore become what may be called "floaters."

The characters of such tenants will be ascertained and made known generally to all members of the association by keeping the references which may be offered by such tenants on file at the office of the association. Their irresponsibility will be made known by a list of delinquents which will be made up from the individual reports of members who can certify to the facts from personal experience, and which list will also be kept on file for the use of members only.

The nuisance of free renting will be done away with by the covenants of members to refrain therefrom on pain of a fine or expulsion for any breach or violation. Consequently tenants will be kept from incurring indebtedness to the landlord and from contracting to pay higher rents than their means will afford, an evil which is promoted by these inducements.

The false representation referred to against which members will be protected are experienced notably in the case of apartment and flat houses offered for sale. These apartment and flat houses are frequently represented to be rented at figures which would make them profitable investments, whereas it is a notorious fact that in many instances the rent roll is entirely or largely fictitious. Purchasers from members of this association will have the satisfaction of knowing that trickery of this character is not tolerated by this association and that they are accordingly justified in accepting the representation as genuine, a fact which will give confidence to investors in this class of property.

For the purpose of settling disputes arising out of commissions, or otherwise, between members and non-members who are willing to submit to this form of adjudication, a Board of Arbitration of this association is established which will be vested with full power to act in such cases according to certain formalities provided in the by-laws.

As to the promotion of real estate interests generally this will be greatly facilitated by the concerted action which can be taken by an association, the members of which are all interested parties, and which is impossible with individuals acting alone. Its influence will undoubtedly be felt in the advocacy of increased rapid transit and the fostering of public improvements generally.

Permit me to add in closing that the dues of the association are so moderate that any reputable broker or real estate dealer can avail himself of the association's many advantages without the slightest inconvenience.

Yours truly,

WILLIAM R. LOWE, First Vice-President.

Mr. Croker's Mortgage.

During the current week the World has published a couple of lengthy articles dealing with certain irregularities in the Register's office in the recording of mortgages, notably one affecting some property belonging to the Tammany magnate, Mr. Croker. In the course of its remarks, the World states, what those who give even a cursory attention to the real estate records published in the "dailies" will be very ready to believe that no information of this particular mortgage appeared in any New York newspaper, among which it specifically mentions THE RECORD AND GUIDE. The statement is undoubtedly true in the main, but it is absolutely incorrect in reference to this journal. The mortgage in question, as our readers are aware, did appear in our records months ago, as does every other paper relating to real estate filed in the Register's or County Clerk's offices.

The Brooklyn Building Exhibit.

In these great cities, together with the territory contiguous thereto, the normal demand for interior fixtures and finishes to replace the old, wornout or defaced, is of enormous proportions. The Building Material Exhibit, conducted by THE RECORD AND GUIDE, at Nos. 276 to 282 Washington street, Brooklyn, with its multitudinous exhibit of so much that is used in the equipment, finish and decoration of a building as well as in the construction, affords an owner just the place where he can go and without trouble or loss of time examine, compare and make his selection of such material as he may require. The visitor will find novelties on view which doubtless he would be glad to adopt, and yet of which, very possibly, he has no knowledge. A number of new and highly interesting exhibits have lately been added to the general display. The convenience of such an exhibition, centrally located (it is three minutes' walk from the Bridge) and easy of access from all parts of the Metropolitan District, goes without saying and has widely recommended it alike to the practical architect, the builder and to the owner less familiar with the general market. The exhibition is permanent, open every day and free to all.

Answers to Correspondents.

This department of THE RECORD AND GUIDE is for the benefit of our subscribers. Any subscriber who has a question to submit will please do so over his own signature. No attention will be paid to questions from other sources. Send communications in as early in the week as possible in order to secure reply on the following Saturday. Correspondents will please write on only one side of the paper, and leave abundant margin at top and bottom.

ASSESSMENT.

To the Editor of The Record and Guide.—Kindly answer the following: A owns a piece of property on which there is an unpaid assessment for grading and paving. B desires to purchase at a certain figure, with the understanding that he assumes and agrees to pay the assessment; it is subsequently agreed, however, that the assessment be added to the purchase price and the assessment be paid by A. When the title was closed, the amount of the assessment was withheld by B's attorney and paid on the same day—before warranty deed was filed. A few days afterward, the resolution ordering the grading and paving was rescinded by the Board of Aldermen and new bids advertised for. The question now presents itself: Who is entitled to the return of the amount paid for the assessment, i. e.—Who is the legal claimant? As there is no dispute on the moral part of the contract, B, having really paid it, certainly should get it back again.

Answer.—Upon the fact, as stated, it seems to us that A really paid the assessment and legally is entitled to recover it back from the City.—LAW EDITOR.

Notes Gathered Here and There in Brooklyn.

With the approval of Postmaster Sullivan, two large bronze gates will be constructed on the ground floor of the Federal Building, by which at night the upper part of the building will be protected from intruders. One gate will be in the arch at the south end of the Washington street corridor and the other below the Johnston street entrance.

Justice Cullen has granted the application of the South Brooklyn Terminal Company for the extension of its route through New Utrecht and Flatbush to Jamaica. It is stipulated that in crossing all streets, including Ocean Parkway, the tracks must run below the grade.

The People's Railroad Company, of Brooklyn, has been incorporated with the Secretary of State, at Albany, to operate a street surface road, to be propelled by horse-power, electricity or cable system, in the city and in the towns of Flatbush, Flatlands and New Utrecht. The capital is placed at $325,000, and directors are: Francis J. Callenan, of Rutherford, N. J.; John S. Forgotston, L. George Forgotston, Michael J. Kelly, E. Wright Nelson and Horace Moody, of New York; Stephen Parrish, of Jersey City, and Frank Gardner and Charles M. Nichols, of Brooklyn. The company has made application to the Brooklyn Board of Aldermen for franchises for an extensive system of street railroads.

Prof. F. W. Hooper, Curator of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, has sent a communication to Mayor Boody asking that proposals be advertised for, for the construction of a model of the proposed new museum. The cost of the model will be about $2,500, and it will serve to give the people a general idea of the plans for the structure and guide the architects in the details.

NEWS OF THE BUILDING TRADES.

THE COST OF A MODERN OFFICE BUILDING.

The subject of the new building to be erected for the American Surety Company at Broadway snd Pine streets was under discussion in the office of the brokers who negotiated the sale of the property to the company. "Such a building," remarked a broker, "can be built cheaper to-day than ever before in the history of building, and I reckon cheaper than it will ever again be possible to build. Have you heard any recent estimates on the cost of fire-proof construction?" The reporter admitted that he had not heard anything authoritative on the subject. "Such a building can be built now at an outside cost of 40 cents a cubic foot! Think of that. Forty cents a cubic foot, and less than ten years ago it was costing $2 a cubic foot or thereabouts to construct a fire-proof building."

On the same general subject, Mr. Robert Robertson, who is building an eight-story fire-proof hotel at the Boulevard and 72d street, and is himself an old iron merchant and importer, remarked: "I have been in business in this city and country since 1849, and I never saw iron so low as it is now. Fifteen dollars a ton! It seems impossible."

Mr. George Hill, C. E., an authority on the subject, said he was fairly certain that a first-class fire-proof building of the modern system of construction could be constructed on the suggested site, at the present prices of materials, at not to exceed 35 cents per cubic foot. He said that not since the construction of the Equitable Building had any fire-proof office building in this city cost as much as $2 per cubic foot. Most of the tall buildings built during the last four years had cost from about 52 to 60 cents per cubic foot. The decline in the cost of construction, resulting from scientific economics in the methods and from lower prices of building materials had been most rapid during the last year.

* * * *

Among the more or less remote building projects of consequence is a new structure on a new location, for the Academy of Design. Sherman square or Morningside Heights would be a good location for the desired building. The Academy has had an offer of $550,000 for the building at 4th Avenue and 23d street. Some of its members are dreaming of a location in Central Park—but that is out of the question.

A PECULIAR KIND OF CEMENT.

An architect of long experience, speaking of cements, said to a Record and Guide man the other day: "The English have the better materials in their cements, but the Germans prepare their cements with a skill and pains that are nearly scientific, and their product is therefore more uniformly excellent and reliable. The best cement that has ever been used in this city—not a hydraulic cement—was used by the better class of builders about thirty or forty years ago. It was used, per example, in some of the houses on the north side of Washington square. That cement was made from oyster shells gathered in Matawan, N. J., and calcined and ground up and mixed with a proportion of lime. That cement is as hard and as tight a binder now as it ever was and is not equaled by any cement made in these days. I had occasion to make some alterations in one of those houses that necessitated cutting through the walls. I never encountered so hard a wall to take to pieces."

A CRITICISM OF THE DRESSING SALOONS.

The year's record in residence construction shows no more marked progress in any direction than in the finishing and furnishing of the boudoir dressing saloons that are now the newest features of the second and third stories of modern town houses. Cedar-lined closets, silver wash-basins, full-length plate mirror wardrobe doors, parquette floors, electric lights and upholstered divans are some of the expensive features of these rooms of oriental magnificence. But not all buyers take kindly to them. An architect noted for his art in interior arrangements said to a Record and Guide reporter: "I have recently been employed to take out several of these dressing saloons and convert them into plain clothes closets, and in one instance to let down a light shaft through them from the roof to light the main staircase and foyer hall. There is an inevitable odor from the plumbing in them, and they supply nothing that is not more agreeably furnished in the bath-room and the bedroom. I doubt if one in a hundred of them is ever put to sufficient use to justify the enormous expense in constructing them. They were devised chiefly to fill up an awkward space in the building between the front and rear bedrooms, and have grown in luxuriousness through rivalry among the builders, with assistance from the plumbers and cabinet-makers. It would be much better to use part of the space for lighting and ventilating the closets on the upper floors, and the music-room, or foyer hall on the main floor."

Out Among the Builders.

The American Surety Company have determined to do all in their power to improve their Broadway and Pine street corner in a manner creditable to the city, the company and the location. A building of at least fifteen stories will be built on the site, which has a frontage of 84.4 on Broadway and of 85.8 on Pine street. An architectural competition for the plans will be invited at an early day.

J. Stewart Barney and Henry Otis Chapman have plans for a brick and terra cotta chapel, hospital and parish house, covering an area of 125x206 feet, to be erected on 13th and 14th streets, 95 feet east of 1st avenue, for the corporation of Grace Church.

C. E. Dunnellon has resumed work on the four-story brownstone flats on the southeast corner of 7th avenue and 3d street, and will carry the work on to completion. Litigation has been the cause of these buildings standing in a half-finished condition all summer.

Henry Vollweiler has plans for a three-story stone and brick dwelling, 25x63 feet in size, to be erected for Michael Seitz, the brewer, on the south side of Maujer street, 25 feet west of Waterbury street. It will be finished handsomely throughout and cost $18,000.

The house will contain all improvements, with exposed sanitary plumbing. The first floor will be finished in hard woods, antique oak hall, mahogany parlor and cherry dining-room. Steam heat is also specified; cost, $8,000.

The design is Colonial. Two bay windows will be added to the front, one on each side, reaching from the first story to the roof. The specifications call for the latest improvements, sanitary plumbing, open fireplaces and steam heat. The position of the building is such as to allow windows in each room open in the clear. John J. Petit, 186 Remsen street, Brooklyn, prepared the plans.

Greenport.—A three-story frame livery stable, 60x100 feet in size, will be erected on Fire Island avenue for Sherman Tweedy. REAL ESTATE MARKET.

The current transactions in real estate reflect but little improvement in the market. A good deal of booming has been indulged upon one single transaction of consequence this week, but this has been upon a misconception of the facts and was unwarranted, even if the facts had been as supposed. Among the better class of brokers the fictitious booming of the market, in utter disregard of the prevailing conditions, is doing much to prevent legitimate trading. Where a disposition has been shown to meet the overtures of investors half way the faked announcements of sales and the reports of sales at fictitious prices have interfered with and delayed or destroyed the chances of a sale. When the transactions of the week are properly analyzed they show that such trading as there is in business property has been done at reduced prices. That there has not been more trading in this class of property shows, as THE RECORD AND GUIDE has always maintained, that there is no better medium of investment than improved business property in New York City. No one owning property of that class will sell it for what he could now obtain for it, except where very peculiar circumstances govern the transaction. The fact that the American Surety Company paid the highest price ever paid for Broadway realty during the week counts for little or nothing in making a market. The company a year ago purchased the surrounding L with a manifest purpose of acquiring the corner when it could obtain it. Its offer of $350,000 had been under consideration ever since, but the owners held out until this week for $400,000, when they conceded half the difference and the sale was made. But there is nothing in the circumstance to warrant the assumption that all Broadway property is worth more than it was last spring. The trade in residence property continues in about the condition that has governed it for the last six weeks. There are buyers in the market, but except in rare instances where individual choice is the controlling factor, the prices are below those of last spring. Many responsible operators seem to believe that prices will rule lower between now and New Year's. This may or may not be a good prophecy, but it is apparent from present conditions that there will be no permanent upward tendency until after the holidays. Thanksgiving coming next week, will make a break in the week's business, after which there may be some steady trading for three or four weeks. The investor who is satisfied to wait six months or a year, perhaps, for a profitable turn, can now find his opportunity in either the auction market or the offerings at private sale.

A DRY-GOODS STORE ON THE SITE OF ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

A piece of information of startling significance comes to THE RECORD AND GUIDE. It is that a representative firm of dry-goods men of a distant city are in negotiation with the purchasers of the St. Luke's Hospital property on 5th avenue, between 54th and 55th streets, for the purchase of the avenue frontage for improvement for dry-goods and other business purposes, and with small doubt of the ultimate success of their negotiations. They are said to have associated with them a jewelry house of almost equal national repute to Tiffany's, and at least two New York dry-goods houses have intimated their desire to be admitted to the undertaking. A RECORD AND GUIDE reporter sought for definite information on the subject from

Mr. Chas. A. Seymour, the broker in charge of the property. He said it was a most embarrassing subject, one which, no matter how he answered, would be sure to arouse resentments. Since, however, THE RECORD AND GUIDE had asked for information on the subject he seemed to be bound by the circumstances to admit that negotiations of the character mentioned had been proposed, but not favorably received by the purchasers, although both sides satisfied themselves that the move would be a successful one. "Fifty-fourth street," said Mr. Seymour, "is not so far 'up town' now as 19th street was when Arnold, Constable & Co. built there twenty-five years ago. Then there is the new Fifth Avenue and the fine hotel trade, which furnishes the very best custom of such houses. There is the New Netherlands, the Plaza and the Savoy, just above them on the avenue, and coming down, the Buckingham, the Belgravia and the Windsor. Then on the West Side, in easy carriage distance with easy roads through the park, are the Dakota, San Remo, Nevada, Beresford and Endicott and others under construction. The hotels down the avenue are also within easier reach of this location than they are of any of the down-town stores. These people argue that stores on the St. Luke's location would soon attract the finest trade of the city and would certainly have the bulk of the carriage trade of the entire city. Other negotiations, of the opposite character are, however, on foot, which I think most people in the neighborhood would prefer, and I am therefore devoting all my efforts to the latter."

REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE MATTERS.

In relation to the article published in last week's RECORD AND GUIDE, wherein Mr. C. W. Luyster was quoted as favoring a board of directors for the Real Estate Exchange made up of brokers and auctioneers, Mr. Luyster said yesterday that his opinion, that the board should contain a representation of active real estate operators as well as of brokers and auctioneers, had undergone no change. He believes that all the branches of the real estate business represented in the membership of the Exchange should have fair representation on the board of direction.

Notices are out for the annual meeting and election of directors of the Real Estate Exchange on December 11th next. The polls will be open from 1.30 to 3 P. M. The official ticket was published in THE RECORD AND GUIDE last week, and a semi-annual dividend of 1 per cent was declared. Several prominent members of the Exchange, who differ from the conclusion of the Committee on Nominations in their selection of candidates for the board of direction and believe that the other interests represented in the Exchange than those of the brokers and auctioneers should be represented by at least one member, are working for the re-election of Mr. Cornelius W. Luyster.

AT THE BROOOKLYN REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE.

Jere. Johnson, Jr., advertises the sale on Tuesday next, at the Real Estate Exchange, of the three-story and basement brownstone dwelling, No. 220 6th avenue, corner of President street.

THIRD AVENUE CABLE ROAD.

The officers of the Third Avenue Street Railroad Company promise that the cable cars will begin to run over their entire line, from the Post Office square to 129th street, some time next week.

DISSOLUTION OF PARTNERSHIP.

Frank L. Fisher has purchased from Peter T. Radiker his interest in the firm of Frank L. Fisher. The business will hereafter be conducted by Mr. Fisher personally.

FROM ONE POINT OF VIEW.

A broker who has just returned to business after a two years' absence in Europe summarizes his view of the condition of the real estate market as he now finds it by the following story: "Just before my departure I sold to a Wall street man some of the best property in New York City, not only as an investment but chiefly as a speculation. He has been trying ever since to sell it, even at a less price than he paid for it, but he has been unable to find a buyer."

MONEY TO LOAN AT 5 PER CENT.

Mr. Edmond J. Sause, the well-known real estate agent and broker, has money to loan on bond and mortgage on improved property at 5 per cent, also a selection of desirable investment properties for sale at figures which show large returns.

OF INTEREST TO OWNERS AND BUILDERS.

The attention of owners and builders is directed to the offer of Nicholson & Co., on another page. They offer to lease for fifteen or twenty years a fireproof building, to be erected on a Western Boulevard corner, between 59th and 69th streets, on about three lots. They will also lease a three-story building, between Chambers and 14th streets, west of the Bowery. Interested persons will do well to communicate with Nicholson & Co., at 150 Broadway.

THE ASTOR DOCKS.

Nicholson & Co. have secured five Albany steamers and a fleet of sixteen barges to lay up for the winter at the Astor Docks. This is in addition to the boats of the Iron Steamship Co. A good idea of the capacity of the Docks may be had when it is stated there is still room for more. Regarding the permanent leasing of the Docks we learn from Nicholson & Co., the agents, that President A. A. McLeod, of the New England R. R., is considering the property as a terminus for his road, but the obstacle seems to be the cost of getting there.

PROPERTY IN THE DRY-GOODS DISTRICT AT AUCTION.

Attention is again directed to the advertisement in another column of the sale by Wm. Kennelly, on Tuesday next, Nov. 28th, at the Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway, of the three and four-story business building on Broadway, No. 475, just north of Grand street, running through to No. 48 Mercer street. The sale is made under order of the Supreme Court, in partition, and offers an unusual opportunity to acquire a fine investment property. The title of this property will be guaranteed by the Title Guarantee and Trust Co. without cost to the purchaser.

A MILLING PROPERTY FOR SALE OR TO LET.

An unusual opportunity is offered by Wm. F. Weed & Co., as will be seen by reference to their advertisement in another column, to any one so desiring to embark in any business requiring mill and dock facilities. They have in charge, to lease or sell, a fine mill property, at Nos. 426 to 432 East 110th street, near the Harlem River. The property is fully equipped as a sash, door, blind and moulding mill, but could readily be adapted to many other manufacturing lines. It has an engine, boiler, shafting, pulleys, belting, etc., in first-class condition, and ready to start up at any time. There are also mill buildings of large dimensions, a dry kiln, office and stable. The property will be sold or rented with or without the machinery. Messrs. Weed & Co. are loan brokers, and have considerable sums now in hand to loan on bond and mortgage.

Gossip of the Week.

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

Trenholm & Simmons, have purchased for the American Surety Co. the valuable property on the southeast corner of Broadway and Pine street. The property was purchased of the heirs of the late John Anderson, the multi-millionaire tobacconist, whose estate has been so much in litigation since his death, about twelve years ago. It fronts 22.4 on Broadway, 64.5 on Pine street, and measures 22.7 and 63.10 on the rear lines. The American Surety Co., through Trenholm & Simmons, bought the adjoining "L," fronting 62 feet on Broadway and 21.3 on Pine street, from the Continental Life Insurance Co. for $1,050,000 just one year ago, and this week's purchase therefore gives them a plot fronting 84.4 on Broadway and 85.8on Pine street, and on this site they propose to build a fireproof office building of fifteen stories or more. Messrs. Trenholm & Simmons have been endeavoring to purchase the corner ever since they effected the first purchase, and had offered $375,000 for it; but the Anderson heirs stood out for $400,000. The deal was finally consummated when the respective principles agreed to split the difference, and the actual price at which the property was sold, was, therefore, $387,500. The lot contains 1,446.58 square feet, and the square foot price was, therefore, $267.87, which is the highest price ever paid for a property of considerable size, in this or any other country. It is at the rate of $669,675 for a full-sized city lot. This rate was exceeded only once in the history of real estate, and then in the purchase of a piece on the southwest corner of Broad and Wall streets, containing only 508 square feet, and which sold in 1882 at the rate of $330.70 per square foot.

Henry D. Winans & May have sold for John H. Flagler the four-story dwelling, No. 18 West 52d street, for $90,000. It is said that the new owner will spend a considerable sum in improvements. Messrs. Mr. Flagler had however made improvements of the house costing him nearly the amount of this increase.

Watson; and for the latter to the former, has sold the tenements, Nos. 436, 438, 440 and 442 East 86th street, at $100,000.

We are informed that Riker & Son have sold the six-story, iron front business property, 80x100, Nos. 171 and 173 Greene street, for Jacob Hirsch, at about $300,000, the seller taking in exchange a number of down-town properties. Further information of this transaction was refused by both Jacob Hirsch and Riker & Son.

Galvan the two five-story and basement steam-heated apartment houses, 50 x about 90 x half the block, Nos. 154 and 156 West 35th street, between Broadway and 7th avenue, to Robert T. MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

The lien filed on Nov. 21st against myself as the contractor, and Wm. Austin as owner of the building at No. 30 Reade street, by P. H. Kennedy, is unjust and unwarranted. Mr. Kennedy has not only been paid in full for the work performed by him, but in addition has had loans and advances made to him. I shall bond this lien and endeavor to obtain legal redress from Mr. Kennedy.

NEW YORK CITY, November 20, 1893.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

Permit us to make an explanation in regard to the lien filed by Archibald Campbell against Heilner & Wolf as owners and Scheidecker & Gonder as contractors, on November 16, 1893, against property in 125th street and on Rector street.

On October 24, 1893, Scheidecker & Gonder filed two liens against Heilner & Wolf on the same property amounting to $1,908.36. The said liens included the claims for which liens have been filed by Mr. Campbell and are made up of the balance due on contract and for extra work, the value of which is still in dispute.

According to our contract with Mr. Campbell he is to receive his last payment when we receive ours from Heilner & Wolf, and as we have not received said last payment, Mr. Campbell is not entitled to the same. SCHEIDECKER & GONDER.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—It is still a sort of dull and nominally unchanged market for Hards. Indeed, it is almost impossible to extract any real news from the current run of reports, and operators, having become inured and hardened to the unfavorable conditions they are daily called upon to encounter, indulge in a little facetiousness over the monotony of the situation. Possibly the one feature developed since our last is a slight falling away in the arrivals, but nevertheless there is constantly plenty of stock and to spare at the depot, and probably rarely in the history of the trade have buyers been treated with such extreme courtesy as at present. All kindness is, no doubt, appreciated, but yet it falls on barren ground, unless there is very possitively assured use for stock, as dealers fail to discover any encouragement for an accumulation of stock. Naturally the question arises: Why do not manufacturers curtail shipments? Well, that is not such an easy matter to accomplish promptly as might be supposed. In some instances, no doubt, there is a desire to have fewer brick and more money in hand to end the year; in others it is necessary to continue shipments for the sake of room, and in others a desire to have a little stock here on the chances of any sudden addition to demand. It is possible, however, that mannfacturers will become tired of present rates before long and there is a chance that ice may interfere with shipments from some localities.

DRAIN AND SEWER PIPE.—A short time ago we referred to a movement looking to a consolidation of Western makers. A dispatch from Toronto, Ohio, now says:

The Ohio Valley sewer pipe manufacturers have practically completed the long-talked of association at a meeting here. Twenty-four firms, representing $2.000,000 capital, are in the deal, located as follows: Nine in Toronto district, one in New Cumberland, one in Penrith, three in Wellsville, one in East Liverpool, two in New Lisbon, one in East Palestine, one in New Brighton, one in Malvern, three in Uhricksville and one in Cincinnati. Headquarters will be established at Steubenville. T. F. Anderson, of East Liverpool, was elected president of the association, and C. A. Freeman, of Steubenville, secretary.

GLASS.—For window glass the demand is moderate and careful and the market by no means satisfactory. The old table of quotations is retained but the figures are only nominal, as constant and deep cuts on price are taking place. Factories, however, are gradually starting up and there has been a material addition to the number of pots in operation during the month. Plate glass is dull and during the past week Plate Glass Manufacturers' Association, having the Central selling agency at Pittsburgh, was dissolved and the selling agency was abolished. The association was formed a year ago, with a capital of $10,000,000, and included the following concerns: The Diamond Company, with works at Ellwood and Kokomo, Ind.; the De Pauw Works, the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, having factories at Creighton, Ford City and Tarentum; the Charleroi Plate Glass Works; the Butler Works; and the Howard Company, of Duquesne. The official manifesto concerning the dissolution of the association is as follows: "The association was formed for one year, and the time for which it was formed having expired, owing to the financial situation of the country and the light demand for plate glass and foreign competition, the manufacturers decided not to continue the association longer. Therefore, its headquarters in Pittsburgh will be closed on and after this day."

LATH.—It is difficult to say how much real demand exists as there has been no important offering of stock to try it with on an open general market. It is, however, somewhat remarkable that receivers do not as a rule claim any special measure of buoyancy and quote at the "same old $2," yet ruling habits are difficult to overcome and some of them express an opinion that they could get a little more money with something choice to offer.

LIME.—So far as business is concerned nothing new of importance comes into notice. Demand is lacking in volume common at this season, but as against the very limited supply of lump for some time available has been so closely exhaustive, that manufacturers have allowed a few cargoes of finishing to come forward. On prices former quotations are named and must be until orders come from headquarters of the combine to make a change, but that does not of necessity prove that cost has not varied. Indeed rumors are current of cutting on price, probably on common, and in such form are the stories that we believe them to have foundation. It is not necessary to change quotations, or to swerve from "regular" rates in making entries or rendering invoices in order to give customers an advantage, but just the plan adopted at the moment is somewhat uncertain.

LUMBER.—There is a disposition to talk about a decided improvement in the market by many of the trade which some writers who ought to know better have seen fit to magnify greatly, interjecting an accompaniment of gush regarding the silver repeal measure and late elections that brings their reports to a verge of absurdity. Since the silver bill was passed every one has, of course, felt better regarding the financial situation, especially as a large number of people discover that they were more frightened than hurt, but the season of the year and the natural tendency to caution after a semi-panicky feeling has kept business in lumber as well as in all other articles of merchandise as a rule confined to boundaries of obligations calculated as closely to absolute wants as possible. From an ethical point of view local political events may be accepted as gratifying to all good citizens, but to assert that any gain therefrom has accrued to general business as yet is a statement that no one conversant with true conditions could consistently make. During the present month, as noted from week to week, there has been a gain in the amount of lumber handled, as was to be expected with the end of navigation almost in sight and the necessity for getting in hand some sort of working assortment, but by comparison, not with a month or two ago but with ordinary seasons, the business has been of a very limited character for all kinds of stuff. And, furthermore, there is reason to suppose it would not have been even as large as it was but for the universal cutting and slashing made on prices either openly or secretly, which has in some few instances tempted well-equipped concerns to depart from the rule and absorb parcels of standard stock offered so low as to make it a positive duty to purchase them.

While the present condition of the lumber trade is disagreeable and annoying, the very existing conditions are to the minds of clear-headed operators making a foundation upon which business must build up rapidly and broadly when it really does once again get a good start. There are certain yards well stocked, but on the average the accumulations in this district are unusually small and illy assorted, and just as soon as consumption commences to show signs of healthy expansion it is difficult to see what is to prevent a general scramble for supplies, and it may come before the usual period for opening up of spring trade.

There is no detail of special importance to advise as the result for the week. Further business has taken place in pretty much all kinds of coarse and hardwoods, but probably to the largest extent on stuff received from interior points and under about former conditions. Buyers pay no attention whatever to regular price lists and sellers have pretty much all given up attempts at doing so, and therefore every deal has a rate adjusted to suit the immediate circumstances under which it is made, even though there may be frequent duplication of parcels in matters of both quantity and assortment. Sellers are thinning out somewhat, especially from distant localities on the line of water communication. Further arrivals are making of early season purchases, in part owing to the fact that the manufacturers refused to extend the courtesy of carrying accommodation granted during the summer period when such course seemed about as much to the advantage of the seller as the buyer.

A dispatch received from Ottowa, Canada, this week was as follows:

The question of reimposition of export duty on logs is again attracting attention. In an interview in this connection Finance Minister Foster said:

"The hardship complained of by the Canadian people is that while United States lumbermen come to Canada, buy up our timber reserves and export free of duty the material for their manufactures of lumber and pulp, the Canadian product of lumber and pulp is met in the United States with a very high duty, and at the same time this country loses the benefit of the manufacture within its boundary of these commodities. There is also a widespread feeling that our timber is being rapidly depleted and that our future supply is being jeopardized without any corresponding advantage to us. The Dominion Government is making a full investigation in regard to the whole matter, and if it reveals the necessity therefor, and no change is made in the United States timber duties the Government must take the matter up and deal with it in the light of existing facts and conditions."

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

STATE.

The unusually fine fall weather has favored shipments, and with some good buyers about the past week has been an active one. Pine houses say their November business promises to be about two-thirds the usual amount, much more than was anticipated a month ago. Many boats are now loading on the river front. One Eastern buyer last week left orders for 1,500,000 feet. Spruce men are busy. Prices this week are unchanged. A good stock will be wintered but not as much as was expected.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as fo lows:

The advance of freight rates from Wisconsin and upper Michigan points southward will probably have some influence in checking shipments from the mills affected. The advance is 1 cent a hundred to points north of the Rock Island railway, and 1½ cents to points southward of that dividing line. It remains to be seen what change this will make in prices, though Wisconsin shippers are inclined to absorb the advance in rates and bill out lumber at prices the same as before.

At Chicago the tendency of the market lately has been to heaviness. The season is about over, and the yard dealers do not care to buy unless they can get dry stock, or if green, at a bargain. There is little disposition to buy green lumber anyway. If it changes hands at all, the buyer is apt to have a good deal to say about the price. The basis is still maintained at $10 for short piece stuff. Loads of mixed lengths are being sold at $10.50, with more difficulty than earlier. Some with long lengths included, to the amount of 20 to 30 per cent, have been sold at $10.25. Green inch stock has probably been shaded some within the week, though not enough to make it necessary to change quotations.

Few vessels are going out for further loads. The barges and consorts will continue to run on this lake while the harbors are open. The Lake Superior tows will all soon be in and the boats laid up for the winter.

At the yards the list price for short piece stuff is $13 for all but 2x4 and 2x12, which are $13.50 and $14 respectively; but the actual selling price in the majority of yards is $11.50 for short lengths, with a good deal undoubtedly selling at $11. The Lumberman's list is lower by $1 a thousand than the "official" schedule, but it is admitted that the depths have not yet been sounded in such list. Without doubt dealers are going somewhat fast and free in selling country dealers, a justification for which is assumed on account of outside competition. Now that the advance of Wisconsin rates has gone into force, it seems as if dealers have reason for bracing up prices, especially on piece stuff, which is understood to be in comparatively short supply.

It has recently developed that nearly all 12-foot piece stuff is scarce. On this account there is certainly no reason why the price of such lumber should be cut. The reason given for the comparative scarcity of 12-foot joists and scantling is partly because of the fact that the greater share of trade this season has come from country points where lumber 12 feet long is in especial demand.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman as follows:

The report that several inches of snow has fallen in the upper Mississippi region is rather discouraging to those who intend to log in that section. There is no frost in the ground and the snow will prevent the freezing of the ground, especially in the swamps, necessary to make logging roads. Even Providence is endeavoring to curtail the log cut of this winter. It is a good bet, however, that the impecunious logger can beat all combinations of that sort, and get into the woods for his usual allowance of debts, contracted never to be paid, and his usual quota of poor logs. Personally he is not to blame, it is his only trade and resource and he cannot abandon it while there is a ghost of a chance. It remains a fact, however, that he is the source of the "unknowable" condition of the log and lumber business.

It may be safely asserted that Wisconsin and Minnesota white pine mill men will from now on cease price cutting to a great extent. The mills have shut down and lumbermen are coming to realize that then stocks are not excessive, in fact, will fall behind if the spring demand for lumber opens up well.

The hardwood situation is different, as the hardwood market has been almost paralyzed for several months past, and is now showing only a little sign of revival, and every hardwood mill in Wisconsin has a very large supply of lumber in pile. As the hardwood lumbermen have disposed of but little of their cut of this year, they will have to depend largely upon the banks for assistance in their logging operations. While money is undoubtedly becoming easier, these conditions will probably have the effect of greatly curtailing the hardwood cut of logs this winter, and there will only good to the trade result if such is the case. There is a difference between the white pine and the hardwood logging outlook of a decidedly marked character.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Timber Trades' Journal of London says:

We understand the shipments of sawn pitch pine from Pensacola this past season have been far below the average, and an immense amount of very inferior timber has been brought to the market. One of the most unwise acts we hear of is the consignment of a large steamer cargo of small average sawn timber to one of our northern ports, and by latest accounts the shippers find great difficulty in parcelling out this cargo amongst small dealers at low prices. The London market also, regarding which we had strong hopes of a revival, is likely to be thrown back again by the heavy importation ex Eva arriving at a time when stocks were in a fairly satisfactory state. The prospects for good sound shipments of really fresh timber are still healthy, most of the mills being closed down at the shipping ports, and what is being sold at such low prices now is nothing more than the tail end of what was left over from last season's production.

And also has the following on the Scotch market:

The yellow pine market does not change appreciably; holders of first-class wood take up a firm attitude in respect of price in view of the limited stock in hand, but second-class quality is still overabundant, and even at reduced quotations sales are difficult to effect. In deals of all qualities prices are steady. The good rate at which consumption proceeds in pitch pine is maintaining for it a steady price, but there is little indication of a much-needed improvement, the stocks being above a normal condition. There is considerable quantities of birch in stock, largely made up of poor quality, for which there is little or no demand. There are very extensive supplies on hand of planks, and they are going off very slowly.

The oak market is fairly good. A steady outlet is found for first-class wood, and inferior qualities are not so excessively in stock. Prices for heavy wood are very firm.

METALS.—COPPER—Ingot following our last report actually sold with considerable freedom and that being supplemented by rumors of additional contracts of more or less magnitude served as a stimulus to values. Of late, however, demand seems to have fallen away again to an ordinary routine volume, and the market at the present writing is lacking in animation, although holding a steady position. Exporters have bought 5,000,000 pounds at not above 9¾c. delivery, to run well into next year. On the average range of valuation we quote at 9⅞@10c. for Lake and 9½@9⅝c. for casting brands. Manufactured copper shows nothing new of positive interest. The demand embraces an ordinary run of orders from regular sources with now and then an extra call for special purposes with the supply at all times equal to the outlet, but not excessive, as manufacturers are using considerable care in preventing a burdensome output. Old rates are generally adhered to. We quote as follows: Sheet, not above 30x72 in., 16 oz. and over, 22c.; do. 14 to 16 oz., 23c.; do. 12 to 14 oz., 24c.; do. 10 to 12 oz., 25c.; do. 8 to 10 oz., 28c.; do. under 8 oz., 30c. Sheets longer than 72 inches add 1c. for 12@14 oz., 2c. for 10@12 oz. and 3c. for 8@10 oz. Sheets not above 36x96 in., 16 oz. and over 22c.; do. 14 to 16 oz., 24c.; do. 12 to 14 oz., 26c.; do. 10 to 12 oz., 30c.; do. 8 to 10 oz., 33c. Sheets longer than 96 inches 22c. for over 32 oz. and add 1c. for 16 to 32 oz.; 1c. 14 to 16 oz.; 1c. 12 to 14 oz.; 1c. for 10 to 12 oz., and 2c. for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets, not above 48x96, 32 to 64 oz., 22c.; do. 16 to 32 oz., 24c.; do, 14 to 16 oz., 26c.; do, 12 to 14 oz., 28c.; do, 10 to 12 oz., 32c. Sheets wider than 48x96 and longer, 22@27c. for 32 to 64 oz.; 25@28c. for 16 to 32 oz.; 27@29c. for 14 to 16 oz. and 29@34c. for 12 to 14 oz. All bath tub sheets, per lb., 16 oz., 26c.; 14 oz., 26c.; 12 oz., 27c., and 10 oz. and lighter, 29@32c. Bolt copper, ⅜ inch diameter and over, 22c. Circles, segments and pattern sheets, 60 diameter and less, 3c. above price of sheets of same thickness; circles, 60 to 96 do do, 4c. do; circles, 96 do and over, 5c. do. Cold or hard rolled copper, 1@2c. per lb. above the foregoing prices. Copper bottoms, 26@32c. per lb. IRON—American pig has not found a demand equal to the ordinary average for the season and the market as a whole ranged dull and spiritless with operators generally much given to complaint. As yet very little has been done in the way of negotiation against supplies for next year, and it appears to be a matter over which actual consumers feel quite indifferent. For the higher qualities and favorite brands a fair measure of firmness is preserved, but on low foundry iron and mill grades there is a considerable amount of irregularity, with an intimation of business doing below rates ordinarily named. We quote at $14.00@14.50 per ton for No. 1 X foundry; $13.00@13.50 for No. 2 X do., and $11.50@12.50 for Gray Forge. Old material in small lots has found a very fair demand, enough in the aggregate to keep the market in steady position for most kinds of stock. Large parcels, however, cannot be placed, and the cautious methods of buyers indicate that it would be useless to attempt hurrying matters. We quote at $12.50@14.00 for old iron rails; $10.00@11.50 for No. 1 wrought scrap; $10.00@11.50 for cast scrap; $12.50@13.00 for old car wheels, and $6.50@10.00 for borings, stove plate, etc. Manufactured iron and steel finds an unsatisfactory market all around. Ordinary merchant stock sells very slowly and moderately, and operators frankly confess disappointment over the limited number of estimates they are called upon to make upon structural assortments. On the average about former valuations are made. We quote Beams up to 15-inch, 1.75@2c.; 20-inch, 2.10@2.25c. for round lots; Angles, 1.75@1.90c.; Universal Mill Plates, 1.70@1.90c.; Tees, 2@2.15c.; Channels, 1.80@2c.

on dock. Steel plates are 1.65@1.90c. for Tank; 1.90@2.10c. for Shell; 2@2.15c. for Flange, and 2.50@2.80c. for Fire Box, on dock; Refined Bars are 1.60@1.90c. on dock, and Common, 1.45@1.60c. Steel rails, since the break down in price advised in a note appended to our last report, have had a very uncertain market. Some manufacturers for a time were unwilling to admit the breaking up of the combination, but that attitude having finally become untenable the policy of secrecy has been adopted, and very little positive information is obtainable. It does not look as though any very great amount of really new business had been worked through even at the modified cost, and the general assumption is that $20 for standard sections at the mills is rarely exceeded. We quote nominally standard sections $20@22 or $29 per ton at mill, with usual advances for delivery at tide water. Pig lead meets with speculative demand of somewhat limited character, and sells rather irregularly to consumers. The supply, however, seems to be kept very well in hand, and the market rounded up into a firm position for the present. We quote at 3.12@3½c. per lb. The manufactures of lead are quoted at 6¼c. for Pipe, 7c. for Sheet, 15c. for Tin-lined Pipe, and 37½c. for Block Tin Pipe. Pig Tin is said to show a gradual reduction of stock in first hands, and that induces a steady tone among holders, but new demand from consumers is of slow, unimportant character, and speculative moves are cautious. It is said that every bullish movement is confronted by an offering of actual tin. We quote at about 20.65@20.70c. for round lots, and 20¾@21c. for jobbing parcels. Tin plate finds indifferent attention for future delivery, and the spot business is still confined in the main to small quantities required for ordinary trade wants. Without radical or general changes prices have rather favored buyers. We quote as follows: I. C. Charcoal, Melyn grade, $6.37½@6.50; Charcoal, Melyn grade crosses, $8.00; I. C. Charcoal, Allaway grade, $5.60@5.65; Allaway grade crosses, $6.75; Charcoal terne, M. F. grade, 14x20, $7.50@7.55; M. F. grade, 20x28, $14.75@14.80; Worcester, 14x20, $5.70@5.75; Worcester, 20x28, $11.35@11.40; Dean grade, 14x20, $5.30@5.37½; Dean grade, 20x28, $10.50@10.60; D. R. D. grade, 14x20, $5.15@5.20; D. R. D. grade, 20x28, $10.10@10.15; I. C. Coke, Penlan grade, $5.30@5.35; J. B. grade, 14x20, $5.35@5.40; I. C. Bessemer steel, squares, $5.60@—— basis; I. C. Siemens steel, squares, $5.65@—— basis. Spelter has toned up somewhat in price and found occasional fuller sale. The demand, however, shows somewhat erratic tendencies, and holders of supply have acted as though deeming it prudent to secure all custom as it became available. We quote $3.70@3¾c. for Common Western, according to brand.

At the close it is rumored, and generally believed, that a new combination of the principal Steel Rail manufacturers has been formed. Commenting on the subject a local trade journal says:

"The event of the week has been the sudden cessation of war among the steel rail mills, through the completion of an arrangement by which the Illinois, Carnegie, Cambria, Bethlehem and Lackawanna mills lease the rail-making plants of the Maryland and Pennsylvania steel companies. We understand that the former will be closed down, with the exception of the marine department, and that the latter will cease making standard sections, a business from which it has practically withdrawn for some time. The price of rails is now $24 at Eastern mills and $25 at Western Works, for delivery during the year 1894.

"Whether the railroads will enter the market at that figure may be regarded as doubtful, since they will probably hold that they have nothing to lose by delay. So far as the steel trade generally is concerned these latest developments will probably prevent the improvement in the demand for pig and ore which it was expected would follow war prices for rails. On the other hand, it is believed that the stoppage of the Maryland plant may have some effect on the Eastern billet market, since the company in question were at times heavy producers of soft steel. On the whole reports from the different markets are not encouraging."

NAILS.—No real improvement can be found upon the market. Now and then operators claim better sale for wire nails, and again the same story may be heard regarding cut, but in a day or two reports from the same quarter will be of a diametrically opposite character, and the uneven nature of the business is thus shown, while the average volume makes no increase. Prices do not fluctuate much now, they are too low for that, but also fail to improve. We quote Cut at $1.00@1.05 per keg for car lots and $1.20@1.25 per keg for parcels from store for iron, and add 3c. per keg for steel; Wire, $1.20@1.30 for car lots, and $1.60@1.65 from store.

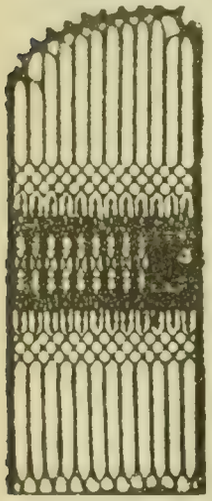
PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—A plain matter of fact statement regarding the general market is that it continues very slow and unsatisfactory. Buyers have insisted that as soon as they made up the moderate assortment supposed to be sufficient to carry them into the new year, and they very generally seem to be verifying their assertions for all kinds of stock. It is probably fortunate that strong symptoms of that policy developed as soon as the recuperations from the prostration of summer set in, because manufacturers have not been led into over-production and done all they could to work off stock in hand. In the face of existing trade conditions there was only one way to accomplish such end and that was in a cutting of rates, which has been general and in some cases deep. It is, however, not in all cases openly admitted, and for such a staple as white lead old list figures are retained Corroders' rates stand as follows: Lead in oil in kegs and dry lead in kegs in lots of less than 500 lbs., 7¼c. net; in lots of 500 lbs. to 5 tons at one purchase, 6¾c.; 5 tons to 12 tons, one purchase, 6⅝c.; 12 tons and over, one purchase, 6½c. Lead in oil in 12½ lb. tin pails, add 1c.; in 25 and 50 lb. tin pails, add ½c.; and in 1 to 5 lb. tin cans, assorted (100 lbs. in case) add 2½c. per lb. to keg price. Terms on lots of 500 lbs. and over, note or acceptance at sixty days, or 2½ per cent discount will be allowed for cash paid within fifteen days of invoice date. To make either of the above required quantities any assortment of packages of white lead, red lead and litharge may be counted. The above quotations are free on board cars or boat at corroding point. Linseed Oil has remained steady for the product of city crushers, but outside products were pressed for sale somewhat at irregular rates, with a general tendencey in buyers' favor. We quote at 10@12c. for Western, 43@45c. for City from domestic seed, and 61@62c. for do. from Calcutta seed. Spirits Turpentine remains at practically unchanged rates, with an irregular business doing, but on the whole not much animation. Offerings, of late, have tended toward an increase. We quote at 30@31c. per gallon, according to quality, quantity, delivery, etc.

The National Paint, Oil and Varnish Association met in convention at Pittsburgh this week. Among other recommendations the President favored the organization of a bureau of credits for the purpose of obtaining information to protect its subscribers An important action at the session was the passage of a resolution to discontinue the exchange of paints. How to make the oil, paint and varnish clubs which now exist interesting from a social as well as a business standpoint was also discussed.

The officers selected were: President, John D. Morton, Boston; First Vice-President, William Waterall, Philadelphia; Second Vice-President, H. D. Cutler, Kansas City; Secretary, D. Van Ness Parsons, Chicago; Treasurer, Wm. Roydell, Detroit.

The next meeting will be held in Boston on the second Tuesday of October.

STONE.—A report from Kingston, N. Y., under date of November 23d, says:



The property of the Bigelow Bluestone Company, situated at Malden, Ulster County, was sold under a mortgage foreclosure of $137,000, in this city, to-day. It was purchased by J. Taylor Harris, of New York, President of the Ulster Bluestone Company, for $100,000. The property, which was sold for the benefit of mortgage bondholders, is one of the most valuable bluestone properties in the State.

TAR AND PITCH.—Demand is without general animation, and it is not uncommon to find operators complaining somewhat forcibly of the moderate and unsatisfactory run of custom they are securing. Supplies, however, seem to be pretty well managed so as to prevent an excess of offering upon an unwilling outlet, and pretty much the old general range of values is secured. We quote Tar at $1.70@1.75 in pine or Wilmington bbls., $2.10@2.15 in pork bbls., and $3.00@3.25 in oil bbls.; Pitch $1.50@1.70.

VOL. LII. DECEMBER 2, 1893. No. 1,342

THERE are pretty good indications that railroad securities are coming more into fashion, both for investment and speculative purposes at home; and abroad confidence is being revived in the Americans dealt on the Exchanges there which are predominantly railroad securities. In the last week the weakness shown in the industrials, due largely to the throwing over of stocks in the conviction that it is utterly impossible to get any information in regard to them on which to base a fair opinion, did not materially effect railroad stocks, while railroad bonds have moved steadily up, the movement affecting even the income issues. The industrials have got themselves most thoroughly into disgrace and they can now only be useful for gambling purposes until the people who control them change their tactics and publish reliable statements of their condition. As this is only probable in times when the condition of business will permit better showings than can now be possible, there is not much likelihood of the industrials having an early rise from their present low plane in the public favor. As regards the railroads, they have had a hard time for a good while but are rising from the depression consequent thereto with such steadiness that the minds of the investors are being recalled to the fact of the security they offer for the money invested in them. The conduct of the railroads is now done so much under the eye of the public that their good or bad fortunes stand out more prominently than those of other industries; but if a comparison should be made it would probably be found that at the end of a long spell of bad times they come out proportionately as well as some others. Certainly this is underrating the case of the railroads and the industrials listed on the Stock Exchange, and would probably be the case if the records of the iron and railroad interests of the country for the past two years were set side by side. General business continues to improve. Of this the return of the lessened number of failures in the United States may be taken as an indication. As was remarked a week ago, people are taking more heart and a brighter look into the future, which is a great point gained. Tariff reform as interpreted by the Democratic portion of the Committee on Ways and Means is less disturbing to business than was expected from the talk that preceded the publication of the Committee's recommendations. At any rate, Congress is not likely, in view of the lately expressed opinion of the people, to be more if even so radical as the Committee; consequently it may be taken that the worst is known, and as general business was so near at a standstill before, there is no reason why this legislation should retard its revival under conditions adapted to the possible tariff changes.

IN reading the newspaper comments upon the Wilson bill, it is difficult to miss a sense of effort, a certain strain for utterance in what is said, be the tenor of the remarks either applausive or condemnatory. Save perhaps in one or two particulars there is not apparently anything in this last effort at tariff-tinkering that will really arouse the deep emotion of either of the two economic camps. We shall hear, of course, a great deal about, on the one hand, "beginning of the emancipation of Labor," and on the other, of the "rude blow that has been struck at American industries;" but all such talk is more of a sad commentary upon the intelligence of the country than upon any mighty change in our affairs likely to result from the Wilson bill. Political ignorance and wrongheadedness have greatly exaggerated the part which the tariff has played, one way or the other, in the development of this country. Politicians have raised the power of the tariff in making us what we are to the very first place, whereas it has played quite a secondary or insignificant part. Put sixty-five millions of intelligent people on a new continent of immense natural resources and it will be strange if they do not attain to a high degree of prosperity, with or without a tariff. The idea that the tariff has been the chief instrumentality in building up our immense manufacturing industries is absurd; yet, to hear people talk one would imagine were it not for the tariff this country would still be in a "backwoods" condition, growing a little corn and with difficulty maintaining a hard agricultural life. The real foundation upon which our factories are built is the unparalleled natural resources of the land and the keen enterprising intelligence of our people. We can't make a party cry out of that, so we hear little of it. But it is the one fact that stands out more prominently than any other, when we consider the growth of any of our industries. Apparently every people has its fetish, and the tariff has been ours. We worship it or quarrel with it, as the case may be, and as with the savage and his totem imagine that it cuts a tremendous figure in our affairs. Of course just as the tariff has had only a secondary effect (one way or the other) upon our prosperity in the past, so, in the future, its abolition, if that be brought about, will bring little for us of either advantage or of evil. But there is one direction in which the tariff certainly does work harm. It is a perpetual element of uncertainty in the commercial world. It keeps the minds of our manufacturers and merchants constantly disturbed. It thwarts progress. Every four years we are in a state of turmoil about it, and then for more than a year following the business men of the country do not know exactly where they stand. Far better than any regulation or modification of rates or schedules would be a determination to stop tinkering with the tariff for another decade.

Clearing House Loan Certificates.

THE banks cannot prevent panics, because those wretched experiences are due to causes that are entirely beyond their reach in the beginning. They can either precipitate a panic, however, when the conditions are prepared, or they can break the force of the fall if panic comes. Whether they will do the one or the other depends largely upon their confidence in their own strength. The banks, therefore, it will be seen, hold relations to the community somewhat broader than any obligations created by the exercise of their merely banking functions.

There are, approximately, six thousand banks in the United States, and of this number about six hundred either failed, suspended or found themselves involved in some sort of complication which was a good enough equivalent for failure during the disturbance which so recently brought the industries of the country to their present low ebb. Then it must be said that these six hundred embarrassed banks were contributors to the panic, and that they helped to intensify its distress and increase the total of the mischief wrought. This was something which should never have been permitted.

We call-market disturbances financial panics. But this is a misnomer in at least all the earlier stages of their manifestations, and it should be a misnomer to the end. We use language too loosely. Any disturbance broad enough to amount to a general panic is of industrial, or rather, of combined mercantile and industrial origin. The inception is due to industrial and traffic conditions brought about by a derangement between the cost of production and the market price of products, and a panic only becomes broadly financial in its character when financial institutions or financial operators have permitted themselves to become complicated by mercantile or industrial shortcomings beyond their ability to recover. There could be little mischief done comparatively were panics confined to their first cause, and generally understood to result from industrial mismanagement complicated only by the laws of ordinary every-day traffic over the merchants' counter or at the agents' desk. Will it be possible to ever draw the line between industrial or mercantile and financial affairs so plainly that the difference will be universally observed?

The answer to this question depends mainly on the banks themselves. What they need is a broader and more comprehensive intelligence on market conditions, and an ability which they do not now possess for controlling the wildcat, always at large in the industrial woods and ready to attack the financier wherever he is found unprotected or defenseless. They need an intelligence, which can only be gained by a more highly perfected system of association, a system which in its ramifications will cover every commercial district, and be much more complete in its operations than the machinery of any existing mercantile agency.

Fortunately, the first steps in the direction of this highly perfected form of association have already been taken, and as according to the French proverb it is only the first step that costs the remaining steps should be easily and soon covered. When the Clearing House expedient was devised a great stride was taken. It originated in necessity, of course, and the object was only the convenience of customers; but it was a recognition of the interdependence of bankers, and it has already borne most excellent fruit in establishing the custom of issuing Clearing House Loan certificates, a custom which has wrought wonders in breaking the force of panics, and preparing the conditions for prompt recovery. The great banks no longer fail. Then why should any bank fail when a custom that protects the great banks is so readily within the reach of all banks whether great or small?

It is easy to see the first objection that might be raised against a propostion for bringing all the banks under the operations of an associated system. Among the six thousand banks in the United States there are many, doubtless, that are very badly managed and others, again, conducted on insufficient capital. Could the great banks reasonably take any risks for the protection of these wildcat concerns, which ought not to have any recognized place in finance? Possibly not; but this would be an objection not likely to prove very enduring. Such banks ought not to have any place in finance; and when the banking system comes to have an intelligent head, with eyes penetrating everywhere, we may be certain that all the inadaptable bankers will change their vocation.

It is not necessary, however, that all the banks of the Union should be included in a single association. The dread and antipathy felt for centralization would possibly make such an association impossible indeed; but associations that covered single States or districts, provided they were correspondent associations, could serve us just as well or perhaps even better. Thus limited, it would not be difficult to know the merits of any applicant for banking franchises, and we could be pretty certain that there would soon be no bad banks or incompetent bankers.

Another objection, too, could be raised; but it would have hardly more force than the objection just considered. It could be said that were banks secured against failure they would become reckless in granting accommodations. But the danger of loss would generally be quite sufficient to prompt bank officers to prudence. Experience has not proved, we believe, that the practice of issuing Clearing House Loan certificates has made it any easier to obtain accommodations from banks on insufficient securities.

We need a banking system that will make bank failures impossible, and make a place for the deposit of mercantile intelligence as well as of money. We are growing in the right direction; but the growth is exceedingly slow when six hundred banks in the United States can be practically wrecked or compelled to seek shelter in a single tempest. We are making, too, of the Clearing House Loan certificate a danger signal when it should be made a pledge of as perpetual fair weather as the banks can produce or prognosticate.

As much real estate trading has been consummated this week as could reasonably have been expected, with the continued depression in general business and the break in the week on account of the Thanksgiving holiday. The trading continues to be of a character largely indicative of continued liquidation in other lines of business. Where owners of income-producing property have parted with it, the prices have uniformly been below those that ruled in the spring. That there is some continued selling of residence property, occasionally at good prices, shows that not all builders nor all buyers have suffered greatly from the recent panic. The loan market is slowly relaxing its tension, but some of the Life Insurance Companies are still trying to exact the highest legal rate of interest on existing loans. The Mutual Life Insurance Company, as late as last week, notified the owner of a house worth at least $43,000, that the interest on his mortgage of $15,000 would be 6 per cent, after the 1st of January. While this sort of thing continues, there can be no material improvement in the market. The auction market also continues sluggish. The important Broadway property sold on Tuesday, at the Real Estate Salesroom, at $131,000, it is universally conceded, was worth very much more. As THE RECORD AND GUIDE has before remarked, the intelligent and well-advised investor has now his opportunity in the New York real estate market.

PRESIDENT VAN HORNE in extolling the financial condition of his own railroad—the Canadian Pacific—incidentally discloses, or rather, as the matter is one that has frequently been spoken of before, refers to a certain reprehensible practice which has become so common that it is really legitimatized in the management of our transportation companies, but which nevertheless is a gross perversion of trust that expropriates for the benefit of directors and others rich sources of revenue to which stockholders morally are entitled. It is well known that upon many of our railroads the ordinary business of transportation is not the most profitable of all its services. A company's traffic nowadays develops very little beyond the primary stage before the need for a number of subsidiary and auxiliary services arises, many of them being very highly profitable. Among these adjuncts to the main work of the road may be mentioned sleeping, refrigerating and other special freight cars, grain elevators, lake and other steamers, telegraph, express, and fast despatch services. In the case of the Canadian Pacific these sources of income yield to the stockholders, as President Van Horne points out, $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent on $65,000,000 of ordinary shares. So large a return as this will no doubt surprise some of our readers, yet on many American lines these special services must be vastly more profitable. On, for instance, a road like the New York Central they are in much greater demand than can possibly be the case in a scattered country like Canada, where the requirements of the people are much less exacting than with us. In the United States, however, these sources of income are surrendered or "farmed out" to private individuals or corporations and the stockholder gets little from them. The bulk of the profits go directly or by circuitous channels to the pockets of the "coterie" that manage the road. It is in this way far more than by owning "common stock" that the large "railroad fortunes," which figure so prominently in contemporary history, have been made and are now augmenting.

ANOTHER month hence the change in the government of Brooklyn, decreed at the polls on the 7th of November, will have been fully accomplished and the Schieren administration will begin its career. Between now and then the Mayor-elect will be in the hands of the wire-pullers. The ordeal will be the most trying one of his official career, and the quiet people will watch its outcome with some measure of anxiety. Little would be feared by them from the attacks of the ordinary run of ward politicians—the Mayor-elect has demonstrated a superiority to the smaller fry of politicians, and upon this have been founded large hopes of his ability to cope with the larger devils. These have already indicated their line of attack. Mr. Schieren is a Republican. As such the leading Republican party organ in the State has undertaken to advise and direct him in the composition of his government, and, to our way of thinking, has burdened him with a load of very bad advice. It is doubtless justified by the majority sentiment of Brooklyn in advising a clean sweep of all the offices not purely menial, for if only a portion of the charges against the minions of the present "boss" are true there is not a department of the present city government into which corruption has not crept. A clean sweep of the offices under the impulse of the reform movement, even if in time the new officials do demonstrate no great superiority over their predecessors, will have a present salubrious effect upon the political atmosphere. It will mean the complete execution of the popular judgment recorded at the polls. But the moral effect would be lost completely, the victory be turned to defeat, if Mr. Shieren should act upon the further advice of the Tribune and fill all the offices with partisans of its stripe.

DOUBTLESS, the Independents and better class of Democrats who made Mr. Schieren's election possible would be the last to complain if he should follow the Tribune's advice. They voted as they did because they wanted a change, and were willing to trust the details to him, holding him responsible individually (and not the Republican party, with which they have little sympathy) for the manner in which he fulfills the trust. There was a larger significance in the recent election, however, than either the Tribune or any of its active partisans has apparently been able to appreciate. The politicians had almost no part in it. The first work of the reform wave was to overflow and obliterate the Republican machine, in convention; the next to overwhelm and sink in oblivion the Democratic machine, at the polls. In this action a union was effected of the forces which should always be dominant in municipal politics, but which have hitherto been divided on irrelevant and immaterial issues, through the operation of partisan influences in which the Tribune has been a chief offender. It will be a most lamentable misfortune if this union is not preserved and strengthened and perpetuated. Not often does the mayoralty of any city offer opportunities for the display of high statesmanship, but the mayoralty of Brooklyn, under present conditions, is a distinct exception to this rule. Brooklyn, among all the large cities of the State, has the best charter. Under its provisions the people can effect a revolution in their local government by a change of mayors. The Mayor of Brooklyn has powers of appointment and administration which make him master of the whole government. If Mr. Schieren shall so exercise these powers as to cement and perpetuate the union of non-partisan municipal voters to future years of usefulness, he will merit the name of Statesman as few in the field of American politics ever have. He cannot do this by taking partisan advantage of his opportunities of appointment, or by ignoring the non-partisan influences which elevated him to power. We think these are points which Mr. Shieren better appreciates than any of the partisan apes that are now seeking to make a party cats-paw of him.

SOME of the evils, however, which have crept into the government of Brooklyn under thee dominion of the bosses can only be cured by legislation; and some of them, too, by repeal of legislation obtained by the bosses. Making private gain of legal sales of real estate for the boss is one of the evils that ought to be corrected and that will need legislation to effect its cure. It is demanded by all the genuine real estate interests of the city. It is an outrage upon the rights of the mortgage debtor that foreclosure sales can be and are conducted in a private salesroom and with little or no publicity. The invariable result is to extinguish the equity of the debtor, and the frequent result, the piling up of a deficiency judgment against him. But the larger resulting evil, by far, is the depressing influence of such sales upon the general market value of real estate throughout the city. Real estate is extremely sensitive to all such influences; indeed, we may safely say that, in the recent Brooklyn election, it was the revolt of the house-owners that overthrew the bosses. The most convincing indictment of the machine, the most persuasive argument against its continuation in power, were based upon its offences against real estate interests. It will be a consistent part of the policy of the new administration to restore the confidence of the people in Brooklyn realty. A long step in this direction will be effected when the legal sales of real estate are ordered to be held at the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange.

Opinions of Experts.

TIMELY OBSERVATIONS BY PRESIDENT ANDREW SOULARD, OF THE GERMAN-AMERICAN TITLE GUARANTEE COMPANY, OF AUCTIONEER PETER F. MEYER, AND OF TREASURER JAMES QUINLAN, OF THE GREENWICH SAVINGS BANK, ON THE CONDITION OF THE REAL ESTATE AND LOAN MARKETS.

All along during the recent stress of financial weather it was commonly remarked that real estate would revive as soon as the money market should resume its normal condition. Now that the banks have scheduled a recovery of their long absent cash and have accumulated a reserve of unprecedented magnitude, and the bulletins of loan brokers frequently display "4½ per cent" signals, and the daily press is industriously booming the market, both in loans and real estate, people who have been seeking an opportunity to resume building and trading are in a quandary to know why it is that they are unable to secure the desired advances.

One of the reasons appears to be that there is a bad deal of falsehood in the newspaper reports and the bulletins, and another is that the bankers and large money lenders are by no means convinced that the end of wholesale liquidation has been reached. Some of them plainly declare that in their efforts to stimulate the convalescent industries of the country the economic doctors have overdone the thing—have enlarged upon every favorable fact and concealed or suppressed the unfavorable facts, and have established the conditions for an inevitable relapse. This business relapse is predicted to occur immediately after New Year's and will result in considerable enforced liquidation and the postponement of the expected advent of final and complete recovery of trade energy until well along towards the middle of February.

An example of the kind of misleading "news" in circulation is the daily reports in most of the newspapers of mills and factories that have resumed operations since the shut-down during the panic. These reports have been framed in a style calculated to convey the impression that the resumption is nearly if not quite complete. A prominent manufacturer, who has an extensive establishment in the Hudson River manufacturing district, and whose mill was reported recently as having resumed operations with a full force, said that the facts were that he had only started the mill to give employment and support to the comparatively few expert operatives, who would be compelled to migrate if he did not do so, and these were working on only two-thirds time.

Inquiry among the banks and loaning institutions affords a nearer explanation of the backwardness of the loan market. President Andrew Soulard, of the German-American Title Guarantee Company, whose appraisements of the financial situation have been remarkably accurate, said: "In the last interview we had, which was just before the passage of the Repeal Bill, I told you I believed the Senate had held it so long that the good effects expected upon its earlier passage would not ensue. You did not publish that statement, because the Repeal Bill passed before your paper went to press. Well, you see, I was right. There has been a toilsome recovery of a small part of the lost ground, but, so far as real estate and loans are concerned, the conditions are about the same as they were just before the passage of the Repeal Bill. Most of the trading that is in progress is by way of liquidation. People who are not in pressing need of ready money are not now selling real estate, and no one is buying, except at material concessions in price. So long as the large loaning institutions continue to exact the legal rate of interest there will be no revival of trading."

The reporter remarked that prominent brokers had informed him as much as a month ago that the life insurance companies had resumed the lending of money at 5 per cent, and only a few moments before another large loan broker had said that 5 per cent money was a drug in the market, and that loans on undoubted security could be made at 4½ per cent. To this Mr. Soulard replied by exhibiting a letter of recent date from the Mutual Life Insurance Company, addressed to the owner of a residence property in West 86th street, for which $40,000 had been paid, and on which the company held a mortgage of but $15,000. The letter informed the owner that after the first of January next the interest upon that mortgage would be 6 per cent. "The gentleman came to me to borrow the money to pay off the insurance company's mortgage. I said 'yes, we will let you have $15,000 or $20,000, if you like, at 5 per cent; but he didn't want to pay 5 per cent—wanted it at 4½.' Said he had seen brokers' signs saying they had 4½ per cent money and the newspapers were reporting loans at 4½. I said 'yes, I saw one of those signs myself — around the corner — you go there and see if they have got the money to lend. Your security is good enough.' He came back in a little while and reported that they were willing to make the loan at 5 per cent, but their 4½ per cent money was only to lend on stores—on avenue property. If his security had been avenue stores their 4½ per cent money would probably have been to lend only on office buildings.

"I do not doubt but that there is some money to loan at 4½ per cent, but it will be loaned only on improved first-class business property, and up to not to exceed 50 per cent of the appraised value. Until money can be obtained on the general run of New York City realty at 5 per cent and less, and up to 70 per cent or so of the value of the property, the loan market will not be a reliable assistant to real estate operations. Yes, I think that prices will go lower than now between this and the 1st of January—yes, real estate prices—and there will be no material recovery from the business depression until Congress has taken definite action on the tariff law. The uncertainty of the prospect with regard to the tariff is what is now retarding business recovery more than anything else. The fact that the banks have $70,000.000 of reserves, in excess of the 25 per cent reserve required by law affords a measure of security for the future, but does not materially relieve the present depression. A prominent bank president said to me a few days ago: 'We used to think a 22 or 23 per cent reserve was a very big one, but now we have 36 per cent, and we're going to keep it, too.' The banks are in better position to know the secrets of tottering houses, and they know what they are about. The failure of Canda & Kane, and then of Thurber, Whyland & Co., and now of the American Casualty Co., are evidences of a quiet but persistent and inexorable liquidation still in progress, which will not cease until the doubtful houses have weathered the annual and semi annual settlement day—the 1st of January."

Treasurer James Quinlan, of the Greenwich Savings Bank, said: "There is no plethora of money to lend on bond and mortgage in the savings banks. We are not inviting loans, but have a little to lend and our rate is not above 5 per cent—and not below either. Yes, we will lend up to 50 per cent of the value of the property offered for security—but our estimates of the value of property is that it is not so high as it was some months ago. We have made some few investments in bonds and stocks recently, but that is because we were able to buy on a much better net income basis than at any time before for three years. The savings banks haven't really any money to loan. I say not any, I mean of course that they are hardly in position as yet to make regular real estate loans. Our deposits have been increasing ever since the election; there was a slight increase directly after the repeal of the Sherman law, but after the election there was a decided increase. But I think it only fair to say that our drafts have continued heavy. That shows that a good many of our people are in need of money. Our gain in deposits over and above withdrawals has been, since the first of November, about $50,000. I do not look for better prices in real estate until spring. I would not be surprised if there was some falling off between now and New Year's and a relapse in general business during January and the early part of February. After that if Congress shall have settled the tariff question I think we may look for better times."

Mr. Peter F. Meyer, who stands among financial institutions and loan agencies as one of the most reliable and expert of appraisers, said: "The effort to make a loan market by newspaper misrepresentation is the worst sort of nonsense. It deceives nobody who knows anything about the actual condition of affairs and only makes the papers ridiculous. The fact is that none of our large eastern lenders is putting any money out here now, and the big savings banks up the river and in the interior of the State are not only not lending anything but are still scaling down old loans. There is no market for real estate now; nearly all the selling that is being done is forced by the need of money or to lighten the burden of overhanging debt, and it is done at prices below the market of last spring. Yes, I look for still lower prices between now and the first of the new year. I do not expect a return of the market to normal conditions until along in February. Recent attempts to test the auction market have all resulted in failure. There is no market for real estate—people who can hold their property will not sell at present prices. I am advising all my clients not to offer their property yet awhile—it would be a sheer waste of money to do so. Yes, there is an increased inquiry—I had at least a hundred inquiries about those 70th street houses I sold in the Salesroom week before last—and yet what did they bring?—five to seven thousand dollars each under their real value. The inquiries are all after bargains—and they are getting some, too. There is a great deal of talk about the purchase of the Broadway and Pine street corner by the American Surety Co., and the fact is widely advertised that the price is the highest per square foot ever paid for a Broadway property. But what does it all signify? The company had to have that corner—it was the key piece to their plot, and it was worth to them all that they paid for it. But how does that effect other Broadway property? The company may be able to get from $3 to $4 a square foot rent for their new building—will that increase the rents in the buildings a block above them on Broadway? The influence of that sale and the prospective alteration will of course be good, but the papers are overrating it."

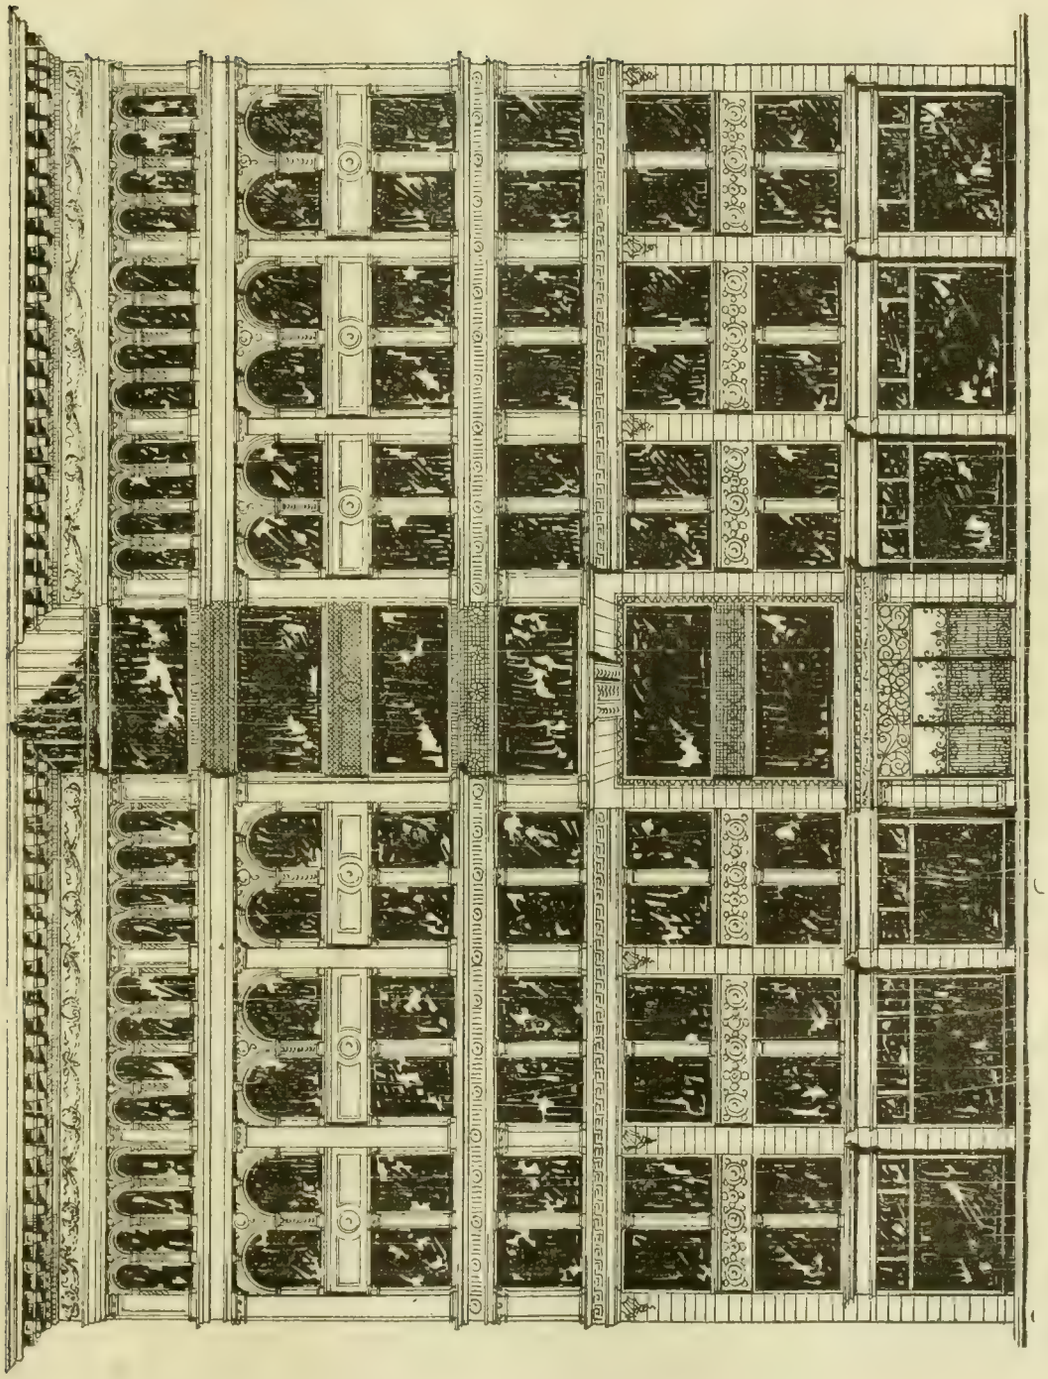
SUGGESTIONS FOR THE MORE ECONOMICAL DIVISION OF THE LONG BLOCKS IN NEW YORK CITY—ADVANTAGES OF THE ARCADE IN BUSINESS CONSTRUCTION.

Ever since the city began to grow above 14th street it has been apparent to every property-owner and resident that in laying out the city with few longitudinal avenues and many transverse streets, making long blocks east and west, across the general line of travel, a gigantic blunder was committed. It sprang from the provincial notion, common fifty years ago, that the business centre of the city would always be below the City Hall, and whatever of the city existed above that latitude would be devoted exclusively to suburban residence, kitchen-garden and farming purposes.

No notion of the tide of human travel that would some day pour through the narrow lanes running north and south seems ever to have entered the conceptions of our forefathers. But that is a feature of the history of every great city, and judging from the spirit prevailing in municipal affairs in our own day, it is doubtful whether they would have built for posterity, even had they foreseen the present condition of affairs. The same disposition to let posterity take care of itself is just as much in evidence now as it was then. And notwithstanding that the arrangement of the blocks above 14th street on the island is universally conceded to be bad, the authorities having in charge the subdivision of the district above the Harlem are proceeding in the same way with it. That they are storing up trouble for future generations apparently makes no difference to them.

But it is a condition rather than a theory that we have to deal with. The long transverse blocks are here and it becomes the immediate business of the real estate and architectural experts to make the best use of them. It must be apparent to everybody that the best disposition of the land in these blocks has not yet been exemplified. It is not for want of invention that the stereotyped arrangement has always been pursued, but because the people of New York, like those of other great cities, are in the habit of following beaten paths like a flock of sheep after a bell-wether, and because building is not in the hands of people of originality of thought and conception.



The blocks between 5th and 6th avenues are 920 feet long and about 200 wide. Each of them contains ninety-two lots of 20x100 each. With the ordinary form of residence construction, say of 20-foot houses, the four corner ones 20x60, and the inside ones 20x50, with 10x15 extensions, the block, containing 184,000 square feet, would contain ninety-two houses, covering 106,000 square feet and leaving 78,000 square feet vacant in the back yards. If the same block were divided into four blocks, each 200x200, by three 40-foot streets at equal intervals, there could be constructed upon the four blocks sixteen corner houses of 20x60 each, sixty-four inside houses of 20x50, with 10x15 extensions, and sixteen 15x75-foot houses facing the new 40-foot streets, altogether covering 110,800 square feet of ground space and leaving 73,200 square feet vacant. The gain would be four complete houses and twelve corners and three new streets, and a system of 5-foot alleys running through the blocks, for service. The loss would be 4,800 feet of back-yard space, equal to a strip about 2½ feet deep off from the rear of each lot. How much easier communication would be between the cross streets can readily be seen.

An Arcade Store in Berlin.

Here is a veritable economy in the use of land which is already the highest in market value of all land of its class and which is more rapidly advancing in value than any other similar property anywhere else in the world. There is published herewith a diagram of a block divided as is above suggested into four square blocks of 200x200 each, with three streets, each 40 feet wide, dividing them, and eight alleyways, each 5 feet wide, two traversing each block and furnishing a service entrance to the rear of the houses. Suppose, for instance, that all the blocks between 5th and 6th avenues and 33d and 59th streets had been so divided; there would be 312 more corners, making room for 104 more houses and the improvement of 62,400 more square feet of land with houses of the average size now in existence in the district specified. Then, too, 624,000 square feet of the present back-yard space would be converted into 40-foot streets, that could be reserved from commercial traffic and left to pedestrians and carriages or to pedestrians alone. What would be the effect upon the values of property throughout the district? Any real estate man of experience would at once say that it would vastly increase them. Of such far-reaching and permanent value would this subdivision be that it would seem a good thing for the municipality to do it even now and assess the cost upon the district.

But the other diagrams and illustrations which accompany this article are not of residence property. They are designed to show what could be done with a plot of lots facing on both streets in about the middle of one of these long blocks. Take for instance the block between 5th and 6th avenues and 33d and 34th streets. It is destined to come into use for business purposes within an early period, and it will serve quite well for this illustration. The idea is to employ the arcade principle in improving these properties for business uses. It is, perhaps, expecting too much of the city authorities to take up the proposition to divide these long blocks so as to make the best possible use of them—any such proposition must in the first instance come from the property-owners themselves. If it can be shown that there is real economy in the suggestion—that the property can be used to greater advantage by so dividing the blocks, perhaps, some time, there will be a concerted movement looking to such subdivision of them. For the purposes of this article, however, the lesser proposition only—how private enterprise can make best use of such a property, is to be considered.

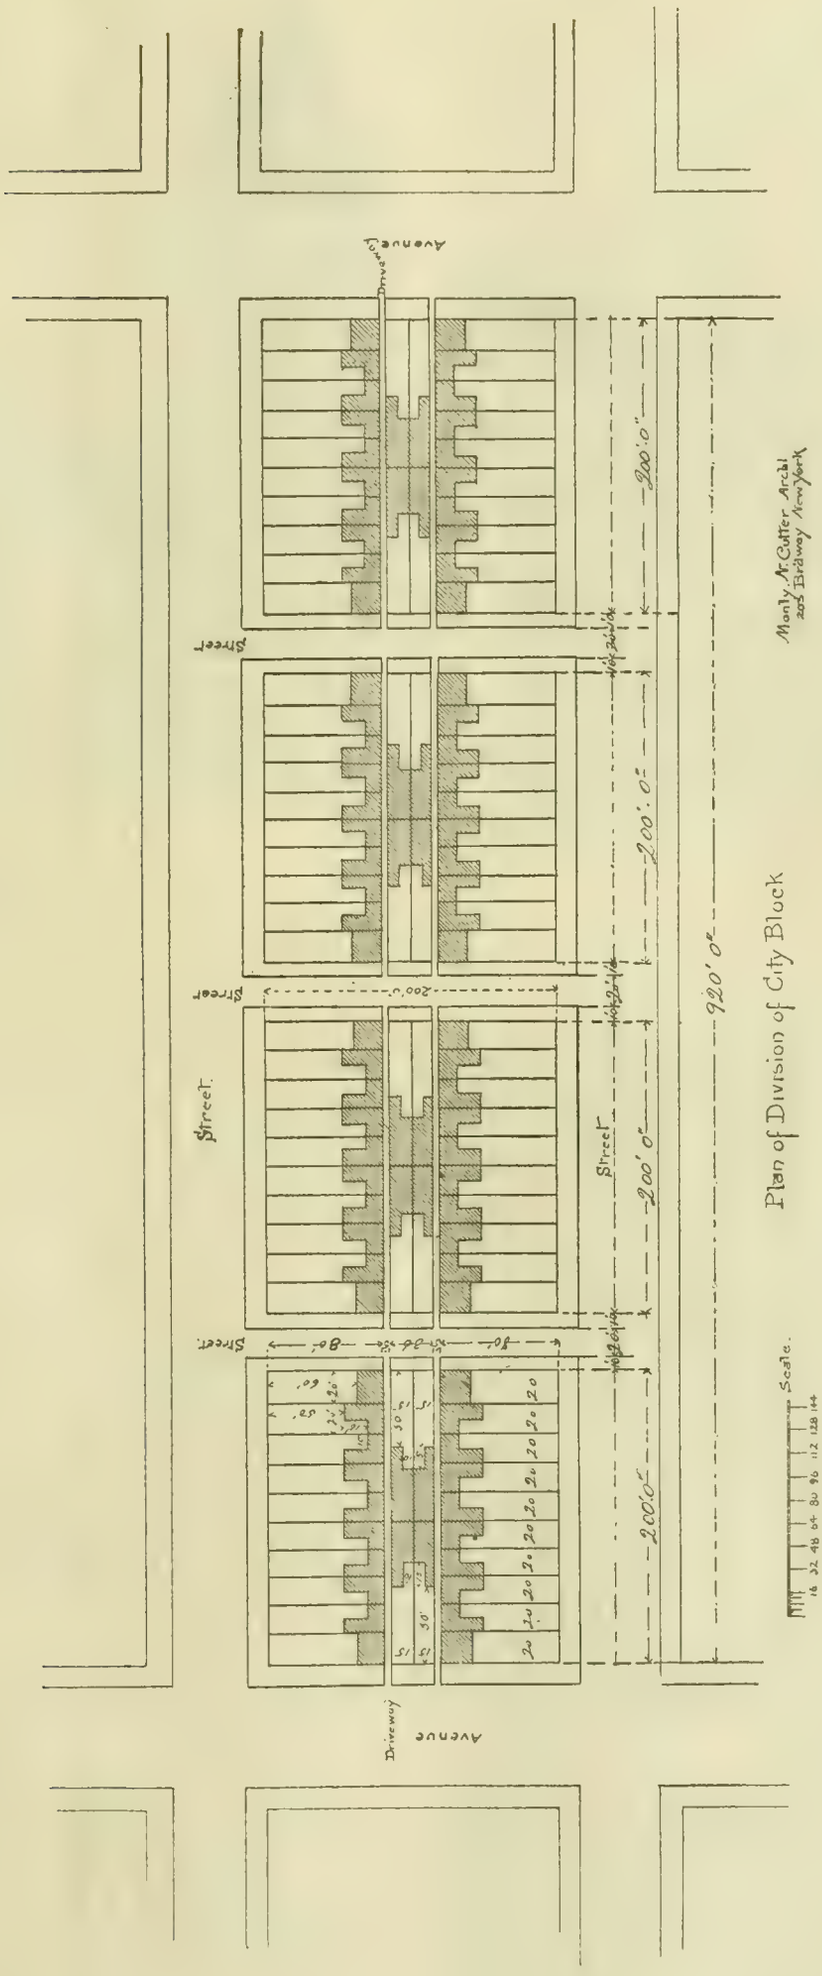
The architect who prepared these illustrations has taken as a ground plot an area similar in dimensions to the space occupied by a retail dry-goods establishment in 23d and 22d streets, between 5th and 6th avenues. The dry-goods store in question is in the interior of the block, some distance from the corners, and makes use of the 23d street front only for display purposes. As in the case of the old A. T. Stewart store on Broadway and 4th avenue, 9th and 10th streets, a very large part of the ground space occupied, is required to be given over to light courts, without further use. Patrons of the 23d street establishment are expected to enter through a single main entrance on that street, and once inside are required to thread their way through congested aisles to the department at which they wish to do their buying. Herein there is, in every large store in New York City and Brooklyn, great waste of time and consequent loss of sales to the proprietors.

It is with a view to facilitating the work of the patrons of such an establishment, of affording the proprietor the best possible facilities for the display and arrangement of his merchandise, and of turning the space thrown into the light court to other use as well, that the accompanying illustrations have been prepared. No attempt at architectural attractiveness has been made, and the drawings are only to be considered in the most general way suggestive of the idea. At the same time they do illustrate a feature in mercantile construction which has yet to be employed in New York City, but which is one of great prominence in London (the far-famed Burlington), in Berlin, in Paris, in Leipzig, in Dresden and in nearly every other large European city. It is that of the Arcade Store.

Assuming a plot running through from street to street, as does the 23d street store, the accompanying drawings show its improvement with an arcade running through its centre from street to street. The suggestion is that this arcade be thrown freely open at both entrances during all business hours and closed at night by iron grilles. The gain to the proprietors would be nearly 400 feet more of street front and fronts on four corners that they would not have in the old arrangement. From the public convenience provided a large addition of patronage would result to the establishment. Beyond the extraordinary attraction which such a novelty in store arrangements would have for the people of this city, the arcade would be a positive benefit to the community in affording a new means of transit through one of these disproportioned blocks.



As shown in the illustration, the arcade would extend through every story to the roof, where it would be sheltered by a glazed arch. A main staircase could be built through it centrally and a gallery surround it at every floor, rendering every floor front on the arcade available for the display of wares and announcements. In a store so arranged there would be no dark or unavailable corners. Every part of the building would be of use. The drawings show the location of elevator and pipe shafts in the middle of each section of the store, back against the side walls, of waiting or retiring rooms adjoining them, and of freight elevators in the corners on one street next to the side walls. The idea regarding these freight elevators is that they should be of size and capacity to admit of a delivery wagon and horse being driven in upon them and lowered to the basement, where parcels would be made up for delivery and stock would be opened and distributed. Other advantages contained in this plan will suggest themselves to the practical merchant. Of the position such an establishment would hold among the great general stores of this city there can be no sort of doubt. It would doubtless possess a more strongly marked individuality than any other store in the country and would probably have a larger patronage than any other.

In the transformation now in progress of the residence section between 5th and 6th avenues to business purposes, 34th street is generally looked upon as the street which will next take character as a great cross-town business street, such as 14th and 23d streets now are, only of greater proportionate importance because it will be in a large measure removed from influences which are drawbacks to the other streets named, and will be more easy of access. Can there be any doubt that a store built and arranged substantially upon the plan suggested in these drawings, with an arcade running through from 33d to 34th street, would be a financial and architectural success?

An "Income Tax" on Rents.

In conversation the other day with a reporter of THE RECORD AND GUIDE, Mr. George S. Lespinasse said: "Among the subjects which greatly engrossed my attention abroad was that of taxation in France. It is a particularly interesting subject. As soon as one gets into it it leads the investigator into touch with a great many phases of life. The conclusion I reached, was, that there is no country whose system of taxation is more suitable for American attention than France. Take for instance the present agitation over the proposition to levy an income tax, which it is said the present Democratic administration has decided to push. It is patent, of course, that the Federal Government must adopt some means to increase its revenue, particularly as it has determined upon a reduction of the tariff. If we are to have a new tax, one upon incomes certainly seems as fair as any that could possibly be suggested. Our people, however, will not tolerate a direct income tax. One can't think very highly of the political sagacity that flies in the face of a notorious popular sentiment. The mistake that the administration is about to make is all the more a blunder, because there is a way of taxing incomes that is not attended by the disagreeable and inquisitorial conditions which are necessary to the collection of what I may call the 'income tax direct.' There is in France an income tax, but the State does not invade the privacy of any man's affairs. How do they do it? Easily enough. A tax is levied upon rents. Everybody in France pays a tax upon rent. The tax is collected by the local authorities and handed over to the National Government. For instance, the City of Paris collects annually 25,000,000 francs from taxes upon rentals. Nobody whose rental is under 500 francs pays anything. The city itself pays for people whose rents are below that figure their tax to National Government. On 500 francs rental the tax is 6 francs 50, say $1.60 per thousand, on 700 francs it is 7 francs, on 800 francs it is 7 francs 90, on 900 francs 9 francs 50, and so on upward in a constantly increasing scale.

"How are the amounts of the rentals fixed? By Tax Commissioners, very much as we assess property for taxation here in New York. The Commissioners fix the rentals every ten years on about four-fifths of the full value. You will notice how easy it is for the National Government to collect a tax of this kind. It does not necessitate a special army of tax gathers, for the force at the disposal of the local authorities is really all that is needed. Another advantage is that with a tax of this sort the Government can calculate with a great degree of certainty upon the amount of revenue it will receive. Thus, here in New York, the Board of Assessors could within a month determine very closely what the rentals in their district would yield. Indeed, I suppose that if one took the assessed value of realty in New York City and placed the rentals of the city at a tenth of that amount the result would not be very far from the actual fact. Finally, a tax of this kind would be popular with poor people, and it would place the burden of the expenses of the State upon those who are best able to bear it."

Owes the City Nearly $800,000.

COMPTROLLER MYERS WANTS THE MANHATTAN ELEVATED RAILROAD COMPANY TO PAY UP.

Comptroller Theo. W. Myers is busy putting his official house in order preparatory to vacating it on the 1st of January, when Congressman Ashbel P. Fitch will become Comptroller Ashbel P. Fitch. Among the matters he is trying to settle is a claim of the city against the Manhattan Elevated Railroad Company for unpaid percentages upon its traffic receipts. When Mr. Myers first came into office it was not pretended by the authorities that the elevated railroads were obligated to pay to the city any percentage of their receipts from fares. Mr. Myers insisted that they were so obligated under the terms of their charters, and pressed the matter in the Sinking Fund Commission. An opinion by the Corporation Counsel which took contrary views to his did not daunt him and he asked and obtained authority to sue the company on the claim and to employ special counsel to conduct the case for the city. He selected John H. Strahan, the well-known Scotch lawyer, since deceased, and Mr. Strahan conducted the suit to a judgment, first, in the Special Term and, on appeal, then in the General Term of the Supreme Court. The Manhattan Elevated Railroad Company succeeded in obtaining a stay of execution pending an appeal to the Court of Appeals, and a reference to a noted lawyer, who died since the reference, viz., John M. Burrill, of the firm of Burrill, Zabriskie & Burrill. Mr. Myers recently addressed an inquiry to Corporation Counsel Clark in the matter, and on Wednesday of last week he received the following reply:

"Hon. THEODORE W. MEYERS, Comptroller:

"SIR—I am in receipt of your communication of 16th November, in which you request me to inform you of the status of the action brought by the City against the Manhattan Railway Company to recover unpaid percentages of the net earnings of the passenger traffic of the 9th and 3d avenue lines of that Company.

"You state that the last payment was made by the Manhattan Company on October 27, 1890, when they paid the sum of thirteen hundred and thirteen dollars and fifty-two cents ($1,313.52) for the quarter ending September 30, 1890, but that since the beginning of this suit the Company has ceased making any payments whatever.

"You further stated that you are informed that the referee appointed by the Supreme Court to ascertain the amount due the City has died, and request me to inform you whether any steps have been taken to secure the appointment of a successor, and also whether it will not be possible to accelerate somewhat the progress of this highly important suit for lack of a determination of which the city is now being deprived of a considerable annual income.

"The present status of this action is as follows:

"An appeal having been taken by the Manhattan Railway Company from the interlocutory decree in favor of the City, which ordered, among other things, an accounting by the defendant, that appeal duly came on for argument last June before the General Term of the Supreme Court, which last month rendered a decision affirming the judgment of the Special Term.

"A motion was thereupon made by the defendant, the Manhattan Railway Company, at the General Term, for a new trial, and at the same time I presented an order of affirmance of settlement.

"The motion of the Company has not been decided, but will doubtless be denied, in which case an appeal will be taken to the Court of Appeals, where it will doubtless be promptly disposed of.

"The defendant obtained a stay of proceedings pending the appeal to the General Term, and will doubtless make a similar application pending its proposed appeal to the Court of Appeals.

"Your information that the referee appointed in the interlocutory decree has died is correct and no steps have been taken to procure the appointment of a successor for the reason that until the decision of the General Term it was impossible to proceed before the referee, and upon the determination of the General Term on the defendant's recent motion for a new trial I will consider what steps should be taken in the matter.

"This suit has been promptly proceeded with by this office, and its future progress will be as rapid as is possible.

"The only delay in this action, of which I am aware, arose from the death of Mr. John H. Strahan, who was employed as special counsel in the case at your suggestion, and from the fact that it was impossible to discover what he had done with the various papers connected therewith, so that very great labor was entailed upon this office in the preparation of findings, etc., for settlement by the Special Term Judge, and also in the preparation for the argument at the General Term. "Yours,

"WM. H. CLARK, Counsel to the Corporation."

Comptroller Myers said that there was due to the city under these judgments about $800,000, and there was no doubt but that the Manhattan Railway Company would have to pay, and hereafter keep on paying the percentage.

NEWS OF THE BUILDING TRADES.

A MUSEUM FOR BUILDERS AND ARCHITECTS.

The Building Material Exhibit, conducted by THE RECORD AND GUIDE, at Nos. 276 to 282 Washington street, Brooklyn, a short distance from the Bridge and directly opposite the Post-office, supplies a want in this great and busy Metropolitan District that is daily appreciated by architects, builders and others interested in building or remodeling. No matter how experienced a person may be in building it is impossible for him to keep posted concerning the many valuable and improved devices and appliances that are constantly being provided for his use. To gather and classify these and other goods and present them for purposes of intelligent inspection and comparison is the object of this exhibition. In other words, it furnishes a carefully-selected material market of large and varied proportions. Somebody wants a flooring of mosaic work; here he can readily find just what is needed. Another desires a suggestion in tile or marble wainscoting; here many beautiful panels instantly convey the idea sought. It may be that newer conceptions in other materials of inside finish or of exterior construction are required; many such will be found in the general display. The exhibition is permanent, open every day and free to everybody.

HOUSE, OFFICE AND STORE TRIMMINGS VARNISHED, POLISHED AND ENAMELED.

The firm of Charles Grimmer & Son, whose card appears on another page, are leaders in their line, viz., Hardwood Finishes. House Office and Store Trimmings are made to look new by their treatment, and the refinishing and enameling of Furniture, Pianos and Hardwood Floors is made a specialty of. When it is added that Messrs. Grimmer did all the work in their line at the new Greenwich Savings Bank, 6th avenue and 16th street, at the Fifth Avenue Bank, at Altman's stores, Ludwig's new store on 14th street and the refinishing at Mr. Twombly's residence on 5th avenue, it will be acknowledged that all orders entrusted to them will be satisfactorily completed. With four floors at their shop there is an abundance of room for handling large orders and safety in transportation is secured by the firm calling for and delivering all work in large padded trucks, something done by no other firm in the same business. At this season, when so many persons are having their houses and furniture put in order for the holidays, it is well for them to know Messrs. Charles Grimmer & Son's address, Nos. 147 and 149 East 22d street.

During the past week the feeling among the architects throughout this city and Brooklyn has taken a more hopeful turn. Several have new and good work in both the city and suburbs, while others are in expectation of commencing work which for a time has been stopped on account of the unsettled feeling among those wishing to build, and, while no very large work is contemplated till spring, they feel that taking everything into consideration they will have much more work during the balance of the really slack season than they have had reason to expect.

Out Among the Builders.

Alfred Zucker has the plans in preparation for a magnificent apartment house to be erected on the northeast corner of 5th avenue and 58th street, adjoining the Hotel Savoy property. The plot, which belongs to Mrs. Louisa M. Gerry, consists of three lots fronting 75.5 feet on the avenue by 100 feet deep, and a lot adjoining on the street, 25x100. The details of the building are not yet complete, but it will, according to Mr. Zucker, be as fine a one as there is in the city. There are to be but two apartments on each floor and the appointments will be as luxurious as they can be made. It will take a year and a-half or more to finish the building.

Charles Rentz has plans for two five-story double brick, stone and terra cotta flats, 25x90 feet each, to be erected at Nos. 433 and 435 East 117th street, for Samuel Otto. Each floor will be arranged to accommodate four families; cost, $38,000.

THE PEARSALL ESTATE SALE.

A sale of suburban realty that will serve as a standard of values for its district for many a day, was held by Charles A. Berrian, on Monday last, on the premises in Westchester county. It was the sale of the noted Pearsall estate, near Pelham Manor. The property, in three plots, fronted on the Williamsbridge road and on the Pelham parkway. One plot of six and-a-quarter acres, including the dwelling, was sold at $4,050 per acre; another, of 156 acres, sold at $2,500 per acre, both plots to Geo. A. Bergmann, who purchased for others—said to be heirs of the Pearsall estate, to whom Mr. Bergman recently transferred the New York properties bought by him; and the third, of nineteen acres, to L. Napoleon Levy, at $305 per acre. The total amount realized was $422,000. The prices obtained were considered fair.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR BUILDERS.

E. A. Cruikshank & Co., 176 Broadway, have two plots of lots to lease on long terms, which offer to enterprising builders opportunities for improvement with large profit. One of them is a plot of eight lots, running through from 92d to 93d street, and located close to the 92d street and Astoria ferry, over which the traffic is constantly increasing and at a rapid rate. The other is a plot of four lots on 1st avenue, in a neighborhood already well settled with good buildings. Messrs. Cruikshank will furnish further particulars on application.

A FINE STORE PROPERTY TO LEASE.

Attention is directed to the advertisement, on another page, of the store property, 50x200, Nos 28 and 30 West 23d street, running through to 22d street, now occupied by Conover & Co., and adjoining Stern Bros.' dry-goods establishment, for lease for a term of years. The property has steam heat and elevators. Chas. V. Halley, at Stern Bros., is the man to apply to.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY-OWNERS.

The time for filing claims for damages for changes of grade in the 23d and 24th Wards, with the Comptroller and Corporation Counsel, under Chapter 537 of the Laws of 1893, will expire on December 7.

FLATS THAT ARE WELL RENTED.

The flats on Manhattan and Morningside avenues, at 115th street, recently completed by T. J. Jenkins & Bro., have the best record we know of as quick renters. Of the sixty-five suites only three are vacant, and the tenants are of the better class. Something like ten suites are occupied by families, the heads of which make a living writing for the newspapers and magazines.

Questions and Answers.

Law Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Please inform me, through your paper, if I hold a mortgage on a piece of property that has become due what notice am I required to give, if any (how many days), that I want it paid off. Yours truly,

SUBSCRIBER.

Answer.—None. Simply demand payment. Our correspondent knows, of course, that it is customary to ask ahead of time, or to wait a few days, before putting the mortgagor to the expense of a foreclosure.—LAW EDITOR.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for further particulars see the last preceding transfer under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

NEW YORK.

BRICKS.—It really looks as though there had been a slight gain to the market during the current week. Business, to be sure, was interrupted by the holiday, but supply and demand came to a closer balance and the tone on price was more solid. Instead of eighteen to twenty barge loads of stock continuously seeking sale the number worked down to a dozen or less and they seemed to be in the hands of operators who were under no obligation or desire to force sales, while some of them made a showing of firmness that was successful in perfecting a greater number of sales at $4.75 up to $5 than heretofore, although we have no report that would appear to justify a raising of the general line of quotations as yet. Consumption is proceeding slowly and in about the form expected, and the incentive for piling away stock has not been sufficient to induce many dealers to resort to that measure, the accumulations really proving unusually small for the season, and until there is a prospect of the river closing it is more than likely that manufacturers will continue shipments. A good general run of quality is still shown, and an absence of really inferior brick may be noted as a feature of the situation. For pales there has been scarcely any demand of late, and the market for them is in an almost wholly nominal position, although it is expected that buyers will not pay much, if any, above the figures for some time ruling. There is nothing new suggested on market for Fronts.

LATH.—It has been a somewhat unsettled market, but averaging a little firmer, and that in the face of increased arrivals. The larger number of cargoes coming to hand was undoubtedly unexpected this time, and may be attributed to the character of the weather along the coast that brought forward considerable stock much more expeditiously than calculated upon at the time of shipment. The progress of the season, however, and some pretty strong winter weather signs had the effect to stir up dealers to the propriety of obtaining whatever additions to their supply they were likely to need. That was particularly the case with out of town custom, with which many of the most successful deals were made. There seems to have been a great amount of flopping around on price, however, with business done at $2.15@2.10@2, and the close still unsettled, although some receivers appeared confident that desirable parcels to arrive could be made to command a figure in excess of anything above named.

LIME—A market under control of a combine does not amount to much beyond what sellers may see fit to make it and becomes barren of specially interesting features. Fuller arrivals have taken place of late, partly due to a succession of easterly winds, yet rather contradicting the previous assertions that shipments had ceased. Quoting rates remain as before and selling figures are supposed to be the same, but evidences are not wanting of some means employed to throw a little special advantage into the hands of buyers.

LUMBER.—Distribution continues of an uncertain character, and while here and there a dealer may be found who has a good word to say about the amount of business doing, the majority are in the old complaining mood. Building operations require very little stuff at the moment and most other lines of consumption are narrow and unimportant. A possible exception to the rule may be made in favor of boxmakers who are benefited by the fall trade in general merchandise, which although below the average, is nevertheless using a great many more cases than during the summer and early fall. The yards are filling up to some extent, a few of them showing larger stocks than expected, but a great deal of the stuff has been owned for many months and only of late ordered forward. Meanwhile the business in a wholesale way is erratic and small. There are some rumors of deals already made for next season's delivery, but as a general thing buyers are indifferent about negotiating at present, and odd car lot sales now and then are about the best that can be worked up. The attendance of traveling salesmen is smaller, they having evidently come to the conclusion that resident operators can take care of such little trading as may be passing. Valuations are about as uncertain as ever, and quotations nominal because all transactions are concluded under a sort of special treaty adapted to the many influences that now have to be considered.

White Pine of the better quality has no special favor, and whatever may find custom is taken in a small way and as a matter of necessity for filling assortments. Of box and shippers some purchases have been made, because for both grades there is a chance of fair sale during the winter and the stock is of too staple character to make it much of a risk. It may be added, however, that no great amount of faith is pinned to the foreign trade, especially with South America, where political and financial conditions are such as to render custom very uncertain.

Yellow Pine has no market for random stuff worthy of note, but there is a little doing all the while on special orders, and some operators speak more hopefully of the chances for trade between now and spring. While it is not difficult to obtain here an ordinary assortment, the supply is none too well assorted and replenishing is in order. Carolina Pine has the confidence of consumers to quite as great an extent as ever, but their wants are not full enough to permit of a very large business just now, and in any case there is no necessity for any great hurry in view of limited danger of check upon transportation, to which many grades of competing stock are subjected. The quantity of stuff at primal points is understood to be of good proportions, and probably manufacturers would not object to being called upon for an increase of the output. Present selling rates are somewhat irregular.

Spruce is about as dull as ever. There are some specials floating around upon which it is difficult to obtain satisfactory negotiations because of the lateness of the season, and receivers have an idea that they will be able to place all the randoms likely to come forward, but would not like to be called upon to place any great quantity of stock. For all natural demand there is a sort of steady asking price from about $13 up, but attempts at negotiation by sellers would make a very great difference in cut, probably putting it as low as at any time during the season. Piling is simply without a market, and has no regular price. Hemlock is quoted about as low as ever and fails to secure much attention

Hardwoods of all kinds are confined to a car lot trade, and not an extensive one at that. It is said that some dealers and large consumers are remarkably low in stock, and would have to come into the market promptly and freely upon any revival of business, but are inclined to await compulsion before moving. Offerings cannot be called extensive, and are less urgent than a short time ago; yet there is plenty of them, and no buyer escapes who can be caught through a reasonable cutting on the line of valuation. Stories are floating of some very low figures on poplar, but they lack confirmation. At the present time the orders for export parcels are said to be comparatively moderate, but a little stock is going abroad on old engagement. As usual, shippers want as near perfection of quality as possible, and do not entertain very full notions of value.

The State canals were officially closed on Thursday night, but it was expected that water would be allowed to remain in the Erie until thirty-two east-bound boats detained by a wreck at Fultonville could work through to tide water.

and vessels and steamers are lying up as fast as they unload. The wholesale trade is caring for the moderate sales that are being made, and are not looking for anything but a diminishing business for the remainder of the year. Cold weather has swept the northern states within the week, which has tended to restrict consumption. A quiet, patient, resigned spirit seems to pervade the general lumber business. It is recognized that the year has been one of trial, loss and disappointment. Manufacturers and dealers are taking a philosophical view of the situation and, in accordance with the inherent hopefulness of Americans, are looking for better things next year.

In one sense the condition is healthy and promising. The speculative element has been shaken out of business. Liquidation and adjustment is well advanced. Prices are at bedrock, so that lumber now on hand is not hazardous property to hold. Stocks as a whole are low. In the hands of consumers and the retail trade they are unusually low. The wholesale trade is fairly well stocked, but there is no burdensome surplus on hand. At the mills there is considerable lumber, but no more than would be considered a fair supply in ordinary times. Recently there has been a disposition toward firmness all along the line in respect to northern pine, hemlock and spruce. This is usual at the close of navigation, but might have been otherwise at the end of this dull season had there been a great surplus in sight. Since there is no more on hand than will be needed for next spring's trade there is a feeling of confidence and a disposition to hold for better prices than prevailed during the receiving season. Lumber in pile must acquire added value, because when it comes out in the spring it will be dry, and will have accumulated carrying charges of yard room, interest and insurance. Holders of lumber are generally in a position to maintain prices. They have purchased cautiously, and have incurred as little obligation for stock as possible. A conservative influence has prevailed since the June panic. Abundance of money in the banks has succeeded the summer stringency. Altogether the condition is easy, and dealers are feeling hopeful for the future.

At Chicago the commission men can see the end of receipts rearing in, as the log drivers say. Few vessels are now going out for further loads, and all that are due will soon be in port. Recent gales have delayed arrivals, and there was much inquiry during the week for overdue boats. A few cargoes have been sold on the market this week, and loads will drop in scatteringly, probably, until the middle of December, should the weather be favorable. But nothing will occur on the market to materially change prevailing conditions. It is felt that the season is practically over, so that present prices are about the closing figures. As belated cargoes of piece stuff shall drop in, an advance of a quarter or a half may be realized on them from dealers who may be short of something which such cargoes may contain.

Prices are unchanged from recent quotations. Short piece stuff is selling at $10 to $10.50, the higher figure pertaining to cargoes in which there is included a considerable percentage of long stuff. In case there is but a small percentage of long lengths, loads sometimes sell at $10.25 a thousand. Stim jims, when sold separately, range in price from $11 to $11.50, and long wide joists at $12.50 to $13. Common boards and strips are priced at $11.50 to $12, but the last-named price is probably nearer the figure at which most sales are made than any other. These prices are fully $1 a thousand lower than those prevailing at a like time last year, and probably $1.50 on some classes of stock. The loss in respect to piece stuff is greatest in the long lengths, for the reason that so much of that class has sold at prices not much above those asked for strictly short lengths. At the yards it is claimed that the majority of dealers are holding their short dimensions at a uniform price of $12 a thousand on all sizes but 2x4, which is priced at $12.50, and 2x12, which sells for $13 to $13.50.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman as follows:

While there is little doubt that the logging operations on the Mississippi this winter will be largely curtailed, from the present outlook it does not seem probable that there will be as large a reduction as was at first anticipated. In the very early part of the season it was the expressed opinion of some of the most prominent loggers on the river that there would not be banked this winter more than one hundred and seventy-five million feet on the Mississippi. The Lumberman adopted a more conservative estimate and stated that in all probability the log cut would be at least one-half of what it was last year. From all the information that can be obtained at this time it seems very likely that the reduction in the output may not be quite so much as this.

Those loggers who intend to do anything in the woods this winter have a few of their camps started and are skidding preparatory to hauling when the snow comes. The prospect is not the best for a good winter in the woods. There is little, if any, frost in the ground at the present time, and the loggers fear that there may be a heavy snowfall before the ground freezes up. This would make the hauling very hard, and in many localities utterly impossible.

FOREIGN.

The London Timber Trades' Journal says:

In the pitch pine trade we hear that sales are being freely made of the new timber, on the basis of 49s. and 50s. for 35 feet average, and the season may now be said to be in full swing for southern wood. Freights rule moderate, and the demand seems principally to run on the smaller class of vessels engaged in this trade.

NAILS.—The market is irregular. For cut nails there seems to be a fair measure of steadiness sustained and a reasonably good natural business developing, but no gaining strength to value, because, even with some of the mills shut down, the output seems to overrun the present wants of the market. Wire nails, on the other hand, are weak in tone, with an indifferent attitude of buyers and manufacturers competing sharply, which leads to pressure to realize and the usual natural effect upon prices. All valuations at the moment are to a large extent nominal. We quote Cut at $1.00@1.05 per keg for car lots and $1.20@1.25 per keg for parcels from store for iron, and add 3c. per keg for steel; Wire, $1.20@1.30 for car lots, and $1.60@1.65 from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—A low, narrow average of business has been shown, partly due to the holiday and the turn of the month, though largely to an indisposition among all classes of buyers to handle anything more than may be absolutely necessary until it is time to think of preparations for spring trade. Bulk colors sold mainly in small lots, and the prominent consumers say they have on hand all they shall need until about the end of January at least, and the same general features will apply to colors in oil. Ready mixed paints are dull and of uncertain value, but generally inclined in buyers' favor. Zincs are going out to some extent on contract, but rarely find new sale at the moment. Litharge is dull on spot and neglected for future delivery. Red lead is weak and unsettled. White lead quoted "officially" as before, but sold unofficially and officially at many cuts from circular figures. Corroders' rates stand as follows: Lead in oil in kegs and dry lead in kegs in lots of less than 500 lbs., 7¼c. net; in lots of 500 lbs. to 5 tons at one purchase, 6¾c.; 5 tons to 12 tons, one purchase, 6½c.; 12 tons and over, one purchase, 6½c. Lead in oil in 12½ lb. tin pails, add 1c.; in 25 and 50 lb. tin pails, add ½c.; and in 1 to 5 lb. tin cans, assorted (100 lbs. in case) add 2½c. per lb. to keg price. Terms on lots of 500 lbs. and over, note or acceptance at sixty days, or 2% per cent discount will be allowed for cash paid within fifteen days of invoice date. To make either of the above required quantities any assortment of packages of white lead, red lead and litharge may be counted. The above quotations are free on board cars or boat at corroding point. Linseed Oil shows much the old conditions. The outside, commonly known as Western, makers have been skirmishing for custom and cutting rates, but local crushers remained steady at about former figures, and at the close the entire market is firmer again. We quote at 10@12c. for Western, 13@15c. for City from domestic seed, and 61@62c. for do. from Calcutta seed. Spirits Turpentine has been very dull and rarely selling beyond the small lots required for ordinary trade wants. The effect is somewhat depressing on values and has shaded the range somewhat. We quote at 29½@31c. per gallon, according to quality, quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—Operators report about a seasonable market and that is all. Buyers make no complaint of cost, and as a rule find assortments very well adapted to their wants, but they have no use for extensive parcels of stock at the moment and prefer that accumulations should remain in first hands until wanted. Prices much the same as for some time past. We quote Tar at $1.70@1.75 in pine or Wilmington bbls., $2.10@2.15 in pork bbls., and $3.00@3.25 in oil bbls., Pitch $1.50@1.70.

VOL. LII. DECEMBER 9, 1893. No. 1,343

THE stock market is reflecting at the moment more the bad conditions that exist abroad than trouble at home. This explains the export of gold which begins to-day, and which may extend further. With the great money centers of Europe heavily affected by the financial troubles of Italy, Greece and Spain, and the ever-current troubles in South America, it is to be expected that they should turn to New York for assistance, and consequently the home market has to take back large quantities of securities and pay cash for them. The pressure on what may be called international issues is pronounced and while it continues their prices will be affected, as will also the rest of the market sympathetically. With the large amounts of idle money in the country the transfer of some to where it is more needed will in the long run do good, but as a result of the process of transfer values here must suffer for the time being. The anxiety that is being felt about the results to general trade of the January settlements and tariff legislation are also influences deterrent to improvement. These adverse facts are being used by the only active and aggressive party, the bears, to their fullest extent, with such imaginary ones as they can conjure up to suit their purpose, such as the stories circulated in the past week in relation to Atchison and General Electric, but the small results obtained in the majority of cases has hitherto made short selling an unprofitable occupation. Of Atchison it can be said that the showing made by the company makes the bearish assertions in regard to it very improbable, and gives ground for the belief that the real reason for the weakness of its securities is the pressure to sell by needy foreign holders. The present condition of business, financial and general, may be regarded as one of the setbacks natural to a rise from great disturbance and depression of prices, but not as an indication that improvement has come to an end.

IN determining not to push an income tax levied directly upon incomes, the present administration is withdrawing from a bad political mistake for which, without any doubt, it would have suffered. It was the height of political folly to endeavor to enact legislation to which the entire sentiment of the country is hostile. The result, if the tax bill had passed, would have been that we should have to enforce another law that promoted public dishonesty; for it is scarcely necessary to point out that people who have not the slightest scruple in "swearing off" to the last dollar the personal property they possess, would not be a whit more conscientious in their relations with a law which they regarded as inquisitorial. We do not believe that it would have been possible to pass an income tax bill, after public opinion had made itself heard. The curious thing was that the Administration had so little political sagacity as to seriously consider such a tax, particularly when, as we have pointed out in these columns, there is an unobjectionable way of taxing incomes without prying into the private affairs of the individual and without running counter to popular prejudices. From what has been said of late, it appears that the French system of taxing incomes by taxing rents is not unknown in Washington. It would be interesting to know upon what ground that plan was rejected for a far more cumbersome and unpopular system. The tariff reductions proposed in the Wilson Bill necessitate some supplementary measures to increase the national revenue; but, judging by what the President said in his message, the income tax scheme is abandoned entirely, save in the case of certain incomes derived from corporate investments.

IT is very difficult to believe that the Rapid Transit Commission intend the public to take seriously their last contribution to the opera-bouffe of the past eighteen months. The mountain has indeed labored with ridiculous result if after so long and, for the waiting public, so weary travail the outcome of all the "solving" of New York's rapid transit problem is an additional "gridironing" of this much-spoiled city with more elevated structures of the old pattern. Scarcely so much as a year and a-half was necessary to bring us to this impotent conclusion. The elevated road is, in practice, twenty years old and, in theory, still more ancient. To put the matter mildly, it is passing unsatisfactory to be told that, despite the march of improvement during a quarter of a century, we have not advanced one step in intermural transportation. Of course, nobody believes that this is really the case. We are all convinced that the Commissioners are either making fools of the public or fools of themselves, and neither can be regarded as exactly the best possible solution of a problem in which this city is vitally concerned. Clearly, steps should be taken at once to put a stop to the farce.

WE have heard much of late about the efficiency to be obtained in the government of municipalities by committing the management of affairs to the control of "business men." By this course New York would, we are assured, secure thoroughness, promptness and a wise regard for the interests of the city not to be reasonably expected of the mere "politician." We are of course far from declaring that these expectations are foolish, but we cannot refrain from remarking that this Rapid Transit Commission is a body of "business men" of character and ability, if measured by success achieved in their private affairs, distinctly of a high order. Yet has their service of the past eighteen months yielded results pronouncedly superior to what would have been obtained from a body of politicians similarly engaged? We think not. The Commissioners have been extraordinarily dilatory, vacillating, timorous. So far as their public utterances go they have shunned coming to close quarters with the problem in hand. Surely, too, if the Commissioners were Tammany politicians instead of eminent "business men" every newspaper in the city would have declared they were playing into the hands of the Manhattan Company. Did not the Commission burden their first underground scheme with impracticable, clearly impracticable, conditions? Then they dilly-dallied for months with every crank with a scheme in the city while the public sweated dollars for the Manhattan Company in cars that daily became more indecently crowded. Finally they have decided upon a new elevated system which obviously cannot vitally compete with the present roads, and which, if not acquired in the first instance by the Manhattan Company, is certain to soon fall into that company's hands. And how shy the Commissioners have been of approaching or of even directing public attention to the one source from which this city can obtain a real rapid transit service and to the only real competitor of the Manhattan Co. in the field—the Municipality. Surely were the Commissioners politicians we would have condemned them as the hirelings of Gould, Sage & Co. Certainly in this case "business men" have shown to exceedingly poor advantage. The Commissioners stand to-day ready to cast away the very deepest interests of the city—ready to sanction what they themselves pronounce a makeshift twice removed from what they declare the city needs. They are ready to part with the most valuable franchise which any city has ever had to dispose of to practically the first bidder. Yet President Seth Low declared the other night that the practice of disposing of franchises in perpetuity was extremely short-sighted and pernicious. "Business men" surely should be able to see this. The Commissioners do not. They are as ready as any set of politicians ever were to hand over the most valuable possessions of the city. Not another transportation franchise in New York ought to be sold. The municipality should build and own and operate the new rapid transit system, and the first step necessary to pave the way to these results is to legislate the present Commission out of office.

THE real estate market has apparently settled down for a tug of war between buyers and sellers. Trading has come almost to a standstill, owners refusing to part with their property at the prices offered, and would-be buyers refusing to bid up to the prices demanded. The margin between the two camps is evidently wider just now than it has been for several years, and until concessions are made on one side or the other the market will remain stagnant. In some directions there are already evidences of a little weakening on the side of the present holders. Prominent brokers have reported offers from owners of down-town business property—not the "gilt-edged" sort exactly, but good, income-paying business property—to sell at substantial reductions where spot cash and a quick transaction are offered. These are healthy indications. They show that there is at last a discernible disposition among the owners to concede the legitimate effect of a prolonged financial stringency upon values. When this shall have become a little more general the market will settle down to a trading basis and business will improve. Brokers, generally, do not look for much improvement until after the holidays, perhaps not for some weeks after; but once they are past it is believed the uncertainties that now befog the business and financial atmosphere will have cleared away and all business men will be able to find their bearings and lay out their courses anew.

A LARGE number of people who inhabit the lower part of the city are waiting with interest to see with how much promptness the Board of Health will protect them from the increasing smoke nuisance created by the New York Steam Co. at their boiler building on Greenwich street, near Cortlandt. This company is so flagrant an offender against public comfort that if permitted to continue to fill the air with dense clouds of smoke every factory and furnace in the city would be warranted in using soft coal. When an ordinary west wind is blowing, the smoke from this company's chimneys extends like a black streamer beyond Broadway, and in summer time will be a nuisance to tenants in tall buildings past bearing. If the Board of Health does not act promptly and energetically in this case, the smoke nuisance will be fastened on New York. If one company can offend the public for the sake of saving a few dollars, why may not everybody?

Something More About Trusts.

THESE are very good times for fallible men to revise their opinions. Adversity is the ugly and venomous toad that wears the precious jewel in its head, and, though we cannot with the great author, say that the uses are even sweet, it is sometimes, if it leads to reflection, exceedingly instructive. The panic of 1893 has passed into history, it is to be hoped. But the depression continues; and we shall be very stupid if we do not make some deductions from passing events which will be permanently useful.

A few men are long headed enough to foresee coming events. Several years ago it was discovered that the market was becoming demoralized; that the cost of production was outrunning the price of the products, and that disaster impended unless there could be a readjustment of industrial conditions. For reasons too well known to the public to need explanation here, it was seen, also, that any attempt at reducing the cost of production except to the degree that it can be reduced by improved processes in manufacture was impracticable, and, as an alternative, certain sensible and intelligent men began to form combinations for the purpose of placing the prices of merchandise once more on a paying basis. But instantly a clamor was raised against the movement; and led on by certain ignorant journals, ignorant often quite down to the level of the imbecile, the campaign against these combinations was continued until laws were passed prohibiting them, and practically pushing the community over the abyss which all men who had eyes to see were conscious that we were approaching. A thousand times more than any of the causes for panic which men fastastically imagine, this was the immediate cause for the distress which has finally come; for if the objects sought by the trusts could not be attained the panic was inevitable.

But what are we going to do about it? That is what Tweed asked when he thought he had the community by the throat. He found, however, that the people could do a good deal when they were thoroughly aroused. Is it not possible even in this case that they can vindicate their right to manage their business affairs in a way that will not bring disaster and ruin?

Let us have no more fustian about the causes for panics. When the transactions of single industries become unprofitable demoralization follows in the particular industry affected, and a partial panic ensues. This was illustrated in the railway panic which occurred nine or ten years ago. But our regular bicentennial panics occur when all or nearly all the industries are correspondingly depressed, and then the disaster becomes almost universal in its effects. There is a noticeable uniformity in the periods of these visitations. Count by decades between the years 1837, 1857, 1873 and 1893. We observe but one variation in time, and the difference in that case is so slight that it serves rather to strengthen than to weaken the presumption of an active law. We cannot keep going when we have brought ourselves to such a condition that to every one man among the captains of industry who can earn money there are three men who must get in debt. Panics, therefore, are something to be foreseen and prevented by regulating the conditions through which they are produced.

It is hardly to be questioned but that the trust furnishes the best means for preventing panics that was ever conceived. There is no universal panacea except in the possession of a higher degree of intelligence than the human race at present possesses. But the trust can break the force of competition or keep it upon right lines, and when disturbance comes see to it that only the wild-cats perish.

But trusts are now impracticable, it will be said. They have been made illegal, and it would be folly to attempt to maintain them in the face of statutory enactment. But the laws of the United States are not unchangeable, like the laws of the Medes and Persians, in the first place, and, in the second place, it is not unusual to see laws passed in this country and then to see them pronounced unconstitutional and of no effect. Few laws can be made operative in the United States after they are seen to be against public policy and an infringement on the rights and liberties of individuals. How long would a law which took from the members of labor organizations the right to sell their labor on their own terms be permitted to stand? Yet the head of a trust is just as much one of the "people" as the head of a district assembly; and the two organizations operate along precisely parallel lines. A law that would be declared an unconstitutional infringement on individual rights if enacted against the one would meet the same fate in the decision of any just judge when enacted against the other.

The organization of associations to regulate the price of merchandise should be continued. If the community is in the enjoyment of any rights which the man who finds it to his profit to play one class against another is bound to respect it is time that they were asserted; and if it has no such rights it is still more urgent that it should be known in order that a new declaration of independence may be prepared. We can see no better way to the end in view than a test case in the courts and an appeal to the common sense of the judiciary—if it is a reasonable dependence.

The trust as it was originally conceived is incomparably better than the consolidated corporation that in a few instances has been made to take its place. We do not wish to destroy competition and it would not be possible to destroy it even were we foolish enough to make the attempt. Competition is at the bottom of all our progress, and it should be permitted to carry us forward wherever its laws can be left to operate with safety. But we wish to regulate it while giving the widest possible opportunity for individual initiative and to prevent its periodical destruction of the market. Price cutting is not a legitimate use of its advantages.

The men who have put their hands to the plow in the organization of trusts should not turn back. When honestly entertained, the belief that trusts threaten to plunder the community is worthy only of the intelligence of a child. A trust would simply invite rivalry and not only defeat its own ends, but promote the final ruin of its members were it to charge more than enough to yield a fair and reasonable profit for the products under its control. This should be clear enough to be seen by a reasonably intelligent goose.

MAYOR-ELECT SCHIEREN, of Brooklyn, has already made three important appointments of heads of departments of the forthcoming Brooklyn Municipal government—Alfred T. White, for Commissioner of City Works; Albert G. McDonald, for Counsel to the Corporation, and Geo. B. Forrester, for Excise Commissioner. It is pleasant to note that these appointments are quite up to the standard expected of Mr. Schieren by the leaders in the reform movement. None of these men has ever worn a party collar or has been conspicuous in partisan politics. Their prominence in the citizenship of Brooklyn has been achieved in their professional and business careers and in philanthropic work. Of the usual qualifications for political position, skill in manipulating a ward "machine" or in "leading" a "district," they appear to have been absolutely deficient. This is something the "practical politician" will find difficult to understand. The business man in politics has always been a subject for derision with him—and in previous campaigns has been, in his view, only a toy soldier.

MR. CROKER it was, if we remember rightly, who first publicly expressed this derision of the business man in politics. He gave it as the opinion of an expert practical politician, that the best administrative officers could only be obtained from the ranks of practical politicians, and instanced, for example, the experiences of New York City with the business man in politics. But, with one or two notable exceptions (Comptroller Theo. W. Myers, for instance, who was not one of Mr. Croker's examples) the business men who by grace of Tammany Hall have occasionally strutted a brief space upon the political stage, have not been of the clear and distinct type presented by Mayor-elect Schieren as examples of his cabinet of business men. The business men who have played a part in the affairs of New York City have been more politicians or would-be politicians than men of business. But then the limitations of their appointments, under the espionage of a political machine, have been such that where they have occasionally accepted office at its hands, either they have lost their identity and characters as business men and become most conspicuous as creatures of the political machine, or, like Mayor Hewitt and Comptroller Myers, they have preserved their identity and characters at the expense of an open rupture with the machine. The inevitable triumph of this latter class of public servants over the political machine has manifestly been first achieved in Brooklyn. We thought it would come first in New York. But New York will be next in order.

AT any rate, the first fair comparison between a business administration of the affairs of a great city and an administration by irresponsible bosses will be presented by the Schieren administration in Brooklyn. Between it and the McLaughlin regime there is room for a "great gulf." If, as it seems likely, the hopes and expectations of good people are about to be realized, then not the least important part of the great victory for honest government will be the impetus that will be given to reform throughout the country. In New York the most promising feature of this movement is the promise of a change in the law or constitution, by which the municipal election shall be held separately, or on a different date from the National and State elections. Let this reform be first accomplished, and the rest will be easier.

Co-operation in Housekeeping.

A SYSTEM SUGGESTED WHICH PROMISES SCIENTIFIC PERFECTION IN CUISINE AND SERVICE AND GREAT ECONOMY IN EXPENDITURES AND RELEASE FROM ANNOYANCES.

The co-operative movement in the industrial world, that of late has gained such headway, has hitherto dealt but slightly with real estate. Such effort as has been made in this direction has generally been for the purpose of purchasing and improving for the market some particular piece of property by a limited number of individuals, who have adopted the corporate form of association because of the greater facility of action and because of the limitation of liability it affords. But the more distinctively co-operative plan of joining forces in matters of administration and routine for the purpose of minimizing expenses and securing the largest possible efficiency of service, has had no general or satisfactory trial.

It might be said, by way of exception to the above, that the service of gas, steam and electricity by corporations, and the institution of apartment houses, are efforts along this line. But these are corporate (or individual, even,) lines of industry into which the co-operative principle enters only as a matter of business and they are conducted for the profit there is in them. Of co-operation in its true sense, for the purpose of securing the highest approach to an ideal service, and at a minimum of cost, which should be in effect a saving upon the cost of administration, service and supply under the system of individualism as at present prevailing, real estate has never had a satisfactory demonstration.

And yet it would be difficult to imagine a species of property which would theoretically better yield to co-operative management, or in which the results of co-operative management would be more satisfactory. No New York householder needs to be informed of the bother and expense of housekeeping under the prevailing system. No housewife needs to be told of the annoyances of dealings with house servants, tradespeople and gas companies. They are the "necessary evils" which attend housekeeping under the prevailing conditions. It would be universally conceded that if these could be dispensed with, even at some increase in the cost of the household, the general conditions of life would be vastly improved. If besides the release from all such worriment there should also ensue from any changed system of administration, a very greatly improved service and a material saving in the cost of housekeeping, then it would seem as if it were high time such a system was given a trial.

One who has long been brooding on this line of thought suggested the other day that it was the duty of THE RECORD AND GUIDE to place the idea before its readers for their consideration. As broadly outlined by him, the suggestion is in general outline as follows: Much substance is wasted, much energy misdirected, by the keeping of separate, individual establishments. A great improvement in the service and a great saving in the expense of housekeeping would result, if householders, within their necessary limitations, would combine on and co-operate in the administration of certain features of the daily household service. In each separate establishment there is a separate heating plant, a household kitchen, a household laundry and a household set of servants. The larger the establishment the larger and more expensive is this household outfit.

On each of the long blocks between 5th and 6th avenues there are about eighty houses in the average, having eighty kitchens and eighty cooks, eighty pantries and eighty butlers, eighty furnaces and eighty servants to care for them, eighty laundries and eighty laundresses—not to mention "soubrettes" and chambermaids. Many of the houses in these blocks have electric lighting installations, but the majority of them still cling to gas lighting because electricity is still disproportionately expensive. In any of the houses in the district specified there will be found at least three servants and the average will certainly be four—making an average of 320 servants in each residence block. In the management of this army at least eighty mistresses are daily and hourly concerned. What wonder that there is trouble and annoyance! Add to these the daily separate transactions of each of these eighty households with the butchers, the bakers and the can-grocers, and what an amount of time is wasted every day on each block!

To what purposes are these separate establishments maintained? What is gained by them that could not be better supplied, and at less expense, by a co-operative establishment? A general outline of the co-operative movement suggested, which would do away with all or the principal objectionable features of modern housekeeping, would be something like this: The blocks in New York, or for that matter in nearly every other American city, are of convenient form for a combination of most of the house service in central, co-operative plants. Take the heating, to begin with: all the individual furnaces or boilers in a block could be dispensed with, and the heat for all the houses be generated and distributed from one single plant, centrally situated in the block. This could be by any system or systems that might be agreed upon—either by hot air, gas, steam, hot water, or electricity. Light, either gas or electric, or both, could be supplied from the same plant; and in addition, a complete electric bell system, radiating to every necessary compartment in every house. All this could be concentrated in the basement story of one single administration building, located in the middle of the block. And in this basement there would also be storage room for all the coal and other fuel, and for the coarse provisions, culinary stores, barreled and bottled goods, and other bulky stores that might be required.

All the kitchens could also be abolished and their functions consolidated into one central co-operative cuisine, with one skilled steward or chef in charge, and only a fifth, at most, of the force now required to operate the eighty separate kitchen establishments. It will require no expert imagination to realize what a relief and what a blessing to every household it would be to be relieved completely of all the worry and annoyance of kitchen management, kitchen oversight, kitchen maintenance, kitchen odors, bad cooking, quarrels with the cook, and daily negotiations with the butcher, the grocer, the milkman, the confectioner and the wine merchant. Neither does it require a strained imagination to conceive of a more systematic and vastly improved service under the co-operative arrangement. Then the patronage of such an establishment would be worth something to a merchant, and between the competition for it and the wholesale character of the dealings, all supplies would be of the best the market would afford, and would be obtained at the lowest prices. The "help" would find, also, a new order of things. The discipline of such a system would be just what it is in the kitchen of any great hotel. The family need never become involved in the troubles or misfortunes of the cooks and scullions because they need never come in contact with them. There would be no default in meals at any time, because of "days off," or broken ranges, or wash-days, or late hours. Should a meal be wanted at any hour of the day or night, you would only need to "press the button," the steward would do the rest. He would send a skilled waiter or waitress, if preferred, with the menu card for the day or hour, and take your order for what was wanted. The meal would be served—for many or for few—either in your own private dining-room, or in the co-operative dining-hall, or in a private room in the co-operative building.

So, too, with the laundry service. The eighty private laundries could be partly or wholly abolished and all the washing of the eighty households be done in a central, co-operative laundry, equipped with the latest and best facilities for washing, bleaching, drying, mending and ironing. Neither need there be any mixing of the washing of one household with that of any other; they could quite as easily be kept apart as in the separate establishments.

Then, as to the service, the co-operative system would also provide this just as it is done in the big family hotels. Some one special chambermaid would be daily assigned to your service; there need be no continual changes of servants, and her work would have to be done to your satisfaction or there would have to be an immediate change, over which you would need to trouble yourself only so far as to make your request of the steward. He would look after the assignment of new help. Your door bell would communicate with a central co-operative messenger bureau and a liveried page or footman would respond to it. At this central bureau there would be a telephone and telegraph office also for the use of all the associated households. The carriage service could with equal facility be consolidated in this central administration establishment.

The building in which all the separate functions could be consolidated might contain also a general billiard hall, bowling alleys, gymnasium, lecture or concert room, with dancing floor, barber shop, swimming bath, and dormitories for the administrative force, besides such other offices as might in time be found advisable.

The success of such an effort would, of course, depend almost completely upon the management. But so does success in any undertaking. In this matter there would be a large margin of original investment and daily outlay for maintenance and supplies to work on. A rough estimate of the saving on plant alone would include the cost of eighty furnaces, eighty ranges, eighty hot water boilers, eighty sets of laundry tubs and other kitchen fixtures—amounting in the aggregate to not less than $35,000. The saving in house construction, where householders would start with new houses planned to harmonize with the new system, would be twice as much more. Where the proposed system would be applied to the existing form of houses, the room that would be saved could be put to other uses with economy in that direction. Thus there would be a capital of over $100,000 with which to construct and equip the administration building. Then in the maintenance and operation of the co-operative establishment, there would be the weekly saving in coal bills, gas bills, grocers,' butchers', and other supply bills, and in the wages of the cook, butler and other servants. Estimating this in each such house at the low figure of $100 per week, makes $8,000 per week for supplies and service for the eighty households in such a block. We think there are many successful hotel-keepers who would like to undertake to provision and maintain and manage such an establishment for about half that amount per week. Under such skillful management the house proper would be more private than is now possible, the service would be disciplined and alert and ten-fold better than it is under the present system; scientific perfection would be attained in the cookery, and the saving in time and labor to the members of a family would be the greatest saving of all.

Real Estate Exchange Election Next Monday.

A RETURN TO THE CUMULATIVE SYSTEM OF VOTING—SPLIT TICKETS AND SCRATCHING IN PROSPECT.

On Monday next the annual election for directors of the Real Estate Exchange will be held. The polls will be open from 1.30 to 3 o'clock P. M. The placidity which has characterized this function during the last two years, when the "official" ticket has been put through the form of election without opposition, promises on this occasion to be disturbed. There is a real joinder of issue between opposing camps of the members, on a question of judgment, as to the proper constitution of the board.

The judgment of the meetings of the present Board of Directors has been recorded in the nomination of a ticket constituted entirely of active real estate men—brokers, agents and auctioneers. Such utterances as have come from the members of the board indicate that its purpose or policy in making the change in the ticket was to concentrate the management in the hands of the men most directly interested in its efficiency as an Exchange, and whose purpose would be first to promote its usefulness to the active real estate dealers, and second to pay dividends on its stock. The official ticket, which is supposed to represent these sentiments, is composed of the following names:

Horace S. Ely,	Richard V. Harnett,
George R. Read,	George De Forest Barton,
Edwin A. Cruikshank,	J. Romaine Brown,
Samuel F. Jayne,	Douglas Robinson, Jr.,
Hermann H. Cammann,	Alfred E. Marling,
William Cruikshank,	Frank Yoran,

Clermont L. Clarkson.

Without disputing the advisability of the policy to make the Exchange of some practical benefit to its members beyond that of merely paying a small dividend on its stock, some of the older members contend that it is not necessary or fair to leave the building operators altogether without representation on the board. Accordingly, a number of them have joined forces for an effort to re-elect Mr. Cornelius W. Luyster to membership. This contention would be a fruitless one, doubtless, were it not for the fact that the election will again be held under the ancient system of cumulative voting.

Under this system of cumulative voting a member is permitted to poll ten votes for each of thirteen candidates or he may concentrate 130 votes on any one candidate. The last election held under this system was in 1890, when 62,525 votes in the aggregate were polled, the highest for any one candidate being 4,960, polled for Geo. R. Read, the present President of the Exchange. It seems to have been a favorite pastime of the members at this and the preceding elections to make as large a break as possible in the regular ticket. In 1890 five candidates on the official ticket were defeated, in 1889 six, in 1888 three, in 1887 three, in 1886 three, and in 1885 two were similarly rejected. So far as known the efforts of the opposition this year are more modest and will be confined to the re-election of Mr. Luyster.

Reports that have been in circulation around the Exchange for more than a week, credit Mr. Luyster with more than enough proxies to insure his election. This has started some of the candidates on the regular ticket to hustling for votes. One of them, they know, will have to make way for Mr. Luyster if he is to be elected, and neither of them has expressed any particular ambition to be that one. There is likely to result, therefore, a great deal of scratching of the tickets, and out of it all no one can tell who will be the defeated candidate—most likely some one who is too modest to "hustle" around among his friends for proxies, and who will feel no particular disappointment over the outcome.

Notes Gathered Here and There in Brooklyn.

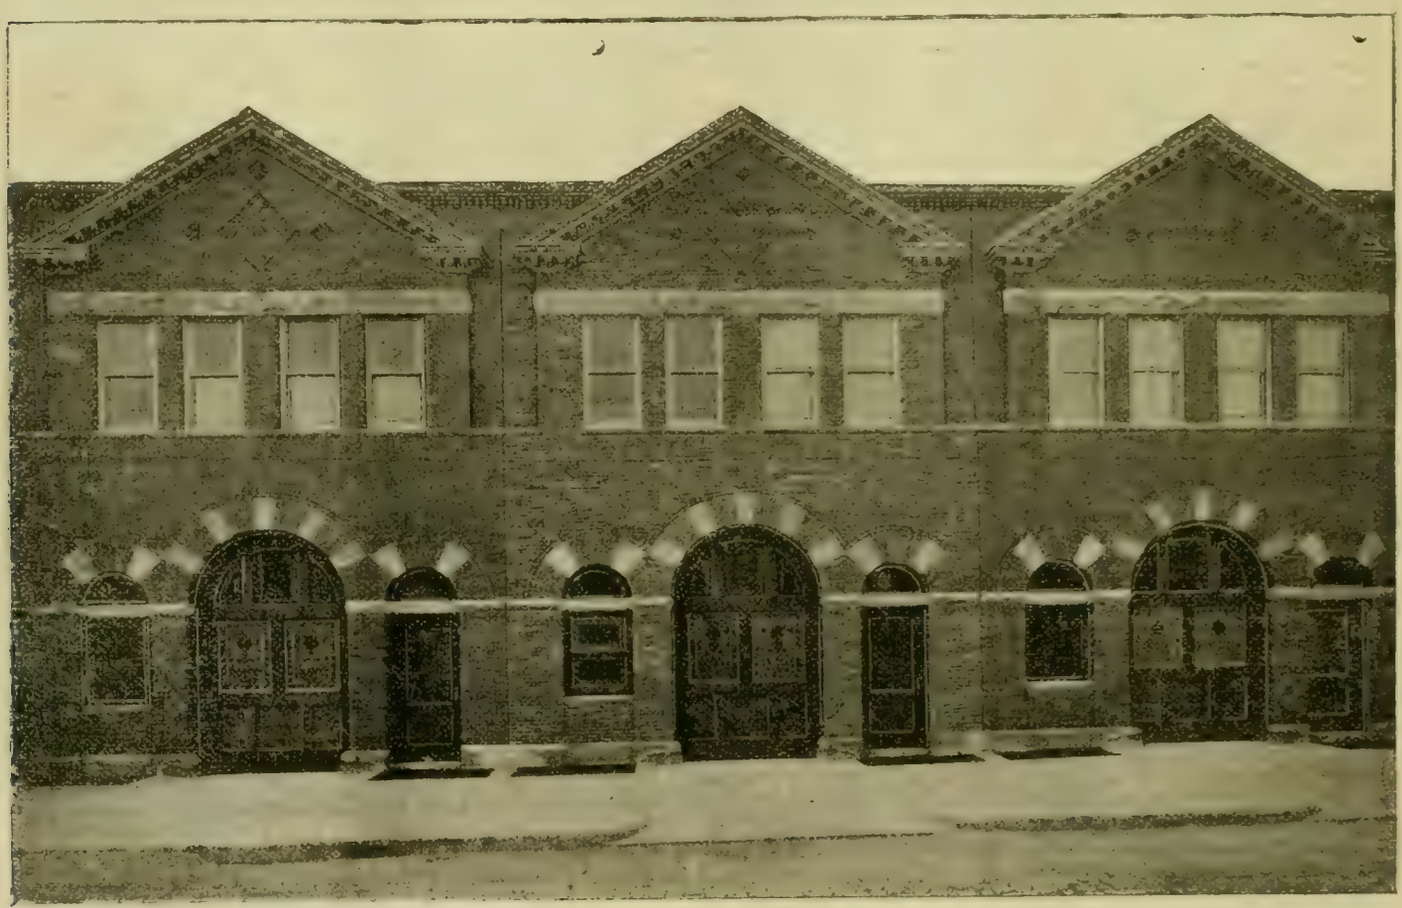
James T. Hall, of 1375 Broadway, New York, has received the contract for constructing the model of the proposed building for the Institute of Arts and Sciences. His bid was $2,480.

In answer to the question what action the Commissioners of Charities would take in relation to the recommendations of the grand jury touching the County Farm, President Gott said that he thought it was the duty of the Supervisors to investigate the alleged defects in the Freel reservoir, if an investigation was to be made at all, seeing that the construction of the basin was made under contract with them. The other matters touched on by the grand jury, said Mr. Gott, have been already considered by the board.

Homes for Respectable Horses.

DESCRIPTION OF A GROUP OF HIGH-CLASS STABLES IN EAST SEVENTY-SIXTH AND SEVENTY-SEVENTH STREETS.

A by no means inconsiderable portion of the population of New York City is made up of horses. And as there are all kinds of people in the metropolis so also are there all kinds of horses. The great majority of them, like the great majority of men, are doomed to daily toil—to making two dollars for their owners for each dollar they are permitted for themselves. But some of them, on the other hand, by the exercise of good horse sense, by their dignified carriage, and by making the most of their opportunities, have risen to positions of comparative opulence and dignity, where they command not only the respect of their less fortunate compatriots, but the friendship and esteem of their owners as well.



One of the most difficult and important problems of residence in the city is how to find proper accommodations for the equine members of one's family. If a man owns "a horse as is a horse," one that is a source of recreation and pleasure to him and to all the members of his family, he quite naturally wants to see it well taken care of. If he owns but one the problem will find easy solution in any one of the large number of excellent public stables or horse hotels there are in the city. But if, as many of the men who have made this town famous do, he owns "a stable" or "a string" of such horses, then surely he is a candidate for a private stable. Well, the city ordinances, and a desire to be accounted a decent fellow among his associates, require that the stable he provides for his horses shall bear a proper and harmonious relation to the style in which he himself lives. It isn't of much credit to a man to live in great style on the avenue and to make a great spread with cultivated horse flesh in the park and have it known that he keeps his horses in some ramshackle barn so far away from the house that when he wants to make a hurried call a mile or two away he has to take a street-car.

Until within the last two years the problem has been one of growing difficulty, and even now there are few who know of the immense improvements that have been made in the system of private stable construction in this city in the period indicated. The problem for the horse-fancier consists in obtaining the right sort of accommodations for his horse friends and in accessible locations. Not all the streets of New York City are now available for stable buildings. In most of the new residence sections large districts have been restricted specifically against such structures, so that often a resident in a given district has to go a distance of many blocks before he can find property that is available for stable construction, and then he stands the chance of a neighborhood war if he undertakes to build a stable. An easier and a cheaper way out of his difficulty is to do business with some one of the building firms who have done so much to improve stable construction in this city in the last two years and to remove the reproach against stable architecture.

There is published herewith an illustration of three of a group of six private stables that have prompted the foregoing remarks. An inspection of these stables shows that all a large horse family would need would be a supply of provisions to set up in housekeeping in any one of them in fine style and comfort. All owners of fine horses ought to see these stables if only to learn from the inspection what improvements have been made in stable construction. They are the production of Jacob & Co., of No. 345 Amsterdam avenue, whose experience in private stable construction has given them the best possible facilities for gauging the requirements of horse owners. They are at Nos. 59, 61 and 63 East 76th and 70, 72 and 74 East 77th streets. Those at Nos. 59 and 61 East 76th and 72 East 77th street were sold before they were fairly finished. The others are now completed and open for inspection. After what has been above said any one interested in the stable question will of course not neglect to see these stables before he settles the question for himself, but for general information there is given a brief description of them.

Two of those on 76th street have fronts of rock-faced brick and one of Tiffany brick, all of them having limestone trim. Of the 77th street stables two have fronts of Tiffany brick and the other a front of rock-faced brick, all with stone trim. The stables are each two stories in height, those in 77th street with basements, and 25 feet wide by 90 deep, the lots 102.2 deep. The fronts, as will be seen from the illustration, are of neat architectural appearance.

Wide-arched carriage entrances are flanked on one side by a window and on the other by a door to the stairway leading to living apartments for the hostler and family on the top floor. The sidewalks are of composition stone, with inclined carriageways from the street to each of the stable entrances. Just within the massive sliding door that guards the entrance to each stable is a spacious carriage-room—about 14 feet in the clear, the ceiling and walls finished in hard pine with white ash trim, a wainscot of encaustic tiles along one side and a harness-closet and toilet-room and coat closets on the other. The floors of the 76th street stables are of hard pine, with a cement wash-floor near the entrance; those on 77th street have cement floors throughout. Each stable is furnished with a carriage elevator, worked by a windlass on the second floor, by which vehicles and feed may be readily raised to the storage lofts.

Private Stables, on East Seventy-sixth and Seventh-seventh streets.
Jacob & Co., Owners, No. 345 Amsterdam avenue.

Back of the carriage and harness room is the stall-room. The floors are all of concrete, the walls of glazed tiling from floor to ceiling. In the 76th street stables there are eight single and one box stalls, with strong, substantial slat floors on a concrete base, all thoroughly drained and easy to keep sweet and clean. A large skylight opening affords perfect light and ventilation. In one corner is a dumb-waiter to the feed bins on the floor above.

The 77th street stables are similarly arranged, except that they have seven single stalls on the main floor and one box stall, and an inclined runway to the basement, where there is room for a large number of additional stalls. The basements are light, and thoroughly ventilated. There are living apartments on the upper floor of each stable, in front, consisting of a living room with mantel, a kitchen with stone tubs, range, china closet and pantry, a bath-room and water-closet, and two bedrooms. In the rear are two large rooms for carriages and hay and feed lofts. A skylight opening through the roof of the rear apartment furnishes light and ventilation to this floor as well as to the stall-room below.

Jacob & Skinner have six similar stables on Amsterdam avenue, between 76th and 77th streets, three on either side, one of which has been sold.—Communicated.

The Work of a Master Builder.

FIVE MAGNIFICENT HOUSES BY C. W. LUYSTER IN WEST SEVENTY-SIXTH STREET.

In the art of residence construction, New York City makes, perhaps, as varied and comprehensive a display as any city in the world. From the foundation of the city the styles of all the civilized nations of the earth have at some time or other had expression in the designs of our houses. And the peculiar conditions and requirements of the city have produced a style of house so different in many of its aspects from other styles of city houses, that it has come to be known as the New York town house. New York City has produced many artists of distinction in this class of construction, but few masters. After an inspection of the houses just completed by Mr. Cornelius W. Luyster, in 76th street, north side, just west of Central Park, the distinction of master of the high art of residence construction would unhesitatingly be awarded to their builder.

If a history of building in New York City should ever be written, the wonderful progress that has been achieved in the art structural could be no more conspicuously or clearly shown than in contrasting one of these fine houses, the latest and best achievement of the art structural, with the best surviving town house of, say, twenty-five years ago. The most conspicuous difference between them is the difference between sunshine and deep gloom. But it would be difficult to find a single particular in which these houses do not show a marked superiority over the others. Hygienic and sanitary science has effected a considerable part of the twenty-five years' improvement, and these have never been more in evidence than in the houses under discussion. Light, heat and ventilation, as every intelligent person knows, are, next to location, the most important elements in a successful town house. These are the fundamentals on which the true artist in residence construction always builds. They must first be scientifically perfect—the rest is expression.

Like the setting of a fine jewel a high-class house must have its fitting location. No fact in town-house construction in New York City is better appreciated than this. It more fully accounts than any other fact for the policy of restricting streets and neighborhoods against any and all forms of construction that shall in any measure tend to depreciate the value of the property for its higher uses. The district west of Central Park is an ideal residence locality. Business, except of the necessary retail order, is as foreign to it, naturally, as a meat-shop would be in a church portico.

But for a considerable distance around Manhattan square, in which the American Museum of Natural History has its site, the blocks are restricted to residence construction entirely,—except as to the block front on Central Park West, between 76th and 77th streets, which is the site of the New York Historical Society, and will soon be improved in a manner highly creditable to the district and the city. In this district many of the most costly and pretentious houses on the West Side are to be found. The houses illustrated, at Nos. 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19 West 76th street, are the latest constructed houses of this class and the finest. The street is for the most part built up with private residences, and except as to the Historical Society Building, is rigidly restricted against everything but residences. The high value put upon the lots remaining unimproved is the best possible guaranty that they will ultimately and soon be built upon with houses equal, at least, in general style and dignity with their environment. Central Park, an unfailing source of enjoyment at all seasons of the year and a place for healthful recreation at all times, is within a stone's throw of these houses. And a short walk around the corner and through Manhattan square brings you to the 81st street station of the elevated road and an equal distance in the opposite direction to the 72d street station. The Amsterdam avenue extension of the 6th avenue and Broadway cable roads is also but a short distance from the houses, while the 8th avenue line passes within half a block. Thus much as to location and accessibility.

The houses, the plans for which are by Architect J. H. Duncan, are each 25 feet wide by 61.4 deep, with butler's pantry and bath-room extensions of 10x18, on lots 102.2 deep. Their foundations are laid deep on the solid rock, and the cellars, of extraordinary height—full 10 feet—are perfectly dry and fully finished. The illustration published herewith shows the design of their fronts. The materials used make a fine and effective combination of colors, Buff brick with a peculiarly light shade of Lake Superior sandstone and terra cotta—the stone for the basement portion and the terra cotta in the face mouldings and cornices—were the principal materials. But it is in the interior arrangement and finish of Mr. Luyster's houses that the superiority of his style is apparent, and to be able to appreciate this superiority one must see the houses, for only the merest superficial description of them can here be given—a description that would necessarily serve for very many of the better class of houses of recent construction throughout the city. They are wider than the average of new houses and allow therefore of a more symmetrical distribution of the interior space.

Five Private Dwellings in West Seventy-sixth street, near Central Park West. C. W. Luyster, Builder.

The houses are trimmed and finished throughout in hardwoods, a fact that is not peculiar to them especially, except in the fact that in Mr. Luyster's selection of the woods and in their treatment and arrangement, there is apparent as much of the true genius of the builder as the masters of pictorial art show in the selection and application of their colors. It is no haphazard or crude arrangement of fine woods, such as often suffices in the most pretentious houses, that one sees in the work of C. W. Luyster, but the most harmonious combinations of colors and the best finish it is possible to give to the woods and bring out their beautiful grains.

The billiard-room, in the front basement, is finished in quartered white oak, as is also the basement hall, the vestibule and main hall and the staircases. The dining-room is finished in quartered black oak, with buffet, fire-breast mantel and timbered ceiling. The butler's pantry again is finished in quartered white oak. The kitchen, one of the neatest in all particulars we have ever seen, is walled all around with marble, and has a chimney breast of white glazed brick. It is furnished with a French range, large copper boiler, porcelain sink, and plenteous closet and pantry room. In the extension is the laundry, with marble wainscot, ceramic tubs, water-closet and a stair closet. The front and rear areas are paved with cement.

On the main floor are the drawing-rooms, dining-room and the butler's pantry. The drawing-rooms are finished in white mahogany and gold, with mantel of exclusive design, of the same woods, faced with onyx, and with grate and fender complete. The dining-room has been described. The vestibule is entered through front doors of quartered oak, glazed with heavy plate and protected with bronze grilles. It is walled with Numidian marble and paved with Scotch granite. In the hall is a massive console mirror. The floors of the hall and dining-room are of oak parquette. The stairs are of the balcony pattern and of massive construction, neat in every detail.

The second floor has two large bedrooms and a hall bedroom in the rear, a sumptuous bath-room in the extension, and a large double dressing saloon. The front bedroom is finished in maple, bird's eye maple and white mahogany, with mantel of same, faced with Numidian marble. The effect is one of rich and quiet elegance. The rear bedrooms are also finished in bird's eye maple and white mahogany, the bath-room in marble floor and wainscot, and supplied with rolled rim porcelain tub, with shower and shampoo fixtures, and marble lavatory. On the third floor there are three bedrooms and a hall bath-room, and double dressing saloon, all finished in quartered oak, except the bath-room, which is partly floored and wainscoted with marble. The top floor has a large front bedroom and three rear bedrooms all finished in white ash. There are also a large linen or trunk-room, a servant's bath and a number of closets on this floor. The houses are heated by hot air, and wired and piped for electricity and gas.

On every floor and in every room there are details of trim and finish and arrangement which readily distinguish these houses above the ordinary town house, and which clearly demonstrate the right of the builder, one of the most experienced in the city, to the highest distinction in his art.—(Communicated.)

Personal.

By the retirement of Andrew L. Soulard from the presidency of the German-American Real Estate Title Guarantee Company, this field of real estate activity loses one of its most intelligent and clear-sighted operators. The motives which prompted his resignation are such as might have been expected from any high-minded and conscientious business man. Finding himself involved, through over-confidence in a business friend, in the affairs of the Madison Square Bank, and fearing that his connection with that institution and his indictment thereon might injuriously effect the company of which he was President, he voluntarily retired from the position and left it in the hands of another, whose standing before the community is based upon a long, successful and upright business career. Mr. Soulard is one of the largest stockholders in the German-American Title Guarantee Company, and to his intelligent and zealous care is largely due its success and excellent standing among the great financial institutions. It is now in better condition and doing a larger business than ever before.

Jacob Katz, of Katz & Co., is about again after two weeks' struggle with the grip.

R. Telfair Smith, of Smith & Allen, will, we hear, soon take a partner for life.

Joseph E. La Badie, who has been connected for many years with the Folsom estate and also with Messrs Fuller & Frothingham, real estate brokers, at 945 Broadway and 173 5th avenue, is now connected with the well-known firm of F. A. Cruikshank & Co.

Sketch Club of New York.

The regular monthly meeting of the club was held in the club-rooms on Saturday evening, the 2d inst., about fifty members sitting down to dinner. Mr. Frank N. Doubleday, the speaker of the evening, gave an interesting address on French Illustrators and distributed some photos of the artists mentioned and a large number of excellent proofs of their work. Mr. John Galen Howard was also present as a guest of the club, and criticized the designs submitted for last month's competition in rendering from a poetical quotation. First mention was awarded E. A. Josselyn, third to Emily Roth, second mention unclaimed. During the business meeting that followed the addresses an amendment was made to the constitution admitting women to associate membership with the privilege of entering the competitions and exhibitions. The second annual exhibition of the club opened on this evening. The exhibition consisted principally of club competitive designs, class studies, and club outing sketches from nature. About 275 drawings were hung representing about fifty members. The exhibition remains open one week, with a ladies' reception Monday evening and a smoke night on Saturday, when the Kit Kat Club, of New York, are received as guests.

Yielding to the pressure for clearer information about property offered at auction, some one interested in one of the foreclosure sales of Tuesday last had a little hand-bill printedand distributed, in which the information about the property that would naturally be desired by a prospective purchaser at an auction sale was set forth in "plain English." The sale was held by J. C. Lalor. It was under the foreclosure of a second mortgage. The amount due under this decree was $7,373; besides which there was due $25,000 on the first mortgage, $1,270 of interest and $330, or thereabouts, of costs, making a total of $33,973. The property sold for $34,700, presumably to an outsider. Two years ago the same property sold at private sale for $40,000, and resold afterwards for $43,000.

A CORRECTION.

S. A. Ludin & Co. wish the statement made that their mortgage, reported in last week's conveyances, was for $13,500, instead of $14,800, and that they do not intend to build a stable immediately, perhaps not for years, on the lots bought by them last week.

Special Notices.

An important part of the indispensable furnishings of a home in civilized communities is a piano. New York is the great world-centre of the piano industry. One of the oldest and most renowned of the manufacturers is R. M. Walters, manufacturer of the celebrated Walters piano. This piano has for years been in use in the public schools of this city and in many other public institutions throughout the country. Mr. Walters' warerooms are at University place and 12th street, where there is a large assortment of cabinet, upright pianos of rosewood, mahogany, French walnut and maple, for rent or sale on easy terms.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE.

The annual report and balance sheet of the Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room, which will be presented to the stockholders at the annual meeting on Monday next, shows a net income for the year of $18,622.77. Out of this two dividends, one of 2 and one of 1 per cent, amounting to $15,000, have been declared, leaving a balance of $3,622.77 to be carried to next year's account. The report further says:

The receipts of the Auction Room have amounted to only $8,780.39. Every other source of income is in a satisfactory condition, and it may be worth the consideration of this meeting whether the time has not come to increase the income of the Exchange from rentals, by adding an additional story, and so adding to our revenue without materially increasing the annual expenditure. Applications have been made for office room during the past year that would have more than filled another story. Notwithstanding the bad times, every office in the building has been rented.

The receipts were: Balance from last year, $17,033.91; rents of stands, signs, etc., auction room, $8,789.39; rents of offices, $30,497.64; membership subscriptions, $2,182.50; bureau of information fees, $1,208.45; interest on deposits, etc., $175.18; total, $59,887.07. The expenditures were: For dividends, $17,500; interest on mortgage, $3,375; expenses of building, $10,942.41; taxes, $8,315.10; office expenses, salaries, etc., $11,041.79; other expenses, $90; balance in bank, $8,622.77.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

A rented to B part of a factory. B is in arrears of rent for three months. He has disappeared and no return from a registered letter has been received. Can A safely dispossess B and store the tools and property he has left on the premises? LANDLORD.

Answer.—Yes, certainly. The form or method of "dispossess" may vary somewhat, according to the exact wording of the lease, whatever that wording may be.—LAW EDITOR.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you kindly give your opinion on the following deal as to whether the agent is entitled to his commission: A employed B to exchange or sell his mill property, and agreed to pay a certain amount of commission. B found that C had seven new houses not quite completed. Brought A and C together, and after A had seen the houses nd agreed to entertain a deal for them they went into contract, C giving certain securities to A to complete the buildings. Ten days later, titles passed and securities accepted, title recorded. A few days after title was passed C wanted A to surrender securities already given and take other securities in place. A withholds B's commission pending his decision whether he will accept the other securities offered, claiming deal is not consummated. B protested, claiming his work was done. BROKER.

Answer.—B is entitled to his commission without regard to any change in those securities. It should have been paid to him at once.—LAW EDITOR.

With the beginning of winter and its requirements in this line, the suggestion that Louis Gehlert, whose establishment is at No 204 East 18th street, is a good man to apply to for such goods, is not untimely.

MORTGAGES.

Note. The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general date used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.
